The All-Wing Plane.
Somebody's Son.
Ogden L. Mills' Figures.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

LOS ANGELES, Feb 10.

"SHELL" OIL, British concern, challenging American oil men in their own territory, orders five flying machines to speed up business. The example was set, when Standard of Indiana and other American oil companies sent their directors and salesmen flying, some years ago.

THE extraordinary energy of the "Shell-Deterding" organization, annoys some American oil men, no doubt.

But as they have always preached the great value of competition as compared with anything like public ownership, the oil corporations will doubtless welcome the British display of competing energy.

IN DEVELOPING airplanes, the important thing is for engineers to think about flying, without any imitation of birds or any animal or thing now existing.

Railroads would not have gone far if locomotive builders had tried to imitate the swift deer, producing a machine with four powerful legs, or levers, pushing along the tracks like the legs of a running deer.

THE Northrop Air Corporation, division of United Aircraft, has demonstrated something new here. The new plane, the "Northrop All-Wing," is a flying metal wing, free from the "parasite wind resistance" of struts and other encumbrances, to retard the plane's motion.

Able engineers interested in the new plane believe that, with the same horsepower, it will increase speed by from 25 to 30 per cent.

YOUNG Mr. MacDonald, son of the British Prime Minister, leaves Los Angeles tomorrow for Washington, and, setting a good example, goes by airplane.

The younger MacDonald, wise young man, observes American conditions closely and refuses to be taken too seriously, saying "I am only somebody's son."

There is a big difference between saying that and saying as some of our rich young gentlemen do, "I am the son of SOMEBODY."

OGDEN L. MILLS, under secretary of the United States Treasury, in a few words, convinces you that this country has genuine prosperity, if prosperity consists in getting more of life's good things than anybody else gets.

THE United States has only 7 per cent of the world's population and yet, says Mr. Mills, "that 7 per cent consumes approximately 48 per cent of the world's coffee, 53 per cent of the tin, 56 per cent of the crude rubber, 21 per cent of the sugar, 72 per cent of the raw silk, 36 per cent of the coal, 42 per cent of the pig iron, 47 per cent of the copper and 69 per cent of the crude petroleum.

"Out of nearly 22,000,000 automobiles in the world on January 1, 1929, more than 24,000,000 were owned in the United States."

We certainly get our share. Perhaps the League Court will tell us we get too much.

LONG ago, good missionaries went to Batavia, N. Y., to convert the red men.

Chief Red Jacket who now has his fine bronze statue in a Buffalo park, listened patiently, to the story of the Crucifixion, and said:

"If you white men killed your God, that is shameful. But it is your affair, not ours. If he had come to us we should have given him a wigwam and treated him kindly. Do not try to make us responsible for what you white men did."

THE death of Chief Big Spring, the best and once the richest Indian of the Glacier National Park reservation, reminds you that the Indian is still kind hearted and generous, at least sometimes.

When severe weather in 1919 and 1920 reduced many Indians almost to starvation, Chief Big Spring killed his cattle, distributing the beef among them, and gave his horses to those that had none. He died very poor.

Doubtless however, the Angel Gabriel kept a record of his deeds, and he will be rewarded as though he had been white.

PHYSICAL limitations of the "Texas cattle tick" arouse the sympathies of proud man because of his mental limitations. The state of Mississippi has built a double row barbed wire fence sixty miles long, the two rows of fencing fifteen feet apart.

TICKS, falling from cattle on the far side of the fence, can never reach Mississippi's cows, because the tick with his eight legs travels so slowly, that it would take him one year to go ten feet. And he lives only about eight months.

Man living about three score and ten, with all his struggling travels only a few inches intellectually, in that period and dies without getting anywhere, "mentally," and dies, as he was born, WONDERING.

IN CHINA thousands die every day of cold and starvation. Millions of Chinese it is said are doomed to death without hope of escape.

The American China-Famine Relief Fund, contributes generously. But to the average Westerner news of China is like news from the planet Mars. It does not seem real or important.

Lewis-Grundy Slate Indicated

FISHER SEES SENATOR, MELLON

Governor May Not Go Along In Plan—Factional Fight Threatens State G. O. P.

Grundy and Lewis.

That is the ticket indicated today with the announcement by former State Treasurer Samuel S. Lewis, that he is a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor. Joseph R. Grundy, junior United States Senator, previously had announced as a candidate for the full Senate term.

The Lewis announcement came from Harrisburg after Gov. John S. Fisher and Senator Grundy had held a breakfast conference with A. W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, in Washington. Whether it was significant time alone will tell.

FISHER VS. LEWIS?

The Lewis announcement means one of two things—either that Gov. Fisher failed to swing the Mellon influence to Benson E. Taylor, secretary of property and supplies, or that the governor is going to wage a lone fight against Lewis.

Yesterday in Pittsburgh the governor conferred with former State Chairman W. L. Mellon relative to slating candidates. They failed to agree. Early today Fisher appeared at the A. W. Mellon apartment for breakfast with Senator Grundy. Gov. Fisher favored Grundy, whom he appointed United States senator, and Taylor. Mellon was non-committal.

Grundy, it is known, is favorable to Lewis, although Fisher was

RT. REV. STEHLE NEAR DEATH

While the Rt. Rev. Aurelius Stehl, O. S. B., archabbot of St. Vincent's arch abbey at Latrobe, Pa., lay dying in St. Francis Hospital today, a cablegram was received from Rome to impart the special blessing of the Holy Father, Pope Pius XI. The Rev. Felix Fellner, O. S. B., hastened to the bedside of the arch abbot to impart the blessing.

The arch abbot has been a patient at St. Francis Hospital since January 23, suffering from a complication of diseases, together with a complete breakdown. Today it was stated at the hospital that his death is a matter of a few hours.

Foster Sees Russia's Industry Pass U. S.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—(INS.)—Russia's industrial development will overtake that of the United States in "15 years at the outside," in the opinion of William Z. Foster, Communist party leader in America, who was in New York today after a visit to Russia.

He said he based his opinion on "spectacular progress in Russia's five-year plan, progressive elimination of unemployment and raising of standards."

Jilted Married Woman Shoots Man, Ends Life

MRS. ELLA OWENS

Mrs. Owens who because of jealousy shot and seriously wounded Charles F. Bankert in her North Side home and then killed herself during the absence of her husband, according to detectives.

North Side Husband Absent As Tragedy Flares From Jealousy in Hidden Love

Jealousy caused the shooting of Charles F. Bankert, 50, of 708 Taylor avenue, North Side, and the suicide of Mrs. Ella Owens, 44, of 1119 Pennsylvania avenue, homicide detectives today said they were convinced.

Bankert, a Pennsylvania Railroad engineer, was in a critical condition in the Presbyterian Hospital with a bullet wound below his heart, which penetrated his lung.

Mrs. Owens, according to detectives, shot Bankert and then ended her own life in the hall on the second floor of her apartment last night. William F. Viney, who lives on the second floor, heard two shots shortly before 11 o'clock. Running into the hallway, he found the two lying on the floor, the woman with a revolver in her hand. Viney called police, but when they arrived Mrs. Owens was dead.

BORAH, GLASS FIGHT HUGHES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(AP.)—Increasing opposition to Charles Evans Hughes as chief justice of the United States developed in the Senate today.

Senators Borah (Rep.), Idaho, and Glass (Dem.), Virginia, were listed among the opponents of the former Supreme Court jurist and Republican presidential nominee, as Senate leaders began to sound out sentiment preparatory to resuming consideration of the Hughes nomination late this afternoon.

There were indications that Borah would follow up the attack launched in the Senate yesterday by Senator Norris (Rep.), of Nebraska.

Administration leaders, however, were confident of early confirmation of Hughes despite the unexpected opposition.

WATSON CONFIDENT

Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, predicted a "very decisive majority" for confirmation.

Most of the Democrats were said to be in favor of confirmation. Senator Walsh, of Montana, the acting Democratic leader, voted for a favorable report of the

EXPLOSIONS, FIRE SINK LINER

Hull on New York Tube Roof, Tunnel Traffic Is Stopped; 40 Leap in Water, Escape

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—The North German Lloyd liner Muenchen sank at her Hudson River dock today following a fire and four explosions occurring seconds apart.

The hull lies directly above the uptown Hudson tunnels, and all traffic through these tubes has been ordered withdrawn. City officials explained that it was feared another terrific explosion, such as shook the whole waterfront before the liner sank, might crack the tubes.

The ship had just docked at her pier, after one of the roughest passages in her history, and the 263 passengers barely had disembarked, when three explosions rocked the liner from stem to stern. Flames, mast high, leaped from her hold. A fourth explosion shattered the liner as firemen arrived.

Many passengers still were on the pier, having their baggage examined by customs men. They were ordered off the scene as the flames spread.

"EVERY MAN OVERBOARD"

A cry of "every man overboard" was sounded, and all members of the crew leaped to the water.

They were picked up by firemen and by tugs standing by.

Five firemen and Mrs. Josephine Gehrke, 50, a cabin stewardess, were injured by the fourth explosion. A seaman was overcome by smoke.

The force of the fourth blast was terrific. One fireboat pilot was blown completely off the Muenchen.

Scorching heat followed the flames. Fear was expressed by firefighters that poisonous gasses might drift from her holds and further hamper the work. However, the flames had gained such headway that there was little hope of saving the ship.

INFLAMMABLE CARGO

The flames spread to the Lackawanna Railway tug Newton, but were extinguished.

The Muenchen carried a highly-inflammable cargo of shellacs and paints.

Fear was expressed for the safety of the dock and for neighboring ships, and fire fighters were considering sending in a general alarm when the ship started to sink.

Slowly, almost majestically, she settled into the water stern first. Firemen rushed to the bow of the ship and, as the giant liner sank, 40 firemen jumped from her bow into the icy water.

The Muenchen had just come in from Bremen and was to sail tomorrow.

She was built in 1922 and made her maiden voyage to New York in July, 1923, being the first German ship since the war to enter the harbor.

She was of 13,483 tonnage, and had capacity for 500 cabin passengers, 258 tourist class and 177 third class. She carried a crew of 360 officers and men.

The Muenchen's length was 551 feet and she was 65 feet across beams.

In shipping circles the value of the liner was placed at between $2,500,000 and $3,000,000 without cargo.

Prince of Wales Arrives at Mombasa

To Marry Duquesne Man

WINS DAUGHTER OF FILM ACTOR

The engagement of Josephine Bushman, daughter of Francis X. Bushman, motion picture actor, to a former resident of Duquesne, John William Foster, has just been made public.

The bride-to-be has never been on the stage.

Foster was born in Duquesne 35 years ago. His father, Thomas J. Foster, lives at Center and Oak streets. Foster graduated from high school, attended night classes and then became a salesman for a large corporation, selling air and gas products. Later he was sent to Baltimore as district sales manager. There he met Miss Bushman at her mother's home last April. Foster is now general sales manager of the company with headquarters in St. Louis. According to Mrs. Bushman, the wedding will take place in St. Louis in April.

Announcement of the engagement of Josephine Bushman follows confirmation of the report that her sister, Lenore Bushman, is to marry Dean Markham, Hollywood bookseller.

CAR RIDERS SHOWERED BY FLYING DEBRIS

Shattered Glass From Room Of Victim Falls Upon Alighting Passengers

A 35-year-old widow was burned to death by flames which followed a gas blast in a rooming house at 6 East North avenue, North Side, this afternoon.

The blast was heard within a distance of 300 yards and falling glass from the shattered windows of the bedroom showered passengers leaving a street car beneath, but none was reported hurt.

VICTIM VISITOR

The widow was Mrs. Ida Ward, of Washington, D. C., who came to Pittsburgh last Sunday to visit the landlady, Mrs. Anna Scott, a distant relative.

Inasmuch as there were no eyewitnesses in the house, the police were unable to establish definitely what had taken place, but this is the theory:

Mrs. Ward lighted the open gas heater in her bedroom and went to the bathroom. When she returned she saw that the gas had been blown out, presumably by a draft from an open window. She struck a match to relight the gas and the collected gas exploded.

CLOTHING AFIRE

The flames set fire to Mrs. Ward's clothes and she was dead before the Allegheny Hospital was reached. The fire itself was confined to the room.

Eugene Klingler, 19, of 2789 Liberty avenue, was standing on the corner with a friend when they heard the blast.

"We ran to the house," Klingler said. "The door was locked. We pushed it in and ran to the third floor. My buddy grabbed some blankets and wrapped them around the woman, who was lying on the floor. My buddy was carrying her out when firemen came in."

Fair and Warmer Weather Forecast

Fair weather will prevail today, with rising temperatures replacing the chilling blasts of yesterday and last night, Forecaster W. S. Brotzman said. Temperatures of about 30 degrees were recorded this morning, but a general rise was expected later today.

A high wind made the temperatures of yesterday seem much lower than they really were, the forecaster stated. The wind reached a velocity of 34 miles, Brotzman said.

"Where did you get it?" Judge Harry H. Rowand asked.

"Around here," Stehle answered, and refused to elaborate.

The judge ruled that Stehle should not be paid for his 10 days' service.

Pittsburgh Man Leaves Business to Employes

J. A. Herman Junker, business man and Mason, died today in his home at 1022 North Negley avenue after a long illness.

Coincident with his death came the announcement that his Water street leather business, conducted for many years under his own name, would pass to his son and a number of the veteran employes. This practice he had inaugurated in 1920 when the business establishment of his wife, a florist, was given to employes at her death.

Mr. Junker was born in McKeesport December 8, 1852. He spent his spare time after school in his father's tannery, and in 1869 entered his father's business in Pittsburgh—the Junker Dietrick & Co. In 1897 he succeeded his brother, Barnhardt L. Junker, conducting the establishment until 1921 when it was incorporated.

Prominent in Masonry, he became a Sovereign Grand Inspector General of the Thirty-third degree in 1903, and in 1911 and 1912 was Grand Commander of the Knights Templar. He was a member of Bethany Lutheran Church.

Mr. Junker's first wife was Miss Albertina Erenwein, who left two children, William and Mrs. Charles J. Fite. After her death he married Mrs. E. A. Williams, well-known florist, after whose death, in 1921, he gave the florist business to employes.

He was a member of the Duquesne Club, Chamber of Commerce and the National Leather and Shoe Finders' Association.

Kline Shuns Move to Aid Public in Cab Strike

"As I remarked during the Liberty Dairy Products Company's strike, I am neither a strike-maker nor a strike-breaker," was Mayor Charles H. Kline's answer when asked if he planned to do anything with a view to ending the taxi drivers' strike.

"Both sides are satisfied with my attitude," he said.

It was suggested to Mayor Kline that the public was also to be considered, and he was asked if he did not think the situation warranted the operation of buses by the city, as Mayor Hylan of New York operated them during a similar emergency there.

But Kline was not interested, and had nothing to say in answer to the suggestion.

FRANCE, JAPAN BLOCK ABOLITION OF SUBMARINE WARFARE

U. S.-BRITAIN LOSE FIGHT AT PARLEY

Compromise for 'Humanizing' Activities of Undersea Craft Considered Likely

LONDON, Feb. 11.—(AP.)—Submarines were virtually assured of a new lease on life as weapons of war during a ...ic debate at a plenary ...n of the naval conference ...

Out of the wealth of eloquent pleas either for or against the retention of these weapons grew formal resolutions which were generally taken as meaning that submarines will be continued but that their activities will be "humanized" and that an effort will be made to restrict their number.

BACKS U. S.

...the United States and Great Britain for the abolition of submarines and France and Japan for their retention, holding to their thesis that they would not surrender this arm of their navies. Italy agreed in principle with America and Great Britain, but with reservations which would safeguard her interests as com... those of other powers. ...rime Minister MacDon... formally opened the ses... Alexander, first lord of ... ...rally, rose amid great silence and in measured tones declared Great Britain's belief that submarines should be wiped from the navies of the world. The French and Japanese delegations listened with particular intentness as he declared with emotion that submersibles were "not defensive, but inhuman offensive weapons."

Great Britain, he said, wanted abolition, but if this could not be achieved, then she stood for the humanizing of submarine warfare and the limitation of size and numbers.

The chief American delegate, Secretary of State Stimson, followed and began his address with one of those crisp statements for which he has become famous among the naval conferees.

THREE PROPOSALS

Briefly he amplified this declaration and later handed in a resolution calling for the committee to study three questions:

1—Abolition of the submarine.

2—Regulation of use in wartime.

3—Regulation of unit and size of undersea craft.

In other words he, like Mr. Alexander, opened the road for a compromise with France which, it was known, would agree to humanizing the submarine, but would flatly refuse to accept abolition.

Then came Georges Leygues, French minister of marine. In rapid staccato sentences he declared that France declined to abandon submarines. She considered them necessary defensive weapons. He left no doubt that his country was adamant in this stand, but he tendered an olive branch in proposing that the committee study the proposition for ...ing not only sub... ...re but the activities ...f warships, ... of Dino Grandi, ...n minister, was a diplomatic reiteration of her standpoint which since the beginning of the conference has been for naval equality with France. ...Mussolini's spokesman ...taly did not object in ... abolition, but if subs ...re done away with, all ... must participate and there also must be reduction in other categories of ships.

JAPAN'S CONTENTION

...day's session, and ...eling among the ...at it was notable ...iscussed a delicate ... had still come through with a note of compromise in the air.

Prime Minister MacDonald, speaking to newspapermen immediately after the session, declared that the greatest achievement of the conference thus far was that five nations with separate natural needs had conferred for three weeks and had emerged at the end more harmonious than when they started.

There was a general feeling that the question of submarines had now been virtually settled for the present. The committee will study the resolution and out of this study it is expected will emerge an agreement for "humanizing" submersibles and perhaps for limiting their number and size.

Weather Conditions.

The skies are mostly clear over the eastern half of the country, under the influence of a high pressure centered over West Virginia and which covers the states east of the Mississippi. The high also caused a decided drop in temperature throughout its area. Following this high is a low pressure area of marked intensity centered over Manitoba, where barometer reported 29.16 inches at Minnedosa. It is causing some cloudiness over the far North, and a rapid rise in temperature over the country from the Pacific Coast states to the Mississippi valley and from Canada to Texas. There is no zero weather on the map this morning except over Ontario and Quebec.

The coldest weather of the winter has set in over Central Alaska. The latest reports from that section (8 p. m. yesterday) were 42 degrees below zero at Tanana, and 12 degrees below at Eagle, in the Klondike section.

River Conditions.

The rivers are stationary. River at Franklin is 4.1 feet. Look No. 7 is 13.5. Pittsburgh, 12.8. Dam No. 4, 10.0. Dam No. 6, 6.9. Dam No. 8, 9.5 and Dam No. 12, 6.5. The dams are up.

COUNTY MAKES 2 POOL RAIDS

County detective squads invaded the Hill district today and raided two alleged clearing house pool headquarters.

Visiting 1600 Center avenue, detectives under James S. McKinley arrested Nathan Mattes, of that address, alleged proprietor, confiscated four adding machines and bundles of books and other paraphernalia used, they said, in the "number racket."

Another squad under Detective Joseph Bodner raided 515 Wylie avenue, arrested James Smith and seized one adding machine and complementary equipment.

Both Mattes and Smith were to be given hearings today before Alderman George J. Anderson on charges of operating a lottery.

4-DEATH BLAST HELD ACCIDENT

The gas explosion which wiped out a family of four in their apartment at 1011 Fourth street, North Braddock, on February 1, was accidental, a coroner's jury agreed today.

The victims were Mr. and Mrs. James Wolford, Jack Wolford, 6, and Lucille Wolford, 3.

The gas blamed for the explosion was not definitely traced. There was testimony that after the blast several small leaks and a partly-open connection were found, but it was suggested that the explosion had caused this condition.

The testimony of two witnesses seemed to conflict. Dr. Samuel Rouse related that before she died Mrs. Wolford said, "I awoke in bed and smelled gas." William J. Bolena, of 517 Seddon street, North Braddock, quoted Mrs. Wolford as having repeated: "Jim and his cigarets! Jim and his cigarets!"

Oftedal Selection as Dry Czar Rumored in Capital

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(AP.)—Department of Justice officials today said that Alf Oftedal, former assistant commissioner of prohibition, had not conferred with Attorney General Mitchell here yesterday relative to his appointment as prohibition commissioner as had been reported in San Francisco.

It was also said that nothing was known of the reported move to place Oftedal in charge of the prohibition enforcement unit after its contemplated transfer from the Treasury to the Justice Department.

'JURYLESS' DRY TRIAL PLAN DROPPED

Strong Opposition Results in Abandonment of Part of Hoover Board's Program

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(AP.)—Indefinite postponement of action on the Christopherson bills to give federal commissioners the power to try minor prohibition cases was announced today by the House Judiciary Sub-Committee after an executive session.

The bills embodied recommendations made by the Hoover Law Enforcement Commission. Chairman Wickersham, of the commission, and Dean Roscoe Pound, of Harvard, a commission member, appeared before the committee last week in support of the measures.

Members of the Judiciary Committee indicated after the meeting today that the bills had met strong opposition and that it was felt the provisions of the measures were unconstitutional because they denied the right to a trial by jury. Further it was indicated several members felt that they would not bring about the purpose for which they were drawn—relief of congestion in federal courts.

The $15,000,000 appropriation for the Prohibition Bureau was left undisturbed by the Senate Appropriations Committee today in reporting to the Senate the annual supply measure for the Treasury and Postoffice Departments.

Senator Harris (Dem.), Georgia, who initiated a move last session for an increase in this appropriation, said he had made no effort in the committee for an increase this time, pending completion of dry legislative program in Congress.

START RUM RING ROUNDUP

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—(INS.)—Deputy United States marshals and assistant United States district attorneys departed to all parts of the country today to serve warrants upon the 151 men and five women named with many industrial concerns in wholesale indictments returned by the federal grand jury charging violation of the prohibition law.

At the same time rumors were current in the federal building here that Prohibition Commissioner Doran, expected here tonight, planned a drastic shakeup in the Chicago prohibition force with the probable ouster of Director E. C. Yellowley.

The sweeping grand jury action unmasked the existence of a stupendous liquor ring operating in all parts of the United States with headquarters here. For years this ring had been diverting industrial alcohol into bootlegging channels. It is believed the indictments were merely the opening gun of federal prosecutors. It was regarded as significant that the first indictment named not a single prohibition official or agent and not one of the gangsters recognized in wholesale liquor distributing circles.

Doran, asked in Milwaukee if Yellowley would be removed, refused to comment and when then asked if this meant Yellowley would not be ousted he said emphatically: "It does not." He was to confer with his subordinate tonight.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 11.—(AP.)—Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran at a conference with district enforcement officers today said that wholesale indictments of firms "contributing to prohibition law violations" would be continued with the hope of obtaining an interpretation of the scope of the Eighteenth Amendment.

TULLY FLOORS GILBERT

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 11.—(INS.)—Hollywood's film colony was astir today with the news of a fist fight between Jack Gilbert, screen idol, and Jim Tully, novelist. The outbreak came several nights ago as a climax to a mutual dislike which has smoldered between the two for two years.

The battle was staged in a cafe and lasted only one round, ending when Gilbert was knocked down amid a profusion of overturned chairs, disarranged tables and startled onlookers.

Tully was seated with May Cruze and Nicholas Kelly when Gilbert and his party entered. The screen actor removed his coat and hurried to the writer's table where an exchange of words was followed by blows.

Bystanders interfered when Gilbert was felled. He was induced to leave, Ina Claire, his wife, joining him on the way out.

"I only did what any man would have done under the circumstances," Gilbert explained at Palm Springs, where he and his wife are spending a vacation. He was reluctant to discuss the episode.

Gilbert is said to have held a grudge against Tull since the novelist wrote an article about Gilbert which appeared in a magazine.

TAXI ATTACK DAMAGES AUTO

Stones Miss Cab and Break Windows; Extra Police Sent to Patrol East End

Two windows of an innocent bystander's automobile were broken today when stones thrown at a Yellow taxi at Melwood street and Baum boulevard missed the cab and landed in the car.

Morris Rosen, of 1515 North Lang avenue, driver of the car, reported the affair to police.

Immediately afterward emergency police squads on taxicab strike detail were dispatched to the East End district, as the Green Cab planned resumption of service from the Melwood street garage.

MORE CABS TO RUN

Fifty Green cabs will be placed in operation tomorrow morning, Paul Houston, president of the Green Cab Company, announced today.

The additional cabs will bring operation up to between 15 and 20 per cent of normal, according to unofficial estimates.

Two score of Green cabs were moved from the Ellsworth avenue garage to the Melwood street garage this afternoon under police escort.

Representatives of the Yellow and Green Cab companies intimated that pickets would be removed from the cabs within a week.

BLOOMFIELD ATTACK

A cab was stoned this morning in Bloomfield, but none was injured.

One minor case was reported downtown. A brick tossed at a cab missed its target and smashed a window of the Cunard Steamship Company office in the Chamber of Commerce Building.

Early today the windows of another cab were smashed with a brick hurled at Strawberry way and Liberty avenue. The cab guards chased the hurler, who escaped.

4 ARRESTED DOWNTOWN

Police were called out to Sixth street and Penn avenue early today when it was reported that occupants of two automobiles had engaged in a battle in which bottles were thrown. Four men were arrested. Two men and two women in one of the machines escaped.

Those arrested were Joseph Varley, 21, of 3327 Orpwood street; Ernest Pontier, 21, of 3329 Dawson street; James Larton, 28, of 1421 Nixon street, and Theodore Resulthko, 21, of 3329 Parkview avenue. Police say one of the prisoners and the men that escaped are striking drivers, and that the three other prisoners had been trailing them. In Central Police Court Larton was fined $25 or 10 days in jail. The others were discharged.

Two Yellow Cab drivers were arrested downtown last night for blocking traffic, police say. They are James Wallace, 23, of Bridgeville, and Ellsworth Blair, 24, of 2 Rosa street.

BERKEY TRIAL NEAR JURY

A federal jury of 12 men today was preparing to decide whether Judge John A. Berkey and 12 other politicians and alleged bootleggers of Somerset County were guilty of conspiring to violate the liquor laws.

Defense counsel and the prosecution presented their closing arguments this afternoon. With Judge F. P. Schoonmaker's charge, the jury was to retire to its deliberations.

WITNESS FLAYED

The government's star witness, Claude A. M. Welsh, former political lieutenant of Berkey, was the target for the barbs of Percy Allen Rose, one of the defense counsel.

Welsh should be likened to Judas or Benedict Arnold, the traitor, Rose told the jury.

It was Welsh who testified that Berkey engineered the sale of protection to Somerset bootleggers and built his campaign funds on slot-machine receipts.

ORDERS TWO ACQUITTED

The government's prosecutor, Special Assistant Attorney General J. L. Coldiron, painted Berkey as "the cause" of the conspiracy.

"The day has passed when a judge can consort with bootleggers," Coldiron asserted. "Berkey is the man responsible for Welsh's character as it is today."

There were 15 defendants when the trial began nine days ago, but yesterday Judge Schoonmaker announced that he would instruct the jury to acquit R. E. Buckman and Ed Sheeler, holding that a case had not been made out against them.

Large New York Hotel Faces Dry Padlock

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—(AP.)—The Hotel Manger, one of the newest and largest hostelries in the city, situated in the heart of the theatrical district, faced padlock proceedings today as the result of a raid by federal prohibition agents.

A squad of 25 federal agents descended upon the hotel last night and arrested 13 men. The prisoners consisted of two bootleggers, six bellboys and five waiters.

Maj. Maurice Campbell, prohibition administrator in the New ...rk district, said warrants had ...n issued for eight other bell...s, a head waiter, a captain of ...fters and two other bootleggers. The raid was conducted under warrants obtained from United States Commissioner Francis O'Neil in which violation of the prohibition law and aiding and abetting the maintenance of a nuisance were charged.

Considerable turmoil attended the raid. Maj. Campbell said, which was conducted with dramatic suddenness after several weeks of preparation.

Gas to Cool Residences As Well as Heat Them

Cooling dwellings by use of natural gas as well as heating them will be a reality within another year.

R. A. Cameron, general sales manager of the Manufacturers Light and Heat Company made the announcement to the representatives of natural gas companies from all parts of the United States, meeting in the Hotel Schenley today.

Engineers independent of gas companies, he said, are now working on the plans. Gas users will be able to install in their hot-air gas furnaces a contrivance which by the use of silicel-jel, a silicon compound heated by gas, will dehydrate the air, to produce cooler temperatures.

Mr. Cameron assured the convention that gas is being found in such quantities in all parts of the United States, that there is no limit to the supply.

At the moment, three of Pittsburgh's leading gas companies are engaged in teaching industrial users how to get the most heat units out of gas for each dollar spent.

FIRESTONE, FORD HUMOR INVENTOR

First of 'Goldenrod Rubber' Ready 'In 2 or 3 Years'; World Joins in Tribute

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

FORT MYERS, Fla., Feb. 11.—Thomas A. Edison, world famous inventor, declared today on his eighty-third birthday that the American people could accomplish more in the next year "by paying more attention to engineers than politicians."

He said he thought the five-day week "O K" and declared that the field of chemistry and physics offered the greatest field for opportunity. He expressed the opinion that the London naval conference would arrive at a sane compact to bring about a reduction in armament.

Edison, inventor of the electric light, the phonograph, the motion picture camera and numerous other devices, seemed in excellent health, despite the fact that several months ago he suffered a severe attack of pneumonia. Asked "How old do you feel?" he replied:

NOW FEELS 85

"Generally about 50 years, but lately some microbes have spotted me and have done some experimenting with my internal machinery, so I feel about 85 years."

Mr. Edison received a corps of newspaper correspondents in his private office. He had been fishing and he smiled benignly upon the waiting reporters as he came in and took a seat at his desk.

He gave a low whistle as he surveyed the 24 questions that had been typewritten for him to answer. His deafness prevented him from replying verbally. Philosophically, he sharpened his pencil and set to work.

"In your opinion, when will television be practical for the home?" was one question.

"Some day," was Edison's evasive reply.

"In what age do you consider electrical development today—childhood, adolescence, maturity or old age?" was another question.

SMILES AT ANSWER

He smiled a bit as he wrote his answer to this question: "Can you tell us of the greatest disappointment you encountered in your work; also the greatest satisfaction?"

"I am always disappointed until a problem is solved," he replied. "Not more than one out of 20 of the details works at first."

Aviation he touched on lightly. Asked his attitude toward commercial aviation, he replied:

"Do more experimenting to increase safety before commercializing too much."

"Do you think a young man graduated from high school would derive greater benefit by spending four years at the average modern university or by entering business immediately?" he was asked.

"The way things are today, I should say enter business," was Edison's reply.

A smile spread over Mr. Edison's features as he read the next question: "Do you think there is life on other planets besides the earth, and do you think we may some day communicate with them. "I could guess, but won't," he wrote.

"What is the greatest educational force operative today?" was another question.

EDUCATION'S GREAT FORCE

"Young men's desire for a technical education," was his reply.

"What will become of the common laborer when the full automatic machine eliminates hand work?" was another.

"He will own a home and a lot of new things providing alcohol does not interfere."

Edison was specific on the prohibition situation. His answer was no to the query: "Would proposed modification of the Volstead law to permit home manufacture of light wine and beer help the cause of temperance?" Asked if he thought "absolute" prohibition would ever be accomplished in the United States he said "yes."

'RUBBER' READY SOON

He said he expected that the first single unit of "goldenrod rubber" would be perfected in two or three years and that he "probably will perfect it at Henry Ford's place near Savannah, Ga."

His private office was filled with letters and congratulatory telegrams from all parts of the world.

Ford, Harvey S. Firestone and other old friends were at the estate. They also took part in the unveiling of a memorial plaque in Evans Park in honor of the famous inventor. The dedication address was made by Dr. Hamilton Holt, president of Rollins College, who referred to Mr. Edison as "one of the immortals of all time."

The inventor received many birthday gifts. One he most appreciated was a yellow beach chair from Mrs. Edison.

DONNIE MAY GO TO FATHER

NEW CASTLE, Feb. 11.—If Homer Schroeder wants custody of his 4-year-old son, Donnie, whose boyish boast, "Mama shot a cop," landed the blonde trigger woman, Irene Schroeder, and her sweetheart in jail on charges of murder in the slaying of Corp. Brady Paul, he can have him with welcome, as far as Lawrence County authorities are concerned, it became known today.

To keep Donnie in the custody of County Probation Officer Jack Dunlap, in whose care he was placed by the courts after being brought here from the home of his uncle in Bellaire, O., is costing the county $8 a day. His keep, according to authorities, is estimated at $3 per day, and since being placed under bail as a material witness it was learned he is entitled to $5 a day remuneration.

The boy's father, Homer Schroeder, from whom he was taken by the mother several years ago, is reported en route here to claim the child. Henry Schroeder, a brother, called Dunlap to inquire about the child and asked if he would be released in the father's custody. The uncle said he had received a letter from the father postmarked at Amarillo, Tex.

As the day for the trial of the blonde and Walter Glenn Dague approaches, attorneys representing the pair indicated they would not seek a change of venue. In such an event, Prosecutor John E. Powers revealed, the trial will be cut at least a full day.

Both Irene and Dague can be tried at the same time, but, inasmuch as separate informations have been made against them, it is assumed that they will be tried separately. Irene, it is thought, will be called first.

KILLER CLEARS 2 AT TRIAL

The defense for William Sled and William Walker, Negroes, on trial charged with the murder of William J. Kretz, Sr., in the Kretz drugstore at 1800 Webster avenue, scored a point in Criminal Court today when Maring Avery, 23, Negro, confessed killer, repudiated a confession involving the two.

Avery disowned his statement to the police that Sled and Walker accompanied him on the hold-up which produced the murder.

"It was two other fellows," Avery testified, "and I did the shooting. I was full of whisky."

Avery took the stand as a defense witness. He himself has pleaded guilty to the murder.

Mine Blast Murder Brings Life Term

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Feb. 11.—(AP.)—Joseph Richardson, 37, Negro, pleaded guilty to a charge of first degree murder and was sentenced today to life imprisonment. He was charged with having set off a charge of powder in a coal mine, killing Horace Sims, 37, Negro, as he walked to his work.

The plea was the first of its kind ever entered in Monongahia County. Prosecuting Attorney Albert Shuman, who recommended a life sentence after the plea of guilty had been entered, said Richardson's love for the wife of his victim was the motive for the slaying.

RULING TODAY IN DANCER'S SUIT

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 11.—(AP.)—Superior Court Judge Harry R. Archbald today will rule whether the $30,000 breach of contract suit brought by Dolores Salazar, Spanish dancer, against Ferdinand Pinney Earle, artist, will be decided by the jury or whether a verdict will be directed for the defendant.

Attorneys for Earle yesterday entered a motion for a directed verdict, basing their contention on the ground Miss Salazar was not induced to marry the artist on a promise of money but that she was "swept off her feet by Earle's love-making." The defense also contended the girl knew that Earle was married at the time she accompanied him to Mexico City, where she charges a mock marriage ceremony was performed, and later to Paris.

Judge Archbald, after hearing the motion in the absence of the jury, said his sympathies were with Miss Salazar, but he withheld decision.

The dancer is asking $15,000 for breach of an alleged prenuptial contract and $15,000 for a maintenance fund she alleged Earle promised her.

RADIO LOCATES WILKINS SHIP

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—(INS.)—After two weeks' silence, the missing steamship William Scoresby, with Capt. Sir Hubert Wilkins and three members of the Wilkins Antarctic exploration party aboard, has been heard from, according to a copyrighted dispatch to the New York American sent today from Deception Island.

The dispatch said that the base radio station at the island had received a message from one of the whalers searching the vast ice sea for the missing ship, stating the Scoresby had been heard from.

No details of the locating of the missing vessel were given.

At the base station plans were made at once to attempt to communicate with the Scoresby by radio. It was presumed Sir Hubert and his party are safe on board the vessel, in which they sailed to find a taking-off site for the explorer's proposed Ross Sea flight over the polar cap.

First attempts to communicate with the Scoresby by radio today were unsuccessful, the dispatch stated.

BYRD'S SUPPLY SHIP GROUNDS

LONDON, Feb. 11.—(INS.)—The Eleanor Bolling, supply ship for the Antarctic expedition headed by Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, ran aground near Dunedin, New Zealand, according to a Central News dispatch from Auckland.

The dispatch added that the commander of the ship hoped to refloat her shortly.

PARROT FEVER KILLS OFFICIAL

BALTIMORE, Feb. 11.—(AP.)—Dr. William Royal Stokes, 59, director of the Bureau of Bacteriology of the Baltimore Health Department, died here late last night of psittacosis, or parrot fever, from which he had been suffering for a fortnight.

He became infected while leading the fight of his department against the rare disease which made its appearance in the city soon after the first of the year. In his work he handled many diseased parrots.

A serum made from the blood of persons who had recovered from the malady was twice administered. For a time he appeared to rally but only to sink into another relapse.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(AP.)—Physicians at the Naval Hospital said today it had been definitely established that Dr. Charles Armstrong, bacteriologist of the Public Health Service, had psittacosis, or parrot's fever.

Dr. Armstrong developed the disease last Saturday, the day that Harry B. Anderson, attendant at the health service hygienic laboratory, died from the malady. Both contracted it while handling the bodies of dead parrots in an effort to find a cure for the disease that has caused deaths in widely scattered sections since its appearance several weeks ago.

Woman Says Lincoln Grew Beard to Please Child

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 11.—(INS.)—The little girl of 70 years ago who gave Abraham Lincoln the idea for the beard he wore after entering the race for President was en route from her Kansas home today to Springfield, Ill., to pay tribute to the memory of the Great Emancipator.

She is Mrs. Grace Billings, of Delvhos, Kan. She is 81 years old.

"I really believe I caused Mr. Lincoln to grow a beard," Mrs. Billings said during a visit here between trains.

Mrs. Billings was an 11-year-old girl in Westfield, N. Y., when she saw poster portraits of the smooth-faced Republican nominee for President. That was in October, 1860. She went home and scrawled a letter to "Hon. Abraham Lincoln, Esq., Springfield, Ill." It read:

"Dear Mr. Lincoln: I think you would look better with whiskers. Two of my brothers are Republicans, two are Democrats. I think I could get my Democratic brothers to vote for you if you wore a beard. The rail fence around your picture in the poster is very pretty. Have you any little girls?"

In a few days, the little girl received the following reply:

"My Dear Little Grace Bedell: Your very agreeable letter of the 15th received. I regret to say I have no little girl. I have three sons, one 17 years old, one 9 and one 7. Speaking of whiskers, don't you think people would call it a silly affectation if I should begin wearing whiskers?"

The following February Mr. Lincoln made a speech from the rear platform of his train at Westfield. At the end of his speech he told the crowd "I have a correspondent living here—Miss Grace Bedell."

"I was frightened; but stepped to the front," the aged pioneer woman said. "He climbed down and sat down with me on the edge of the station platform.

"'Gracie, look at my whiskers,' he said. 'I have been growing them for you.' Then he kissed me. I never saw him after that."

The letter Mr. Lincoln wrote is Mrs. Billings' most treasured possession. Her original letter, she said, is in the possession of George A. Dondero, of Detroit, who obtained it from the Lincoln family.

FREQUENT VISTOR

Bankert, whose wife died eight years ago, had been visiting the Owens' apartment of the third floor for the last five years, during the absence of the husband, Jesse M. Owens, traveling salesman for a North Side furniture firm, police were told. Viney told police that Owens apparently knew nothing of Bankert's visits to his apartment.

Early yesterday the woman's husband left for Jeannette, Pa. It was his custom, police quote Viney to leave on Mondays, and not return until Friday.

Mrs. Owens and Bankert had been quarreling for several weeks, presumably over another woman. Bankert was said to have met recently, it was said. Shortly before last night's shooting the woman and the railroader argued again. It was a few minutes after the argument that Viney heard two shots and found the pair.

READY TO QUIT

"We had an argument and I was going to quit her," Bankert told Homicide Detectives Frank Crowley and James O'Kane.

He made no mention of another woman, however, when questioned on that subject.

Preliminary investigation revealed, according to detectives, that Bankert had met the other woman recently and it was their belief that he was breaking with Mrs. Owens in favor of his new acquaintance.

Bankert has a married daughter in Pittsburgh whom detectives were trying to locate today. Mrs. Owens' husband could not be reached early today and efforts also were being made to communicate with him.

trying to get Grundy another running mate.

BROWN POSSIBILITY

In Philadelphia they have still another combination to offer the voters. Francis Shunk Brown has been put forward as a gubernatorial candidate. He is supposed to have the backing of the Vare interests.

William S. Vare, refused a seat in the Senate, has announced that he is a candidate for the office denied him.

Yet another combination appears in the offing. Gifford Pinchot, former governor, is expected to insert his candidacy for senatorship, which the voters denied him in the primaries several years ago.

James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor, who has been angling for support for governor from various sections, is by no means out of the race, and almost any combination is possible. If there cannot be a Vare-Brown ticket, it is said there may be a Vare-Davis ticket, with Pinchot running independently.

Chain Stores Looted Of $328, Merchandise

Thieves ransacked two chain stores early today, police learned, both in the East End district.

Gaining entrance through a transom at 504 North Highland avenue, the burglars secured $218 in cash from the register and a sack found beneath a counter.

Entrance was gained in a store at 706 Larimar avenue through a skylight. The thieves secured $62 in cash and $110 in cigarets and other merchandise.

Woman Held as Bad Check Passer

Charged with passing worthless checks on four department stores, Mrs. Irene Hamilton, 29, of 3014 Perrysville avenue, was held over for further investigation by Magistrate Thomas D. Jones in Morals Court today. The woman admitted passing the checks, six for a total of $30. One of them was signed "J. Alvin Orr."

Bars 'Back Talk,' Pair Fined $5 Each

Patrolman Michael Welsh doesn't like a girl to "talk back" to him, he admitted in Morals Court today.

Welsh arrested Mary J. Smith, 30, of 428 East Ohio street, and her escort, Edward Shaw, 30, of 1137 Ridge avenue, in their automobile at Federal and Ohio streets last night, he testified after the girl had said to him: "You're too smart because you have brass buttons on and think you can do as you please," when he questioned them.

The two prisoners were fined $5 each by Magistrate Thomas D. Jones.

Mother Rescues Five Children From Flames

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Feb. 11.—The five children of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Jones, of Northview, owe their lives to the heroic action of their mother. Their home caught fire and all were nearly suffocated. Mrs. Jones managed to push the children outdoors, and then fell in the doorway, overcome by smoke. Three fire departments checked the blaze.

McNeill Honored At St. Vincent's

Hugh A. McNeill, Jr., of Newton, Kan., has been voted the most popular student at St. Vincent College, Latrobe. McNeill, a junior in the college, is sports and associate editor of the College Journal and served as secretary of his class for the past two years.

H. A. McNeill, Jr.

He is also chairman of the Schools Press Club, a cheer leader, actor, master of ceremonies for the Glee Club and a radio announcer.

Hit-and-Run Driver Injures Motorist

Bellevue police are looking for a hit-and-run driver who yesterday struck and damaged the automobile driven by Charles H. Davis, 400 Orchard avenue, Bellevue, at Brighton road and Rankin street. According to police, Davis had halted at the stop-and-go lights at that corner when his machine was struck. The driver kept on going, but witnesses procured the fleeing machine's license number. Mr. Davis was slightly injured, but did not need medical attention.

MAYOR AGREES TO STRAWN AID

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—(INS.)—A dim ray of hope for emergency relief was seen today on Chicago's chaotic financial horizon when it was learned that Mayor William Hale Thompson had elected to cooperate with the Strawn Citizens' Relief Committee.

The mayor's refusal to cooperate with the committee headed by Silas H. Strawn has paralyzed negotiations for tax loans to procure emergency funds with which to pay 40,000 employes who have gone without their pay checks for nearly 10 months.

The county today began issuing charity food, clothing and fuel to the most needy.

Nearly a score of families already have applied for aid at the charity headquarters, it was stated by Joseph Moss, director of the County Bureau of public welfare.

Wife of Serb Prince Denies Reno Divorce

RENO, Nev., Feb. 11.—(INS.)—Princess Karageorgevitch, wife of Prince Nicholas of Serbia, today denied she was in Reno for the purpose of divorcing her husband, although it was reported here that the couple have separated and a divorce action started in Paris.

When the princess came here some years ago to obtain a divorce from a Brooklyn physician, she was known as Dorothy Snyder Cochrane.

Princess Mary's Bridesmaids All Wed

LONDON, Feb. 11.—(AP.)—Princess Mary's bridesmaids now are all married. The last to go to the altar is Lady Diana Bridgeman, the bride of Sir Robert Abdy.

CHICAGO DRIVE CUTS CRIME

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—(INS.)—Continuing their city-wide raids on dives and hoodlum hangouts, the police today had jailed 710 men since the showup Sunday.

The systematized drive on the underworld is showing definite results, police said, for only 13 robberies were reported during the last 24 hours.

This was a marked reduction in contrast to the past week's reign of terror which saw nine men slain by gangland's warring factions, a half dozen major bombings and countless holdups and robberies.

Five of those taken last night were charged with carrying concealed weapons and face penitentiary terms under the new procedure, along with 22 others taken in previous raids.

Of the 710 arrested, 65 were found to have criminal records when taken to the bureau of identification.

Giving the police the power of the grand jury in the cases of those carrying guns, Judge John F. McGoorty today started a campaign against terrorists which is aimed to do what the Sullivan law did for New York in striking fear to the heart of the criminal.

FIFTH MAN HELD IN HOUND FRAUD

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Feb. 11 (AP).—E. Ray Moody, formerly of Heber Springs, Ark., was arrested near Hendersonville, charged with being a member of an alleged "hound dog" mail fraud ring which is reported to have fleeced sportsmen in several states out of many thousands of dollars.

Federal officers who made the arrest said that Moody was the fifth man to be arrested in the case since an investigation was begun some time ago at the request of J. R. Russell, Los Angeles sportsman. The others reported held are Paul Davis, filling station operator of Charleston, Mo.; Robert Finley, an employe of Davis; Mack Lyons, of Lee Branch, Ark., and J. R. Pierce, of Arkansas.

The officers said that the men advertised trained dogs for sale, principally "coon hounds," and when orders were received shipped dogs that had not been trained at all. The men are charged in some instances of not making any deliveries after money had been accepted.

FINDING KNIVES BALKS MUTINY

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 11 (AP).—State Penitentiary Warden J. E. McClanahan announced that 24 knives and dirks had been seized from 50 prisoners in the saw mill camp at Angola penal farm.

Most of the instruments had been manufactured by the prisoners from scrap metal filched from the mill.

Warden McClanahan believed uncovering the weapons broke up incipient plans for mutiny. Similar searches are being made at other camps.

The prisoners were warned that further finds would bring an application of the lash.

Auto 'Graveyard' Claims Another Stolen Car

The "graveyard" claimed another victim of circumstance last night, but no trace of any person killed or injured could be found.

The graveyard is a secluded spot 200 feet below the Duquesne boulevard, near Kennywood Park, which, Mifflin Township police say, the favorite spot for automobile thieves to topple over stolen, stripped cars. The car wrecked last night was the property of John DeGrano, of 1312 Everett street, Wilkinsburg, according to Wilkinsburg police.

DeGrano told police his car was stolen from in front of his home last night. Later DeGrano examined the wreckage. Township police were conducting an investigation today.

NEW YORK JOB SLUMP GROWS

ALBANY, Ky., Feb. 11.—(AP.) Unemployment in New York State continued to grow during January to such an extent that factories were employing fewer workers than at any other time since the summer of 1930, Miss Frances Perkins, state industrial commissioner, reported. More than 100,000 persons have been laid off since the middle of October, she said.

The decrease in employment that comes annually from October to January was much greater than usual, Miss Perkins reported. The employment figure for January probably was the lowest for that month ever recorded, her statement said.

Obituary

King Funeral

Funeral services for Patrick S. King, state mine inspector for 16 years, who died Friday, were held yesterday. The body was sent to Scottdale for burial. He was a son of Austin King, at one time mining expert for the United States Steel Corporation. Mr. King was a member of Uniontown Council, Knights of Columbus, the Holy Name Society and St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church. He leaves his widow, four sons, John, Patrick, Austin and Francis, and two daughters, Mrs. J. Bell and Miss Mary King, of Pittsburgh.

Edward Allen Provost

Edward Allen Provost, of Kalamazoo, Mich., formerly of Pittsburgh, died late Sunday in the Mercy Hospital. He was the son of the late Robert Watson and Mary Jane Phillips Provost.

He leaves three children, Miss Violet Provost, of Pittsburgh; Allen C. and Clifford Provost, of Chicago; two brothers, John P. and George W.; three sisters, Miss Mary M. Provost and Mrs. Rudderow, of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. James M. Campbell, of Kalamazoo.

John F. Gillen

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Feb. 11.—John F. Gillen, 60, last surviving member of one of this city's most prominent families, died suddenly yesterday, following a heart attack. For years the family was engaged in the furniture and undertaking business.

Frank H. Meyer

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Feb. 11.—Frank H. Meyer, 55, real estate dealer and pioneer resident, is dead from apoplexy he suffered last March 6 while serving on the jury in Greensburg. He leaves his wife, Margaret, two sons, two daughters, a sister and a brother.

Suits and Coats At $25

As the winter fashion landscapes roll away a vista of new spring modes presents itself in our coat and suit sections.

We picture just two models here, but there are lots and lots of others. You'll find it quite surprising that so much chic is tailored into these garments at $25.

SUITS—Swagger little two-piece affairs of sharkskin cloth which is used in the smartest of the new tailored styles. Three-piece coverts with silk blouses, also tweeds, such as pictured. All at $25!

—Jonasson's Third Floor—

BELOW—New spring coat of tweed showing new cape and high belt. $25

ABOVE—New spring suit of tweed showing novel high buttoning and high placed belt. $25.

New Blouses $1.95

Dimities and Batistes in plain shades and printed patterns. One of plain batiste has a collar and bow which ingeniously adapts a handkerchief to its purpose. Others with frilled fronts and Peter Pan collars and many with dainty printed patterns as shown in the illustration above.

BLUE, GRAY PAY LINCOLN HONOR

VANDERGRIFT, Pa., Feb. 11.—Abraham Lincoln was the greatest friend the South ever had and if his life had been spared he would have prevented all the errors of reconstruction, declared Capt. J. E. Jenkins, veteran of the Confederate Army, at an observance of Lincoln's birthday here last night in which the Blue and Gray and their descendants joined on a common ground in doing honor to the memory of Lincoln.

The celebration was held under the auspices of the Daughters of Union Veterans who had as their guests members of the Pittsburgh Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy. It was the first time on record in which these organizations have fraternized.

They joined in spirited war songs of both North and South and in their addresses the speakers asserted that sectionalism had been effaced; that both sides had been loyal to their respective causes and that the courage of the men who died on the battlefield furnished a heritage of glory for all America.

The principal speakers were Capt. Jenkins, John M. George, a veteran of the Fourteenth Pennsylvania cavalry, Judge Elder W. Marshall, of Pittsburgh; Capt. Robert F. Metcalfe and Mrs. Metcalfe, vice-president of the Pittsburgh chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy; Mrs. Leonard Rawsthorne, and Mrs. Marshall, a former president of the chapter.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bair, president of Ida McKinley Tent of the Daughters of Union Veterans, presided, and Mrs. Lina Clawson sang favorite songs of the South. At the suggestion of a member of the Sons of Union Veterans all joined in singing "Dixie."

It was pointed out that Pennsylvania is erecting tablets on historic sites in the state commemorating the deeds of the Confederate Army and is leading the way in giving recognition to Southern heroes. It was voted to continue the courtesies between the Daughters of Union Veterans and the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

A NEW AND DIFFERENT REMEDY FOR RHEUMATISM

VOLZ ANTI-RHEUMIN GUARANTEED

A Godsend to Sufferers of Rheumatism, Lumbago, Arthritis

German medical scientists have perfected a new remedy for rheumatic ills that has startled the world with its amazing results. Volz Anti-Rheumin strikes directly at the base of all rheumatism: those venomous acids that cause such torturous swelling and unbeatable pain.

You owe it to yourself and family to try this wonderful remedy. It is different from anything else you ever heard of and will astound you with its quick relief.

Volz Anti-Rheumin works alone. No need for weakening steam treatments or messy massages. Buy a box from your druggist today. Follow the directions that are printed "in the booklet." Notice the quick results. Those swollen joints will assume their natural size and the nerve-racking pains will vanish like magic. The price per box is $2.50. You'll say Volz Anti-Rheumin is worth a thousand dollars. Hundreds of folks tell us it has accomplished wonders beyond their wildest dreams. Go to your druggist today. Ask for Volz Anti-Rheumin. Use one box. If you are not satisfied with the results, go back and demand your money. Could anything be fairer? Act now! The Volz Co., Erie, Pa.

Don't neglect a COLD

DISTRESSING cold in chest or throat—that so often leads to something serious—generally responds to good old Musterole with the first application. Should be more effective if used once every hour for five hours.

Working like the trained hands of a masseur, this famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other helpful ingredients brings relief naturally. It penetrates and stimulates blood circulation, helps to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by doctors and nurses.

Keep Musterole handy—jars and tubes.

To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

RUSS TO CANCEL GOLD RIGHTS

MOSCOW, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The Tass News Agency issued a statement that the Russian government intended to apply for cancellation of concessions agreements in the Lena River goldfields district, Siberia, accusing the concessionaires of failing to pay over part of the profits.

The statement read as follows:

"In connection with press reports concerning the Lena goldfields concessions the Tass representative is informed by the concessions committee that on December 3 the committee used its rights under the concession agreement and sent holders of concessions a written protest against their failure to pay over part of the profits. The committee stated that upon expiration of four months' notice as provided in the agreement, the government would apply to the arbitration court for cancellation of the agreements."

FUND FOR FREE COURSE GIVEN

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The University of Michigan has been given $20,000 by Charles Lathrop Pack of Lakewood, N. J., president of the American Tree Association, to establish a foundation for the promotion of practical forest land management. The fund is to be known as the George Willis Pack Forestry Foundation, in memory of the donor's father, a former president of Michigan.

Pack said the University of Michigan was chosen "on account of its prestige, its facilities for teaching the broad principles of all phases of practical forestry and its experienced staff."

Industrial Art Added to Course

CALIFORNIA, Pa., Feb. 11.—California State Teachers' College will embrace in its curriculum a course in industrial art. California and Millersburg colleges were named as the two state-maintained schools to embody the course in its training manuals beginning September 1.

The course will be instrumental in adding between 300 and 400 students to the enrollment.

SUSPECT KIN IN WOMAN KILLING

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 11. (AP) — Orin K. Kidd, brother-in-law of Mrs. Billie Payne, 33, whose mangled body was found on Long Beach boulevard in the Signal Hill district, Sunday, was booked here on suspicion of murder.

Deputy sheriffs declared they were dissatisfied with the story told by Kidd that he had left Mrs. Payne sitting on a curbing near Long Beach while he went for his car, and that when he returned she was gone.

The officers pointed out that Mrs. Payne's body was found at 3 a. m., less than three hours after Kidd, a bakery salesman, said he last saw her, and that she apparently had been dead much longer.

Ed Plasco, another brother-in-law of Mrs. Payne, also was questioned. Kidd and Mrs. Payne had been at Plasco's home earlier in the evening. The investigators said liquor had been served and that the woman was intoxicated when she left.

A theory that vengeful gangsters were responsible for the slaying still was being considered.

Mrs. Payne's estranged husband, Price E. Payne, Long Beach concessionaire, told police he had not seen his wife recently. They separated, he said, 17 days after their marriage, last August, when he learned of her friendship for a San Francisco man.

Chic Neckline Treatment

Pattern 1781

Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

A novel effect is created in this lovely afternoon frock, with an attractive collar that falls gracefully on the left side as a scarf. This may be worn as shown on the model or may be thrown around the neck in choker fashion. A circular flounce that points upward is charming on the skirt.

Pattern 1781 makes up beautifully in flat crepe or crepe Elizabeth. A tiny design printed on light or dark grounds, or a solid color may be used with equally good results.

Designed for sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38 and 42. Size 16 requires 4¼ yards of 40-inch material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model. The pattern has ample and exact instructions. Yardage is given for every size. A perfect fit is guaranteed.

Patterns will be delivered upon receipt of FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped or stamps. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

Our NEW SPRING BOOK of PATTERN STYLES is now ready. Price FIFTEEN CENTS, but only TEN CENTS when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West 17th street, New York City.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Feb. 11.—B'Nai B'rith lodge No. 576 will stage a testimonial dinner in the Elks club here tonight to Rudolph Hanau, merchant, who for the past 25 years has been secretary of the Jewish organization. His tenure of office is a record in the international Jewish organization.

Father and Boy Die As Train Hits Auto

POTTSTOWN, Pa., Feb. 11.—(AP)—A father and his 2-year-old son were killed here last night when a Reading freight train struck their automobile at the Penn street crossing.

The boy, Donald Pennypacker, was killed instantly, and the father, Eugene L. Pennypacker, 34, died in a hospital about two hours later. They were returning to their home after a visit to a doctor's office where the boy had been treated for a cold. A widow and two other small children survive Pennypacker.

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

Women who prize the modern figure with its subtle, seductive curves—men who would keep that trim, proper figure eat healthfully but not immoderately. Banish excessiveness—eliminate abuses. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. When tempted to excess, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain the lithe, youthful, modern figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette a man ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

"It's toasted"

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough.

*Be Moderate! . . . Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

Program From Battleship Radio Feature Tonight

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor.

FROM the deck of the battleship Pensacola, moored at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, the RKO Hour tonight at 10:30 through WCAE will feature numbers from "Hit the Deck."

At 11:15 KDKA will broadcast the first of a prearranged series of programs for listeners in Australia. Principals of "The Vagabond King" will entertain.

Lincoln's close association with Knox College in the early days of his political life when he spoke on the steps of "Old Main" in debate against Stephen A. Douglas will be recalled during the Knox College dinner, KDKA at 10:30.

A narration of "He Knew Lincoln" will be another program in honor of the Great Emancipator, WCAE at 9 o'clock.

Richard Rodgers, composer, will appear at 9:30 through WCAE as guest artist of the Happy Bakers.

Two good programs at 7:30 will be Dr. Carl Wallace Petty in The Evening Altar from KDKA and Dr. Thomas S. Baker and Virginia Harmon from WCAE.

We Now Present

"Charley" Horn's in town to confer with KDKA officials. The new NBC consultant, formerly chief of Westinghouse operations, has an overseas broadcast on his mind.

"Chuck" Daniel, a contemporary columnist, likes Amos and Andy for his radio dish. Ted Kay's "Theater of the Air" rates high with the owner of Oscar.

"Burn On The Heat" and "Rhapsody Burning" were numbers played by WLW recently for a Fire Department dance held at Newport, Vt.

The two-way radio conversation between KDKA and VK2ME at Sydney, Australia yesterday was as clear as a telephone call to East Liberty. The distance is better than 13,000 miles.

TODAY'S TID BIT:

Frances Alda is temperamental and insists on carrying her Pekinese pup into the studio when she broadcasts.

* * *

Oscar Heininger, East McKeesport—Two microphones are used in the average broadcast, one for the announcer and the other for the artists. McNamee receives about $1,000 a week, combining his NBC salary, his singing engagements and special radio work. Vallee gets $2,500 for each radio performance.

Typographical Party To Be Held Tonight

The Pittsburgh Typographical Athletic Association will hold a card party and dance in the Elks Club, Seventh street and Duquesne way tonight. Proceeds will be used to entertain the 20th annual tournament of the Union Printers' International Baseball League and Golf Association in Pittsburgh next August.

Again?

Periodically she suffered; expected to; was virtually an invalid certain days of every month. Then a trained nurse told her the story of Midol. A most marvelous medicine—not a narcotic—that actually ends such pain. Today, the woman who has learned the use of Midol regards the process as an incident! A harmless little tablet acting directly on the organs affected, in five to seven minutes not a twinge of pain remains! Midol is fifty cents, metal case.*

*Midol's comfort is not confined to any certain days or age. It relieves at any time of life. Its ease is felt immediately in cases of nervous headache, backache, cramping, hot flashes and all febrile pain peculiar to women.

Discover Why Thousands Here Report Such Wonderful Improvements in Health, Many After Suffering for Years from

Constipation	Stomach Distress	Gas
Nervousness	Liver Torpidity	Sleeplessness
Sick Headaches	Rheumatic Pains	Dizzy Spells

Dr. L. R. Wilson, one of the health leaders of the Pacific Coast, who believes in Flaxolyn because he has seen the wonderful results it has brought to health-seekers.

Portland Doctor's Advice to Pittsburghers

Few people realize how a multitude of disturbances that drag down your health and invite disease, often have their root in TOXIC POISONS which breed in the intestines.

Thousands of folks in this vicinity now eat with hearty, healthy appetites, get greater nourishment out of their food, and derive more benefit from their sleep, since taking the pleasant Flaxolyn formula.

Dr. L. R. Wilson says: "It has been a pleasure to me to find that men and women to whom I have recommended the new liquid Flaxolyn, have reported such excellent results.

"Sleeplessness and other disturbances caused by the presence of toxic constipation poisons have repeatedly been dispelled through the use of this safe and sane treatment. I urgently advise the trial of Flaxolyn by those who need a good tonic-laxative."

Gratifying Results From Flaxolyn

"I will never forget the name Flaxolyn," says Mrs. Guide. "It has meant so much to me, I really can't find enough words of praise."

Thousands of readers of this paper are today using Flaxolyn steadily with simply marvelous results. The case of Mrs. M. Guide is typical. She says:—"Ever since I was a victim of the flu during the war, I have been sick and ailing. I looked bad, too. I tried using medicines of all kinds, but nothing did me any good, and this worried me a lot.

"After using that great herb remedy, Flaxolyn, I really don't know how to praise it—it's a wonder—I could write a whole story about it if I only had time."

Remarkable Experience With Flaxolyn

"I am firmly convinced Flaxolyn is a formula with unusual merit in promoting health," says Dr. Carl Victor, of Pittsburgh. "By keeping the body internally clean, Flaxolyn brings the attractiveness of flawless skin, clear eyes, and body feeling vigorously fit."

February and March Are Worst Months for Sickness. Heed This Warning.

Right ahead of us is the most dangerous time of the year. Better build up your body—purify the blood—fight acidity—sweep the intestinal tract free of the toxic wastes that invite colds, flu, rheumatism, neuritis, pneumonia, pleurisy and other sicknesses.

Flaxolyn is so easy and pleasant to take. It will keep you physically fit without the use of drastic drugs. Don't wait. Gain the rugged glow of health, have greater vitality, greater strength. Your large economical bottle of Flaxolyn awaits you at your nearest drug store.

Clip Me. I Am Your Friend

Almost a million readers of this paper will see me today. To many of these people I will be just another coupon in the newspaper. But to others I will be a GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY for greater health. Tear me out. Take me to your own druggist, or to any MAY DRUG STORE in Greater Pittsburgh. If Flaxolyn does not help you by the sixth pleasant spoonful, return the partly-used bottle and get your money back.

MAYOR AND FOE DIE IN DUEL

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 11 (AP).—Jose Angel Trujillo, mayor of Tolotalan, Jalisco, and Juvenio Munoz, former rebel chief, shot each other to death in a pistol duel in the main plaza of that town, says a dispatch to La Prensa.

The dispatch said the plaza was crowded with promenaders who were thrown into a panic when the two men met accidentally and opened fire at each other.

Personal enmity dating from a year ago, when Trujillo headed agrarian forces against Munoz' rebels, led to the shooting.

Child Leaving Car Run Down By Auto

Alighting from a Homestead-Braddock street car at Eighth avenue and Hays street, West Homestead, Joseph Finch, 7, of Seventh avenue, West Homestead, was knocked down by an automobile last night. The driver of the machine, Lee Ammon, of 526 Heisel street, Homestead, took Finch to the Homestead Hospital where his injuries were dressed. The boy was able to go home. Ammon, who reported the accident to West Homestead police, was released on his own recognizance.

Telegraph Square Ordinance Given To Council

Council has received an ordinance changing the name of the area bounded by Bigelow boulevard, Strawberry way and Pentland street from Gazette square to Telegraph square.

Another measure introduced yesterday provides for the widening of Ohio River boulevard in the vicinity of Flack avenue, and at another location from Eckert street and Mt. Hope road.

An ordinance was presented that authorizes the vacating of Retanus way. Twenty-second Ward, from Tate way to a point 118 feet northwardly.

POLISH GUARD ESTONIA CHIEF

WARSAW Feb 11 (AP)
Police yesterday frustrated what they feared was an attempt against the life of President Otto Strandman of Estonia, who is making an official visit to the Polish capital.

A young man leaped on the running board of the president's automobile as the official party was driving to Warsaw University. After being captured by the police he gave his name as Joseph Sliecz-kowski, and his age as 22. He made no attempt to harm the Estonian president and is believed to be mentally unbalanced.

At the police station he said he often had visions that he wanted to communicate to the president of Poland, whom he believed to be in the automobile.

DANDRUFF
Soon Destroys the Hair

If you want plenty of thick beautiful, glossy silk hair don't by all means get rid of dandruff for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to wash it away. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it entirely. To do this, get a bottle of ordinary liquid arvon and apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it gently with the finger tips.

By morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone and two or three more applications will completely dissolve every single trace of it.

You will find that all of your dandruff, scales and itching will disappear and your hair will be soft, fluffy, lustrous, and have ten hundred times better appearance. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It dissolves dandruff and you will need it once or twice a week if you have much dandruff. This simple remedy never fails.

HEALTHY COMPLEXIONS

Healthy complexions come from healthy systems. Free the body of poisons with Feen-a-mint. Effective in smaller doses. All druggists sell this safe, scientific laxative.

Shattered Glass

by Louis Bromfield

a new novel beginning in March Cosmopolitan

"Shattered Glass" by Louis Bromfield—the first novel by this distinguished young American ever to be published in a magazine before its appearance in book form—is unusual, distinctive, exciting, important and mystifying.

We don't use the word "great." But if we did— R. L.

It is serials such as "Shattered Glass" . . . and distinctive stories and features . . . that cause readers to return to Cosmopolitan month after month . . . that make the list of our subscribers read like a roll call of the country's most intelligent people.

For Cosmopolitan . . . tuned to modern times . . . is distinctly a class magazine, from the pertinent editorial by Ray Long to the last exciting pages of noteworthy fiction.

In March Cosmopolitan are stories and features by Rex Beach, Aldous Huxley, P. G. Wodehouse, Irvin S. Cobb, Winston S. Churchill, Sarah Gertrude Millin, Rebecca West, and others as brilliant.

CAPTAIN BLOOD IS BACK

Cosmopolitan is proud to bring back this glorious rover of the sea. The first of RAFAEL SABATINI'S new stories—"The Blank Shot"—is the "opening gun" in Captain Blood's adventures with the Brethren of the Coast.

Why He Admires Her

SHE WONDERS why he chooses her above all other girls. It wasn't hard to find—she had a clear complexion, bright, snappy eyes, lots of pep and vivacity. Before he knew it or she had a pimply skin, no color, felt drowsy—no strength—no appetite. In her miserable state she wrote Dr. Pierce's Clinic in Buffalo, N. Y., and they advised her about herself so that she now is most admired of all. Many have received this free medical advice and it put them on their feet. Why don't you write?

One who has used Dr. Pierce's remedies said: "I have taken Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for coughs, colds and bronchial troubles and it certainly is very good to relieve these conditions. I have given the 'Discovery' to others in my family and it helped them wonderfully."—Mrs. Bessie Bartha, 512 Wyrebach St., Easton, Pa.

DEATH BLAMED ON HIJACKERS

STEUBENVILLE, O., Feb. 11.—(AP)—That Emerson Earlywine, 25, of Wheeling, W. Va., who died at the Ohio Valley Hospital of a fractured skull, was the victim of hijackers while en route from Wheeling to Steubenville with a cargo of liquor, was the theory advanced by Sheriff William Yost.

On being admitted to the hospital, Earlywine refused to talk. When a wrecked automobile found over an embankment near Brilliant, O., was identified as his property, he was unconscious, and died without making a statement.

A small quantity of liquor was found in the car, together with burlap sacks which Yost believed held liquor stolen by hi-jackers who, it is thought, forced Earlywine over the embankment with his machine. Earlywine was under bond at Wheeling pending hearing on a federal charge of transporting liquor.

MAINE DRY FOE IN SENATE RACE

PORTLAND, Me., Feb. 11 (AP.)—For the first time in six years, Maine, pioneer prohibition state, will have an avowed "wet" seeking the nomination for a seat in Congress.

Dugald B. Dewar, dealer in investment securities, has announced that he would be a candidate in the June primaries for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate to succeed Senator Arthur R. Gould, of Presque Isle, who is retiring.

Dewar is the third man to enter the race. The others are former Gov. Ralph O. Brewster, of Dexter, and Congressman Wallace H. White, of Auburn. The Democrats have not yet named their candidate.

William M. Ingraham, of Portland, assistant secretary of War in President Wilson's cabinet, former surveyor of the Port of Portland and former mayor of the city, a Democrat, was defeated by Representative Carroll L. Beedy of the first district in 1924. Ingraham came out for repeal or modification of the prohibition law. He polled 27,000 votes to Beedy's 39,000.

Dewar, in a statement "pledged" himself to stand with those who believe the prohibition law is a "failure and are working for its repeal or modification."

"By training and inclination I may be less wet than some who will not support my candidacy," the statement said.

A WIFE ALWAYS KNOWS

Here Is a Typical Letter That Should Be Enlightening to All Married Men.

Mrs. J. Page Stephensville, Ohio, writes the following interesting letter:

"After we had been married a little over a year my husband grew cross and irritable. He seemed to take no pleasure in our pretty new home and no comfort in the love I longed to give him. Like other young wives I was at first hurt and puzzled, and wondered if perhaps he was being stolen from me by some other woman. But no good wife will make this mistake for long.

"I soon realized that the trouble was caused while he, the physician of his work, which was undermining his nervous system. He suffered constantly from bad headaches, and many nights he was so restless that he could not sleep. After eating, his stomach would swell up with gas and he had to take different kinds of physics all the time in order to get his bowels to move. In the morning he would get up tired and shaky and cross, everything seemed to be going from bad to worse. When a friend told me about World's Tonic and how this famous new remedy is compounded from herbs grown in their natural state in different parts of the world, she gave me new hope. I knew that the herbs and plants of the field have powers to help suffering humanity—particularly the mysterious part of our body called the nervous system. I realized that World's Tonic made as it is could bring strengthening benefit to my husband, even though other medicines had proved quite useless.

"I got a bottle of World's Tonic at the drug store and, of course, expected good results. However, I was astonished and amazed at how quickly his condition improved.

"My husband was better after the first dose. The cleansing action of the medicine soon cleared his system of the [illegible] and began irritating his nerves. The strengthening elements of natural herbs built up the tissues which had been frayed and worn down by overwork. At the end of about three weeks he was his old self again. Nowadays, I think I am the happiest wife in town and we both know that we owe our happiness to World's Tonic."

World's Tonic is on sale at Dow's, May's & Liggett's, Mayflower, and other modern drug stores. (A-71)

CITY ORDERS SEIZED ALLEY RETURNED

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

LAWYERS like to victimize the layman with puzzling questions. Here is one:

A peacock, valuable bird, strolls into a neighbor's yard and lays an egg. Who owns the valuable peacock's equably valuable egg—the neighbor or the owner of the peacock?

Bob Quillen is a country editor whose name has spread beyond the confines of his town. Mr. Quillen's paper is the Fountain Inn Tribune, of South Carolina, and one of the reasons Editor Quillen is a figure is apparent in the report of a wedding he wrote for his paper. After giving the names of the bride and bridegroom, Mr. Quillen goes on:

"The groom is a popular young bum who hasn't done a lick of work since he got shipped in the middle of his junior year at college. He manages to dress well and keep a supply of spending money because his dad is a softhearted old fool who takes up his bad checks instead of letting him go to jail where he belongs.

"The bride is a skinny, fast little idiot, who has been kissed and handled by every boy in town since she was 12 years old. She paints like a Sioux Indian, sucks cigarets in secret and drinks corn liquor when she is out joy riding in her dad's car at night. She doesn't know how to cook or keep house.

"The house was newly plastered for the wedding and the exterior painted, thus appropriately carrying out the decorative scheme, for the groom was newly plastered and the bride newly painted.

"The groom wore a rented dinner suit over athletic underwear of imitation silk. His pants were held up by pale green suspenders. His No. 8 patent leather shoes matched his state in tightness and harmonized nicely with the axle-grease of his hair. In addition to his tag he carried a pocket knife, a bunch of keys, a dun for the ring and his usual look of imbecility.

"The young people will make their home with the bride's parents—which means they will sponge on the old man until he dies and then she will take in washing.

"Postscript by editor: This may be the last issue of the Tribune, but my life ambition has been to write up one wedding and tell the truth. Now that is done death can have no sting."

OUR contribution to the celebration of Lincoln's Birthday tomorrow is a story about him. Emil Ludwig tells it in his new biography of Honest Abe.

Lincoln was captain of a company in the Black Hawk War. On march one day he was puzzled as to how to get his men through a gate in formation. Finally he said: "This company is dismissed for two minutes, when it will fall in again on the other side of the gate."

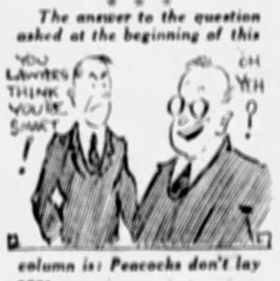
The answer to the question asked at the beginning of this column is: Peacocks don't lay eggs.



Will Rogers Says:

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.

I AM the first committee during this administration to turn in a report. I reported my findings of London to Prime Minister Borah. We decided it was cheaper to fight than confer. Had lunch with our genial Vice President. The Cherokee and the Kaw sit down together, and for the first time the Cherokee didn't pay.

He also fed Senator Watson, Couzens, and Pat Harrison. We had Pat for argumentative purposes. Saw Miss Alice and got all the dope. In fact saw everybody, and you know they looked great to me.

You want to see some of these other Legislative bodies and it makes you appreciate our boys. You know they are the nicest fellows in the world to meet. I sometimes really wonder if they realize the harm they do?

Jimmy Hints That He Is in Love With Chickie

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Chickie Bryce, only daughter of a devoted father and mother, is attending business college when the story opens. Arthur Sontag, a classmate, takes her to a dance and she confides to her friend, Mary Blake, that the avenues of romance are opening to her. Chickie's father fears the pitfalls ahead of his daughter, but his wife allays his fears. Chickie imagines she is in love with Arthur. Mary and Chickie blandly discuss love and marriage; Mary says it's too sordid for her, but Chickie thinks it will be all kisses and "walking on the mountain tops with her sweetheart by her side." Arthur stops calling on her and she feels heartbroken. She forgets him, however, in the excitement of getting a place in an office. There she meets Janina, a cynical girl whose philosophy of life astonishes her. Through Janina Chickie meets Jake Munson, rich and attractive bachelor. He proposes a party and asks Chickie if she will attend.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VI.

CHICKIE turned on the faucet and began very elaborately to wash her hands.

"Huffed?" Janina asked. "Not sore because I gave you a little pointer?"

"Oh, I don't think I want any of your pointers, Janina. The man doesn't live that's worth all that trouble!"

The brilliant eyes narrowed—threw out little intense darts of amusement. "Oh, he doesn't? Well—just you wait, my pretty one! You'll find that such a man does live. We all find that out. Whether we like it or not we dance to their tunes! Sooner or later!"

Chickie dashed the water from her hands: "That for you and your pointers, Miss Knowles!"

She wanted to push Janina—give her a good shove, get out into the sun, let the clean air sweep about her. Janina often made her feel like that.

Chickie had never caught life naked as Janina had. To her it appeared always vague and beautiful—a dream form, garmented in silver, passing with music.

She wanted to see it so. Now, when Janina tore at the nebulous robe, springing back with a laugh as the blemishes lay bare, Chickie covered her eyes. She clung passionately—with the grim pathos of youth—to her ardent illusions.

Oh, she wanted to believe the world a glad, happy place, where women sing and children laugh; where tall, kingly fellows like Jake Munson go about doing only great and noble things. No viciousness behind that flashing smile.

Yet Janina's voice hovered in her ears.

Meets Mary

Chickie Is Rebuked for Quoting Janina

At 5 o'clock she met Mary coming from work. Mary had some shopping to do—she was looking for a lace vest—something dainty and ever so fetching—easy to find if Mary didn't also require that it be cheap.

The girl behind the counter took down the long green boxes—"Here's a pretty thing." It was a combination of Irish lace and hand embroidery, with a little round collar—just what Mary wanted. She tried eagerly to see the price tag, but with its usual perversity the card was wrong side up. The girl noted this, turned the tag with a breezy "sixteen and a hawf!"

Mary frowned with annoyance.

"Sixteen and a hawf!" she snapped indignantly to Chickie as they walked out. "Did you notice that vest of hers and the five-dollar stockings and the twenty-dollar shoes. How do they do it?"

Chickie's lip went up with a breezy, "Good petters, I dare say!"

She felt Mary stiffen. A flash of angry silence. Then with a sneering drawl, "I wouldn't be so glib quoting that one if I were you, Chickie!"

"You mean Janina?"

Mary's eyes faced clear ahead. She walked on swiftly—silent. Abruptly she said: "She makes me furious! I think we ought to cut her out completely"——

Chickie had a sharp, sudden tightening in her throat.

In Same World

Men Janina Meet Are No Different

"She's an empty, shallow thing! I wouldn't listen to a word she says. Why, what does she know of love or anything!"

Mary's voice softened, her face became suddenly intent and flushed.

Chickie thought with a shock of amazement: "Mary! Well—of all things! Why—look at her—she's getting pretty!"

Aloud she said: "You used to be rather glad to hear what Janina had to say."

"Yes—well—it's all right for Janina to have those views. She can get away with that kind of stuff, but you and I never could"——

"How do you figure that?"

"Don't act stupid, Chickie! You know as well as I that Janina Knowles is as hard and selfish as though she were made of steel. She can do things and laugh that would make you cry forever."

"Just the same, Mary, she lives in the same world as we do and the men she meets are no different, whether we believe it or not"—

"Don't you ever think that, Chickie. There are men that Janina knows nothing about."

The color went sweeping into Mary's face. She stopped suddenly before a shop window, pointing to a string of beads. "Stunning, aren't they? Look—here comes Ethel Bird—don't talk long. I want to hurry home....."

Mary's Boy Friend

Chickie Learns Why She Refuses to Walk

That evening, when Chickie sauntered down to the Blakes, Mary was plucking roses in the old, delapidated garden.

"Let's take a walk," Chickie said. "I want to buy some ribbon."

"I can't."

"Going out?"

"No."

Chickie came close and whispered: "For heaven sakes! What's up, Mary?"

Snip, snip, snip—Mary's scissors were all over the bush, her face pink to the line of her soft brown hair: "Nothing! What are you talking about? Wait until

KLINE DECLARES ATTITUDE ON BLUE LAWS

Mayor Brushes Aside Question When Quizzed on Stand by Mackey.

Mayor Charles H. Kline let it be known today there is no hope at this time of his coming out openly, as Mayor Harry A. Mackey, of Philadelphia, recently did, in opposition to the blue law of 1794.

Brushing aside a series of questions on the subject, Mayor Kline remarked that what the Mayor of Philadelphia chose to do or say was no concern of his.

"My views on Sunday observance are well known," said Kline, and proceeded to tell what they are, stipulating, however, that what he said was not for publication.

The Mayor made it plain that while he was not in sympathy with the blue law, as strictly interpreted, he did not choose to denounce the law or take the initiative in a movement to modify it.

Asked about the program for Sunday movies in the parks this year, Kline said:

"That reminds me to inquire if there is an appropriation for movies in the budget."

He said he had given no thought to the program yet, as there were other more pressing problems before him; but it was his idea to concentrate the film shows in places accessible to the largest number of people.

THREE BANDITS ROB MARCUS

Representative Joseph C. Marcus, of 2016 Fifth avenue, was robbed of jewelry valued at $375 and $6 in cash this morning by three automobile bandits who held him up in Dalzell place, Squirrel Hill, according to a report at the Squirrel Hill Police Station.

Marcus had left the home of a friend in Dalzell place when three men, armed with revolvers, stepped in front of him from an automobile parked along the curb. They took his watch, valued at $175, and a platinum chain containing diamonds, valued at $200, and the $6 in money.

A ring and necklace valued at $130 were stolen this morning from the home of Carter P. Jenton, at 7216 Monticello street, by thieves who entered the house by breaking a cellar window. They stole a revolver and $1 in cash.

ALLEY CLOSED BY GAS STATION WALL

WALL FOR NEW SERVICE STATION AT HARGROVE STREET AND BROSIUS WAY

Construction of a wall of a new gas station, blocking Brosius way, for which Nineteenth Ward residents petition City Council to investigate. Curbings in the foreground indicate the limits of the city way and the arrow points out hillside steps mentioned in the petition.

VICTORY WON BY S. HILLS RESIDENTS

Protest to Council Over Needed Route Alleges Kenna Illegally Aided

Approximately 100 residents of the Nineteenth Ward who petitioned Council to investigate the "illegal seizure of city property" by the Peoples Gasoline Company, said to be owned by Edward M. Kenna, county road commissioner, today had apparently won their fight.

The property in question is Brosius way, a 20-foot alley, connecting Hargrove street at the base of a hill with Warrington avenue at the summit.

City employes recently removed steps occupying Brosius way and subjected the petitioners to the loss of rights and priveleges that had been enjoyed for years, they averred.

The steps were removed, they declared, to permit the gasoline station builders to preempt the the major portion of the alley for a flanking wall of the structure.

Public Works Director Edward G. Lang today instructed the Peoples Gasoline Company to cut off enough of the retaining wall to provide an area of five feet of the alley as a location for steps.

Lang visited the site today and conferred with representatives of the company said to be owned by Kenna. Residents who protested against the closing of the alley were said to have agreed to the arrangement.

CHILDREN PENALIZED

Removal of the steps has compelled school children to travel a greater distance at increased hazard to life and limbs, the residents said.

The petitioners stated:

"We address your body for the reason that our numerous statements and respectful requests to the proper departments of the city government, while politely and courteously listened to, have been absolutely ignored."

"An investigation of the bureau from which building permits are issued indicates that this seizure was deliverately premeditated and planned with the connivance of officials to whom the property of the city of Pittsburgh is entrusted," the petitioners stated.

"An investigation also shows that there has been no legal vacation proceedings and that no published legal notices have been made or posted."

CENSURE ASKED

The petitioners asked to have the steps restored and that "those responsible for trampling on our rights and for the suffering we have endured for the past few weeks, be properly censured."

Howard Neely, chief clerk in the Bureau of Highways and Sewers, yesterday admitted that the bureau had removed the steps.

Plans on file in the office of H. L. Ley, superintendent of the Bureau of Building Inspection, indicate that the flanking wall would interfere with the replacement of the former steps at the base of the hill.

However, Ley was quoted as saying the gasoline company planned to provide a cemented areaway between its building and the one adjoining, and that cement steps would be built from the sidewalk to the areaway as a landing for future steps up the hillside.

Postal Robber At Funeral Of Father

SHARON, Pa., Feb. 11.—(AP.)—Ray Cole, 17, serving a term in the Mercer County Jail for robbery of the Wheatland post-office, today attended the funeral of his father who ended his life Sunday because, according to members of the family, "disgrace" was brought upon him and his family by the son's misdeed.

Federal Judge John Schoonmaker granted Sheriff D. K. Callahan permission to take the youth to the funeral. Young Cole displayed little emotion during the services. He had nothing to say when he was informed that a move was under way by neighbors to have him released so he might help support his mother and six brothers.

EXAMINE GUN, 1 SHOT, 4 HELD

Frank Petraglia, 23, of 141 Sycamore street, Mt. Washington, is in a serious condition in the South Side Hospital today with a bullet wound in the abdomen, which, police say, was accidentally inflicted by a companion.

The shooting occurred last night in the home of Joseph Palmiere, 20, of 111 Virginia avenue, according to police. Palmiere, Frank Chiocco, a roomer at the Palmiere home, and Sam Direnna, 21, of 40 Cowan street, were examining an automatic pistol, Palmierre, police reported, attempted to remove the magazine and the gun was discharged, the bullet striking Petraglia in the abdomen.

Petraglia was taken to the office of Dr. J. A. Soffel, of 123 Shiloh street, by his companions and then removed to the hospital. The three and Christi Nickolas, of 450 Arabella street, from whom Palmiere is said to have obtained the revolver, were held over in Morals Court today, pending the outcome of Petraglia's injuries.

WOMAN JAILED IN RUM SALE

Eleven jail sentences were imposed by Federal Judge Nelson McVicar on defendants pleading guilty to violating the prohibition law, one of them a woman. The latter, Bertha Kozmo, in addition to a $100 fine, was sentenced to serve two months in the Cambria county jail. She pleaded guilty to an indictment charging sale and possession of liquor and maintaining a common nuisance at a restaurant at 219 Second avenue, Johnstown.

Irwin W. Burkett, a prior offender, was sentenced four months to jail and fined $300 for selling four drinks of whisky and maintaining a common nuisance at 526 Dixon street, Homestead.

The others were sentenced as follows: Andy Petercak, Brownsto, Cambria County, $200 and three months jail; John Peksiwa, Brownstown, 45 days jail; George Valke, Dunle, Cambria County, $200 and three months jail; Mike Rutkowski and John Smead, 3821 Butler street, three months jail each; Frank Depodesto, Forward Township, $300 and three months jail; Clarence Smith and Elmer Foster, Forward Township, two months jail each, and Sam Rusnak, Portage, three months jail.

Oakdale Firemen To Feast Tonight

The twenty-sixth anniversary of the founding of the Oakdale Volunteer Fire Department will be celebrated tonight when the 65 present members are to be tendered a banquet in the First Presbyterian Church, Oakdale. Borough councilmen, school directors and other leading citizens have been invited.

Burgess F. G. Lillo, as toastmaster, will introduce Fire Chief Harry Dickson, F. J. Gamble and other veteran members of the department. Music will be furnished by the Oakdale Military Band, G. W. The Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's Question: How would you settle the present Pittsburgh taxicab strike?

LUCY FOX, housekeeper, Center avenue: "If it were left to me to bring about a settlement of the taxi strike I'd try and get the two opposing factions together on some sort of a firm basis so the matter could be talked over thoroughly. Then I'd ask that the taxicab company recognize the union and give the drivers their just demands. It's utterly impossible right now to reach any sort of an agreement the way things stand. Arbitration is the method to use."

Miss Fox

W. F. NEUBAUER, traffic officer, Downtown: "Well, if it was left to me here's what I'd do: First, I'd have one representative of each of the opposing camps—that is—the taxi companies and the drivers, named to sit in at a conference. Then I'd have a third person as a disinterested party. All could talk the matter over thoroughly. I'm sure that some sort of an agreement fair to both sides could be reached. Then both would have to abide by the results of that conference."

W. F. Neubauer

J. STEWART, chauffeur, Mt. Oliver: "If the taxi company wanted to do the right thing it would recognize the union. Such an arrangement would eventually be satisfactory to both sides. If the union were to be recognized I'm sure that the drivers would be greatly satisfied. Under such an arrangement both the drivers and the taxi companies could make money. The companies are losing a lot of fares right now."

J. Stewart

C. PERINO, brakeman, Pennsylvania railroad: "If I were to settle the strike, first I'd ask that the cab companies recognize the drivers' union. It would be only the fair and square thing that this be done. Almost every other form of business is organized under the union's jurisdiction and employers have found out that such an arrangement works out well for both the employer and employe. I'd then ask the contending factions if they wouldn't quit their bickering and adopt a policy of give and take. Compromise is what is needed."

C. Perino

PETER PAOLUCCI, waiter, Downtown: "If a program of compromise could be adopted by the warring groups, then I think the strike would end quickly. That's the method I'd demand if it was put up to me to settle the walkout. In this day and age both the employe and the employer want to make money. The cab drivers and their former employers can't make any if they continue to follow the policy now being pursued. Those differences that cause the present enmity could be ironed out by arbitration."

Peter Paolucci

IDA PAOLUCCI, housewife, Hill: "My solution for settling the strike would be to get the two camps together. At present the groups are as far apart as they were a month ago. The drivers and company officials should get together and try to settle this thing once and for all. Both should agree that a third party, disinterested of course, would have the final say in case a tie developed. The findings of the conference should be final."

Bake Shop Bandits Menace Children With Guns

Police today were seeking bandits who held up a bakery in Heidelberg and threatened five persons, four of them children. A store on the South Side last night also was held up.

Three men walked into the bake shop of Joseph Henke, at 709 Railroad street, Heidelberg, and one of them asked for a pack of cigarets. As Henke's 14-year-old daughter, Martha, turned to a showcase, the trio pulled out revolvers and ordered Martha, her brothers—Henry, 13; Aloysius, 10, and Leo, 9—and their aunt, Miss Theresa Heinrich, 20, of Ellsworth avenue, Heidelberg, to remain quiet.

One bandit, searching Martha's pockets, found rosary beads, but did not take them. Another, noticing that the aunt had a purse in her hands, said, "We don't want your money."

Two of the thugs then walked to the cash register, while their accomplice kept the children and their aunt covered with a revolver, and rifled it of $20. They were believed to have fled from the bake shop in an automobile. Chief of Police George Moss, of Heidelberg, and Motorcycle Patrolman Fred Mathias scoured nearby towns, but found no trace of the bandits.

DRAFT PROTEST AGAINST RATES

st against the proposal of ...s to cancel less-carload commodity rates on manufactured iron and steel products in the Pittsburgh area will be drafted at a meeting of iron and steel shippers in the Chamber of Commerce, Thursday. The meeting was called by Donald O. Moore, traffic division of The protest will a hearing before e Association in New York February 19.

Cancellation of the present rates, which have been in effect for many years in the region 100 miles northward and eastward from Pittsburgh would place less-carload shipments under the fourth-class rates, considerably higher, according to Moore. In the case of a shipment from Pittsburgh to Butler, under the proposed increase, the transportation cost would be 22 cents per 100 pounds instead of the present 11-cent tariff, Moore said. Rates would be raised from three to 13 cents per 100 pounds, if the proposal becomes effective.

AGED 'HUSBAND' ADMITS FIRING IN KILLING

Kummer Says He Expected Fatal Shots Would Go Into Air; Woman Testifies

In a tight-fitting hat, wine-colored, fur-trimmed coat, gold buckled pumps and marcelled gray locks, Mrs. Abbie Roll, 62, of Tarentum, took the stand today as the chief witness in the murder trial of Herman Kummer, 68, of Tarentum, whom she married before she was divorced from her second husband, Alber Moser. Kummer is charged with slaying William Hiteshue, 73, of 629 East Ninth avenue, Tarentum, October 26, while the latter was walking in Ninth street, Tarentum, with Mrs. Roll.

MAN ADMITS SHOOTING

The prosecution rested following Mrs. Roll's testimony, and Kummer himself took the stand to testify after his attorney, Ralph H. Smith, had contended that Kummer acted in self-defense.

"I saw her walking with Hiteshue," Kummer testified. "He laughed at me and I fired three shots that I thought would go into the air."

"Kummer lost his head when he saw Mrs. Roll with another man. And when he saw Hiteshue reach into his pocket he fired three shots. He thought he was firing into the air," Smith said.

CARRIES BULLET

Mrs. Roll, who explained that she was using the name of her deceased first husband, testified that a bullet is still embedded in her skull, near the left ear, which, she said, she received at the time she asserts Kummer shot Hiteshue. She testified late yesterday in Judge Ambrose B. Reid's court, after most of the day had been spent selecting a jury.

Mrs. Roll testified that after the death of her first husband, Roll, and her desertion by her second husband, Moser, she applied for a divorce. Before the decree was granted last October she married Kummer, she said, and went with him to Butler, where he was working. She said she left Kummer after six weeks, about the time a suit for bigamy was brought against her there. She returned to Tarentum to live, and said Kummer followed her, and tried to persuade her to return to him.

18 Ballot Boxes Given Prosecutor

Sheriff Robert Cain today will turn over to Assistant District Attorney Andrew T. Park the ballot boxes of 18 election districts in the city in which Park is investigating charges of fraud. CHICKIE tomorrow. I'll go with you then."

Walking pensively down the block, Chickie came face to face with Edward McPike. The young man grabbed off his hat, saying stiffly, "Nice evening, Miss Bryce."

Chickie watched him with a little chill of dismay. So that was it. Edward McPike—the young chemist who worked for the same wholesale drug company as Mary.

Chickie had met him once and Mary had said, "He's brilliant. He has a big future." Chickie had seen only a quiet, clumsy fellow with one shoulder a little higher than the other, his legs too short for the powerful frame they supported.

And now he was standing at Mary's door, pulling his coat down, thrusting a glove nervously in his pocket. Now the door was opening—

Oh, surely Mary wasn't blushing and looking all sweet and eager because of Edward McPike! Chickie stood perfectly still—staring at the parlor windows of the Blakes. A light commenced to shine, loneliness went in a pang through her.

There were often nights after that when Mary couldn't take a walk, when Mary didn't want to go to the movies. And finally when Jimmy took them to the movies, Edward McPike came along.

He and Mary sat together. He had a way of looking at Mary with his eyes intent and child-like as though he thought her a most beautiful person. When Mary looked up to find his eyes like that, a loveliness seemed to awaken like a light in her face, as though she spoke, as though she murmured to him: "Oh, Edward—there's only you in all the world."

They went afterwards, as they always did, and had waffles. When Edward talked he balanced a fork on his finger, keeping his eyes down, as though he were extremely shy and uncertain of himself. But he said sharp, arousing things, now and then glancing at Mary.

Chickie could almost feel, like warm, elated presences, the smiles stepping forth so proudly from Mary's lips. They gave her a kind of sparkling and manifold vitality.

Jimmy noticed it, too. When he held Chickie's coat he whispered, teasing: "Say, throw me a look or two like that. Ready now. I'll give the agonizing stare—pull a blush."

When the four parted at Chickie's steps, Edward and Mary going slowly down the block, Chickie sighed: "They like each other, Jimmy!"

He stood at the gate post musing. "They sure do!"

"Mary seemed all thrilled. Humph—were you ever in love, Jimmy?"

He looked down at her and laughed, his black, thick hair blown straight across his forehead. He kept looking at her with half a grin on his mouth until she said, "Well, were you?"

"Oh, for the little matter of four or five years."

"I mean truly."

"So do I."

"You honestly were, Jimmy?"

"I honestly am, Chickie."

She tossed her head. "It doesn't mean much to a man, does it?"

He answered extravagantly and using one of her own words. "Oceans!"

"Oh, my, yes! Oceans—if only you can have all the waves you want in them! I think it's sad, Jimmy, that men should be like that."

"Like what?"

"Faithless."

He grinned. "You've found us out, already?"

"No, but honestly, Jimmy, that's true, isn't it? Tell me, isn't it the truth that nine out of 10 men—well, that you just can't bet on them?"

"There's always the tenth, you know."

"You can't even be sure of that—or of getting the tenth."

"Who?"

"My girl!"

Suddenly she was aware of his excited face turned to hers; his quick, sharp breath. He said with a shrug, "Well—I don't think we need worry over Mary."

"No—thank goodness! Mary wouldn't dream of marriage for years and years."

"She won't? What makes you think that? Why shouldn't she?"

"Oh, Jimmy, of course she won't. Edward is poor, and do you think Mary wants to step into a hard time like Lucy has?"

"But suppose she loves him?"

"Anyway!"

"Wouldn't you, Chickie?"

"No!"

"You would if you loved a man. You'd want to marry him even if he was poor."

"I would not! I tell you, Jimmy, I would not."

He answered quietly, with none of his old teasing lightness, but his happy eyes all tight again and black, "I tell you that you will—Chickie. Sooner than you think!"

MAN APPEALING FINE CHARGES 'SHAKEDOWN'

Ohioan Says Refusal to Pay $10 Caused Imprisonment; Walsh to Investigate

Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh today said he would investigate a complaint by Charles A. Brown, of Elyria, O., that he was held prisoner in Central Station for 18 hours and denied use of a telephone because he would not pay $10 to a policeman.

Brown took an appeal from a $5 fine imposed by Magistrate Thomas D. Jones in Morals Court last week and a hearing will be held in County Court Monday.

Brown was arrested on complaint of Helen Day, employed in a shop of the William Penn Hotel. He maintains, in his appeal he was in Elyria at the time of the alleged offense, but was unable to get his friends at the hearing in Morals Court to substantiate his story.

While held at Central Station, according to Brown, an unidentified attorney took $7, all the money he had, and did nothing but notify his friends he was in jail.

INDEPENDENCE BEST COURSE FOR U. S.

Embroilment Feared by W. H. Rogers, Churchman, Patriot and Civic Worker

Voicing, as he said, the sentiments of a majority of the citizens, Weaver H. Rogers, prominent businessman, veteran of the World War, past president of Pittsburgh chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, president of the Fourteenth Ward School Visitors' Association, and active church worker, protested today against the entrance of the United States into the Permanent Court of International Justice of the League of Nations.

He protested, he said, because he was convinced membership in the League Court would embroil the nation in European disputes that did not concern us, and would be detrimental to the best interests of the people, the government, the school and the church.

INDEPENDENT COURSE

He went even further and asserted it was to the best interest of other countries that the United States continue to follow an independent course.

"Without membership in the League Court, without treaty obligation," said Mr. Rogers, "the United States for some time has been leader, sponsor and, when necessity arose, policeman in the maintenance of order among a group of nations in the western hemisphere. The protective influence that we have thus exercised has had a sustaining effect on South American securities.

"Now that there is talk of our joining the League Court the fear is felt that our protection can no longer be relied upon—that the Monroe Doctrine will be scrapped. The fear has caused a slump in South American securities, some of which have dropped as much as 50 per cent.

WOULD BE MISTAKE

"For the United States to join the League Court that it may better serve humanity is like gilding the lily. There is no probability of our doing more for mankind under coercion than we have been willing to do of our own volition.

"While geographical and racial ties make it expedient, perhaps, for other countries to join in some such undertaking as the League Court the situation of the United States is different. Our geographical position, our history, our traditional policy, as exemplified by the Monroe Doctrine, all argue against the advisability of our entering into any such entangling alliance.

"I believe that most Americans feel this way about it. Wilson's views did not find favor. We resisted for several years the pressure that was brought to bear from all sides to get us into the World War, in which I happened to serve myself.

ATTEND TO OWN AFFAIRS

"There are some of us who feel that it might have been better if we had remained out of the war and attended to our own business, instead of going abroad to fight for liberty and being deprived, while we were away, of some of the liberty we had formerly enjoyed at home.

"I am interested in the welfare of the country. I am interested in education and have been active in the affairs of the diocese. All these things impel me to oppose the abandonment of our historic policy of remaining aloof from Europe's international disputes."

FREE SOLDIER ON COURT WRIT

Frank J. Mulligan is a private in the Twenty-eighth Signal Company, National Guard of Pennsylvania.

He is also an usher in a downtown movie palace.

He has two uniforms—one of khaki and the other of elegant proportions. Gold braid, shiny brass buttons and all the accouterments that would put an admiral to shame are Private Mulligan's every night of the week. And he gets paid for wearing it. But because Pvt. Mulligan didn't wear his khaki uniform often enough he was court martialed. He was sentenced to jail—3 days—and assessed $4 costs.

The same military guard which so triumphantly bore its prisoner from the gay Fifth avenue movie palace to the court-martial, returned in all its military glory to the Allegheny County jail and there deposited Pvt. Mulligan.

He languished from Tuesday until yesterday, when Attorney Ralph H. Frank secured his release on a writ of habeas corpus granted by Judge Richard W. Martin.

The attorney insisted Mulligan's incarceration was illegal, unwarranted and perhaps inconsequential, but Pvt. Mulligan, like a good soldier, never whimpered. The attorney pointed out the basis for a civil suit for false imprisonment, but Pvt. Mulligan demurred.

He still has two years to serve in the N. G. P.

ARRANGE TRIAL FOR HOUNDS

Representatives of five hunt clubs will take part in the first annual fox hound trials of the Pittsburgh Hunt near the club house and kennels, in the Fox Chapel district at 2 p. m. tomorrow. There will be three events on the program for novice hounds that have never won a fox hound trial, for fox hound puppies under two years of age, and for all hounds of any age, either sex or any breed.

In each event the hounds will be sent away over a course following scents, the hounds to be judged on speed, working ability and the closeness with which the line of drag is followed. Trophies have been offered for the winner of each class. Between 35 and 40 hounds have been entered from packs of the Westmoreland Hunt, Rolling Rock Hunt, Sewickley Hunt, Indiana Hunt and Pittsburgh Hunt clubs. Judges will be Torrence Miller, of the Westmoreland Hunt; Richard K. Mellon, of the Rolling Rock Hunt; John O. Burgwin, of the Sewickley Hunt; William J. Jack, of the Indiana Hunt and George Paull and George H. Cherrington, of the Pittsburgh Hunt.

Huntsmen and kennelmen of the clubs will be dressed in their respective liveries.

Similar hound trials will be held by the Westmoreland Hunt in Greensburg February 22.

Propeller Club Is Formed Here

Harry W. Parsons, of New York, president of the national association of Propeller Clubs, was in Pittsburgh yesterday to aid in organizing a Propeller Club in Pittsburgh. The organization is for the purpose of promoting an American merchant marine and to create a social interest between seamen and those employed on inland rivers.

A. J. P. Vandermyn was named president, and George A. Zerr, secretary-treasurer. The new club has a charter membership of 25.

Pittsburgh Railways Sued Over Collision

Two suits totaling $40,000 damages were filed against the Pittsburgh Railways Company in Common Pleas Court, growing out of a collision of a street car and a truck at Beechwood boulevard and Forbes street, December 18. $450 ASKED FOR BREITENSTEIN

Council has received a resolution authorizing payment of $450 from the contingent fund of the Mayor's office to H. S. Breitenstein, former accountant in the controller's office, for clerical services from January 9 to February 8.

Breitenstein left the controller's office after former Controller Henry O. Evans had charged the American Reduction Company with improperly charging $1,000,000 to the cost of disposing of garbage on a cost-plus contract.

The pending bill is believed to be Breitenstein's salary for helping the statistician in the Mayor's office in the preparation of the 1930 budget.

Voter League Hears Grand Duchess

ADMITTEDLY awed by what she called "such an enormous audience," the Grand Duchess Marie of Russia read her address before the Allegheny County League of Women Voters last night on the occasion of the annual banquet held in McCreery's. A thrilling and almost unbelievable story it was that the Grand Duchess told her own experiences, which she called "My Old World Background for Modern Life"—a story that had its beginning amid all the pomp and ceremony of the Russian court and is current now in the New York business world.

With simple impressiveness and total lack of dramatics, the distinguished Russian woman, granddaughter of a Grecian king and cousin of a czar, told of her early life, her marriage at 18 to Prince Wilhelm of Sweden, which she calmly recognized as entirely lacking in romance and merely a business arrangement between the two countries. The murder by the revolutionists of her uncle with whom she had made her home after her father had been banished because of a morganatic marriage, her work as a surgical nurse (she became so proficient that she performed minor operations herself), her brother's part in the death of Rasputin, the shock and distress of the revolution to her family and the changing conditions—all these were spoken of as unemotionally as the average American woman might speak of buying a new hat.

Mrs. A. H. Bowman introduced the speaker and Walter R. Closser led assembly singing. The very artistic new Pittsburgh postcard views brought out by the league to take the place of the present "lithograph horrors" were on sale and a record of the league's achievements was read from Mrs. Q. W. Hershey's report by Mrs. Edmond Esquerre.

STYLES TO PRESENT LATEST TRENDS IN COLORED FURS

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Feb. 11—Furs have been dyeing to get to the Riviera this season. It was predicted last season that ensembles and frocks, whatever their color, would be trimmed with furs dyed to match, and the number of such garments with matching furs, seen lately, verifies the prediction. Pastel shades have furs of the same hue, and such an ensemble in a fine woolen looks extremely intriguing. This is just one of the interesting points to be observed in the sartorial scheme here. Sports clothes that are designed to both "do things" and "go places" are in delightful abundance. The skimpy, one-piece, above-the-knee frock is in retirement, and it does not seem that anyone is hankering after it, for it is nowhere to be seen. The golden medium prevails for all daytime frocks, it is only evening clothes that go in for extremes which are, however, always picturesque. The bizarre note is absent from the scene not only in clothes but in make-up. We must contrive to be decorative without being theatrical; sophistication is present but must not be parade.

THERE is the widest latitude in color for resort wear. The most delicate pastels, the deepest tones of brown all help to make the sartorial rainbow a brilliant affair. Brown, from pale primrose to dark wood tones as especially liked, as is yellow in all its tones and variations. Beige both in monotone and as a background for a multi-colored design is in demand. For evening wear there is, of course, much black and white, some red, some green and much blue. The dresses for evening are deliberately simple to provide the correct background for the exquisite gems worn, it would seem, by every visitor here.

ONE of the smartest rendezvous is Les Ambassadeurs at Cannes, and we show today an ensemble that was so smart that it attracted much attention at the last gala teadance there. It is of yellow broadcloth, the material used for both coat and frock. The deep collar and cuffs are of striped coatis, dyed yellow to match the broadcloth. The hat was of matching yellow felt, draped at either side to frame the face in a youthful and becoming fashion.

THE second frock was also sketched on the same occasion. It is a Molyneaux model in very loosely knit wool and silk jersey. Dull red, rose, gray, dull green and blue on a beige ground, combined in a zig-zag design, made a very effective pattern and an interesting color scheme. The nice little box coat has a scarf collar shirred at the back beneath a vertical band of diamond-shaped motifs cut from the material and forming "empiecements," a similar detail being worked into the bodice at front. The belt, placed somewhat higher than formerly, since Captain Molyneux has consented to raise the waistline of his creations, is of the same material. Set-on box pleats give width to the lower part of the narrow close-fitting skirt.

Additional Club News

GROWN a trifle heavier and a bit grayer, Hugh Walpole, distinguished English novelist, came back to the Twentieth Century Club yesterday after an absence of nearly four years and addressed an audience of record size in the University Club. It was a talk rich in humor and imagination, which Mr. Walpole gave on "The Art and Immortality of the Novel," a sequel he said to his last talk before the club in which he treated the subject externally.

He spoke of the creative zest and what part art and morality play in it. Novel writing is a sharing of personal experiences and has the simplest origin, the desire to tell somebody something about something, he said. Mr. Walpole holds that a novelist does not know how his story is going to develop when he begins it and gave an imaginary beginning based on an amusing resume of his life for the previous 12 hours. He wrote a book at 18 that embodied most of what he later put into "The Cathedral," he told his audience in commenting on foresight and preparation as qualities in writing.

The two great geniuses who seem to have "settled their problems and surrendered their personalities" are Homer and Shakespeare, he stated. In comparing on the "three distances" in writing, realism, poetry and beauty and philosophy, Mr. Walpole said O'Neil's plays lack the "distance" of philosophical background. Dreiser's writings are without beauty, but Virginia Woolf's works have all three "distances" in perfection.

BRAZIL was studied by the Monday Club of Carnegie at its meeting yesterday in Mrs. W. H. Latimer's home, Beechwood avenue. Mrs. Charles Barnum was leader and papers were read by Mrs. N. L. Glasser, Mrs. A. A. Beard and Mrs. J. E. Haudenshield. Ethel Vance Conrad sang, accompanied by Mrs. John Bigham.

REPRESENTATIVES of Pittsburgh newspapers, including all the club editors, will be guests of honor tomorrow at the monthly luncheon of the Congress educational department and will be seated with Mrs. Ralph S. Davis and Mrs. Val E. Schott, Jr., publicity chairmen for the Congress and the department, respectively. The speakers will be Thomas Fitzgerald, vice president of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, and E. K. Davis of the Bell Telephone Company. Beatrice Curry and Elizabeth Tygart will give a military tap dance, with Thelma Heeson at the piano.

SEEK SCHOOL BUS SAFETY

HARRISBURG, Feb. 11. (AP.)—Safety regulations for the operation of school buses, including stopping before proceeding over grade crossings, have been adopted by the State Council of Education to prevent in Pennsylvania a repetition of the accident in Ohio recently which resulted in the death of nine children.

The rules, according to an announcement by Dr. James N. Rule, secretary of the council, are to be incorporated in contracts drawn up by the local authorities with bus operators. Among other things, they provide that the words "School Bus" must be printed in large letters on the rear of the vehicle, the vehicles must be of a closed type with 12 inches of seating room for each child to avert over-crowding, the schedules must be maintained and shelters or waiting stations must be provided at stops.

Authorization was granted by the council for the conferring by Immaculata College, near Frazer, of the degree of bachelor in science in home economics. A four-year curriculum for training music supervisors at Duquesne University also was approved.

Approval of sites was given for consolidated schools in Antis Township, Blair County; Grove Township, Cameron County; Douglass Township, Montgomery County, and Keating Township, McKean County. Application of Jacobus Borough, York County, to set up the borough as a separate fourth class school district was rejected.

PLAN INDUSTRY ART COURSES

HARRISBURG, Feb. 11. (AP.)—Establishment of four-year courses for preparation of teachers in industrial arts at the Millersville and California (Pa.) state teachers' colleges, was announced by Dr. John A. H. Keith, superintendent of public instruction.

The Millersville school will be available to students in the eastern section of the state and those from the west can enter the California institution. Location of the two schools was decided upon following several months' survey of the best situations in relation to the proximity to industrial plants where the students can obtain first-hand knowledge of the subject they intend teaching.

Dr. Keith also approved a four-years' course at Bloomsburg State Teachers' College for the training of teachers for commercial subjects. Bloomsburg will be attended by students from the east, the Indiana college serving the western section.

Lieutenant's Auto Found, Coat Missing

The automobile of Police Lieut. Peter Lehney, of the Oakland Station, which was stolen early Monday morning while the officer was eating his "lunch" in his home, was recovered this morning in Neville street. The machine was undamaged. The uniform coat of the policeman, which had been left in the automobile, was missing.

Moffitt, Retired Capitalist, Dies

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—(AP.)—Samuel Moffitt, retired capitalist, died yesterday in his Park avenue home from a heart attack. He was 69 years old.

Moffitt was born in St. Louis, Mo., and came to New York in 1905 as a partner in the J. Walter Thompson advertising agency. He retired from active business 15 years ago, but since had been occupied in various enterprises in which he had large investments. He was connected with the American Sumatra Tobacco Company at the time of his death.

Acute Indigestion?

Says Pleasant to Take Elixir Must Help Poor Distressed Stomachs or Money Gladly Refunded.

You can be so distressed with gas and fullness and bloating that you think your heart is going to stop beating.

Your stomach may be so disturbed that your breathing is short and gaspy.

You are dizzy and pray for quick relief. "What's to be done?"

Just one tablespoonful of Bare's Mentha Pepsin and in ten minutes the gas disappears, the pressing on the heart ceases and you can breathe deep and naturally.

Oh! What blessed relief; but why not get rid of such attacks altogether? Why have chronic indigestion at all?

Especially when any druggist anywhere guarantees Bare's Mentha Pepsin to end indigestion, or money back.

BY GEORGE SEIBEL

THIS is war! That in three words is the story and the message of "Journey's End," the play at the Alvin Theater this week. Eight men in a dugout, with food as the main topic of their conversation. Nothing heroic, nothing patriotic—just nerves and stomachs and thirsty throats. This is war!

George Seibel

Sherriff is the author's name. He seems to have known nothing of the tricks of the dramatist's trade. He didn't even select out-of-the-way life in the trenches. All he set forth to depict was what he saw, hardly brightening the shadows anywhere. If he has drawn a picture true to life from the truth it is not to be wondered at. But he has told all about war that is to be told. The rest can hardly be told in public.

The eight men in these three acts are all of them rather decent chaps. Even Hibbert, who is somewhat of a coward and a bore, may be excused because he is made of poorer stuff.

We see what war does to these men. One of them draws 144 circles on a sheet of paper, the number of days they must remain in the trenches, and he crosses off a circle every hour to pass the time. Others amuse themselves [illegible] you dip the cork with which you blacken your face and Alice in Wonderland to make it.

Going To Death

Two of the eight die in this little world—one in No Man's Land where bombs are falling. But there is little sadness or parting. The players, deprived of beloved puppets, have perished in the fashion of doing.

Nothing about love affairs and your homes. There is talk of democracy and [illegible] about "king and country." You do not hear the words glory and [illegible] speeches from the [illegible] boxes. No demon scoundrels that [illegible] the war. No pleas [illegible] the [illegible] of armies and navies. The tragic approach to a [illegible] hit of dialogue between [illegible] characters.

"It all seems so silly, doesn't it?"

"It does rather."

There is a [illegible] might be considered a [illegible] nation of war. [illegible] the 'olly ocks' [illegible] Cockney platoon [illegible] leave, uncouth [illegible] doing more for the world than all the generals and marshals in both sides.

How Men's Minds Work

SPOOKS RIVAL HOBOES DOWN ON STAGE IN PITT

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

We used to have a sort of respect for ghosts. But we don't any more. How can anyone have which they take to riding the rails like ordinary hoboes. And this is precisely what they do—or at least you're supposed to believe they do—for about two acts of "The Ghost Train," a mystery play that C. Sharp has resurrected from his repertoire of two or three seasons ago and is presenting in the Pitt this week.

Yet it is not necessarily with an unfavorable eye that "The Ghost Train" is viewed. There is something intriguing, comic and even mystifying about some of life's vagabonds. And so it is with this play, which to us is the vagabond of all modern mystery dramas.

That Midnight Hour

Be that as it may—or is—this dramatic "Ghost Train" is one of those affairs in which the playwright spends all his efforts for two acts in making things appear as supernatural as possible and then consumes most of a third and final act in somersaulting his supernatural complications into natural and everyday attire. And in this case he has utilized the waiting room of a lonely railroad station in Maine for his locale and starts his action off by sifting into an assortment of characters there.

The time of all this by the theatrical Big Ben is 11 o'clock at night and the stranded ones are told there will be no more homeward-bound trains until 7 o'clock, but that a "ghost train" will be along at midnight. Which has Mr. Sharp's emoters looking scared to death and which sets the audience in a high state of creepy expectation. And sure enough the phantom train does come along, screeching and tearing over the rails and sending a crazy and supernatural reflection against the windows of the station.

A Snoozing Spinster

The play presents a lot of opportunities for the chills and the laughs. And Mr. Sharp's cast manages them fairly well. Edith King gets a far-away look in her eyes and almost has you believing dead men walk and ghost trains speed by. Alice Ann Baker takes on a frightened expression befitting her stern and spinster make-up, but a flask of brandy puts her to sleep and she misses the big thrill of the evening, the ghost train. Harland Tucker dresses as an Englishman, acts like a comedian and turns out to be the hero. The young juvenile, Henry Wadsworth, is present as a bridegroom and Lucette Parker lets out hysterical shrieks as a bride. Mabel Kroman is there, too, so is Robert Fiske and others, including Francis Fraunie, Hugh Harper, Billy Link and Norman Porter.

CANINE COMEDY TOPS NEW PENN SHOW THAT'S WOW

When there is so much merit in the whole bill, it doesn't seem fair to pick on one feature as the best, but the cleverest, liveliest and most amusing part of the bill in the Penn Theater this week is undoubtedly the tableful of trained dogs. Their trainer and master may take the bow for their act is a wow. Acts like this always make you think less of human comedians, who don't show up half as clever.

But that is not meant for the pair of acrobats, one of whom is brought on in a satchel and by his last somersault leaps back into the satchel to be carried off.

Pantomime as Novelty

The stage show has real novelty for it brings back real pantomime with fragments of the Chauve Souris and the "Tales of Hoffman."

The Dancing Doll and the March of the Wooden Soldiers are two of the most pleasing features in "The Toy Shop," in which the Chester Hale Girls as animated toys perform with their usual verve and grace.

This is a show the little ones will relish—it's a journey back to the fairyland of youth.

But This Is Paris

There is a different atmosphere in "Hot for Paris," the talking picture in which Victor McLaglen once again is more spirituous than spiritual. He is assisted by that ever-happy Swede, El Brendel, and by Fifi Dorsay, who might be one of the Qual d'Orsays, or a little sister of Irene Bordoni.

"Hot for Paris" is fragrant with cognac and cocottes, and furnishes lively amusement—but it isn't for parsons, maiden aunts, Salvation Army lassies or superannuated professors of ethics. Dick Leibert, who is especially happy in broadcasting to the Byrd expedition, might warm them up by telling about "Hot for Paris."

SIMPLE HOME MIXTURE DARKENS GRAY HAIR

Cincinnati Barber Tells How Any One Can Prepare It In 5 Minutes

Any man or woman can easily look twenty years younger by simply darkening their gray, faded or streaky hair. This is now easy to accomplish with a recipe given by a well-known Cincinnati barber.

Simply take a half pint of water, add one ounce of bay rum, ¼ ounce of glycerine and a small box of Barbo Compound. Shake and it is ready to use. These ingredients can be bought at drug stores at trifling cost.

Applied to the hair twice weekly, this delightful mixture quickly gives the desired shade. It is easy to use, is not sticky or greasy, will not color the scalp and does not rub off.

An Investment that does not fluctuate in value— Life Insurance

OWNERS of life insurance have had occasion recently to compare the stability of this form of investment with that of even the highest grade securities.

A chart of the market price averages of leading stocks for twenty years shows an irregular line that rises and dips, sometimes vertically, with "peaks and valleys".

There are no "depressions" in the investment values of life insurance policies. They do not fluctuate with business cycles. From year to year, the 44 million Metropolitan Life Insurance policies show a steady increase in values to policy-holders.

The man who regularly invests part of his earnings in life insurance can go to sleep each night with the knowledge that he is building an estate of the greatest security and with a sure investment return for every dollar paid in.

Life insurance is an investment whose value constantly increases the longer it is kept in force.

ROBIN MARK UNEQUALLED IN NATIONAL

IF THE owners of the Brooklyn baseball club, now that harmony has been restored among them with Frank B. York elected to the presidency, succeed in their plans to lift the Robins above sixth place this year, the longest stay that any National League club ever made in one position will be interrupted. For the Dodgers have finished in the sixth hole five straight times, and seven times in the last eight years, the only break in the chart since 1922 having occurred in 1924, when they came home second.

Frank B. York

A string of five straight finishes in the same berth is a record as far as the National League is concerned. The closest approach to it, strangely enough, was made in the position that is the most difficult of all to attain—first place. The Giants landed there four times in a row, from 1921 to 1924, inclusive.

Brooklyn's long run without a change in ranking has been beaten once and tied once in the American League, however. The Athletics in the eighth place seven times in succession from 1915 to 1921, inclusive, and the Red Sox have wound up in the cellar the last five seasons.

A PITTSBURGH angle to the Brooklyn situation has to do with Glenn Wright, former Pirate shortstop who was traded to the Dodgers for Pitcher Jess Petty. Wright has talked hopefully about the condition of his aching throwing arm this winter and expects to be as good as ever, but according to President York the Brooklyn club is far from being optimistic on the shortstop's case.

"In buying Slade and Finn of the Missions of the Coast League," York said, "we have carried out a plan to get a new shortstop and second baseman. Frankly, I believe that the odds are greatly against the chance of Wright making a comeback, and I am disposed to be shown that Jake Flowers will be able to play second here. Of course, these two will be given chances at opportunity at the training camp, but personally I am in favor of getting their successors ready now on the chance that successors may be necessary."

FROM a veteran Pittsburgh baseball follower whose admiration for the stars of the old days has not been lessened by the flashy deeds of modern diamondites comes the following tribute to that great slugger of yesteryear, the great Sam Thompson:

Babe Ruth

"CHIEF among these was Sam Thompson, right fielder of the Phillies, who held one of the greatest home-run records of all time until Ruth's clouts put the Babe in the limelight. In his last year in the majors, Thompson, who like Ruth hit from the off side of the plate, poled out 21 homers, a remarkable achievement for a single season in those days. After his retirement from baseball, Thompson removed to Detroit where he was a United States deputy marshal until his death about six years ago."

THOMPSON'S batting feats remain fresh in the memory of local fandom. Sam's mark was a warm favorite here as in all other cities in the league where he appeared. He was a member of the Detroit club from 1885 to 1888 and starred for the Phillies from 1889 until he withdrew from the big show on May 11, 1898, to be succeeded in the Quakers' right field by another crack hitter in the person of Elmer Flick.

On the Detroit club Thompson had as teammates the second famous "Big Four" of baseball—Brouthers, White, Rowe and Richardson—as well as such other noted players as Lady Baldwin, Bennett, Dunlap, Campau, Hanlon, Ganzell, Crane, Getzein, Hall and Shindle. During his years with the Phillies he was associated with such stars as Delehanty, Clements, Keefe, Lajoie, Gleason, Stallings, Hamilton, Sid Farrar (father of Geraldine), Connor, Denny, Field, Elberfeld, Orth, Shugart, Dowd, Lave and Monte Cross, Nash, Ad Gumbert, Hallman, Weyhing, McGill, Douglass and many others.

SAM batted above .300 in nine seasons. Twice he went beyond the .400 mark and in another year he fell only six points short of it. Anson, Burkett, Cobb, Delehanty, Hornsby, Sisler and Stovey were the only other players ever to hit above .400 more than once. Until Ruth got going Sam's 21 homers in a season were beaten only by Ed Williamson's 27 in 1884 and Buck Freeman's 25 in 1899.

Thompson also was one of only eight players who ever knocked a fair ball over the deep right field fence at old Exposition Park here. He did it in 1893 against Pitcher Pink Hawley. The others to do the trick were Elmer Smith (three times), Frank Killen (twice), Mike Tiernan, Bill Halligan, Scrappy Joyce, Danny Green and Tim Jordan.

George Haas

THOUGH the big league baseball magnates, or the great majority of them, refused to allow their diamond athletes to play basketball this winter, through fear of injuries, they did not ban coaching in the floor sport. Several pastimers have been picking up some extra change by working in that capacity during the cold months. George (Mule) Haas, one-time Pirate outfielder, now with the Athletics, has been filling the most unusual role of that kind. The man whose home run saved the A's from a defeat and a shutout in the fifth title game against the Cubs last fall and made him one of the heroes of the world series, has been coaching the girls' teams of the Westinghouse lamp works in Bloomfield, N. J., and with such success that his charges have placed to their credit one of the best records made by any girls' team in the East this season.

THOUGH no definite selection of a head football coach for this year has yet been announced by the W. & J. athletic authorities the resignation of Bill Dietz this week, a pairing with Bill Amos on the job last season, looks the final word to Amos apparently and it will not be surprising if Bill is eventually chosen for the post.

Of course there is a possibility of a dark horse being selected, but

Glendon, Columbia Coach Improving

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP)—Richard Glendon, head coach of Columbia University's intercollegiate champion crew, has undergone an operation for appendicitis.

The operation was performed Saturday at St. Francis Hospital and was highly successful. At the wish of members of the family, announcement was postponed until Glendon was well on the way to recovery. He is expected to be back at the head of his rowing squad by the end of the month.

In the coach's absence his assistant, Hubert Glendon, a younger brother, will be in charge.

JIM SURVIVES SCOZZA'S LATE RALLY

BUFFALO, Feb. 11 (AP)—Debonair Jimmy Slattery, Irish pride of Buffalo's famous Ward 1, rallied from the verge of a knockout last night to win a brilliant 15-round victory over Lou Scozza, his home-town enemy, and with it the recognition of the New York State Athletic Commission as the new light-heavyweight champion of the world.

Beaten once by Tommy Loughran, the retired champion, in a title test, the dancing Irishman came back on his own as a crowd of 11,000 in the Buffalo Auditorium cheered him out of the valley of almost certain defeat in the thirteenth round and on to a victory that was clean and decisive. Although one judge voted the match a draw, Referee Jim Crowley and the second judge gave Slattery a decisive margin. In the opinion of newspapermen, Slattery won nine rounds, Scozza five and one was even.

SHOWS COURAGE

The battered Scozza, a strong, awkward Italian youth whose fame is mostly local, gave a splendid display of courage in the thirteenth session. With one eye completely closed, the other badly cut and blood dripping from a wound in his forehead, Scozza suddenly changed his tactics, leaped frantically upon Slattery with wild overhead swings, and in a twinkling changed the aspect of the battle entirely.

One right thudded on the staggered Slattery's cheek and a left flashed clean to his chin. Jimmy's eyes closed and he reeled backward into the ropes, his arms helpless at his sides. Scozza tore into him with both arms flailing, and Slattery toppled toward the floor.

As Jimmy went down, one arm slipped over the middle rope and his body fell over the strand. He hung there like a dummy tossed over a fence while the referee tried to keep Scozza from him and the timekeeper tried to count. Jimmy came back at the count of four, but was in bad shape. With the utmost difficulty, Slattery managed to clinch and wobble through the remainder of the round.

PILES UP EARLY LEAD

Until the wild scramble of the thirteenth round, there was none too much action and excitement. Slattery, the dancing wraith of the ring, flitted about the inexperienced Scozza, shooting long lefts in a steady stream to Lou's head. In close, where Scozza likes best to battle, Jimmy managed to block most of Lou's shots, but did take enough punches to leave his left side a huge crimson blot.

The decision was popular with the crowd that paid $68,000 to see the milling. Slattery weighed 166½, Scozza 169½.

WALCOTT TOPS ROBERTS

WASHINGTON, Pa., Feb. 11—Young Joe Walcott, Washington, gained the decision over Hans Robert, Pittsburgh, after 10 rounds of scrapping here last night. The crowd booed the decision, many believing it should have been a draw. Carl Montabano, Pittsburgh, and Nick Popice, Wheeling, W. Va., drew in the eight-round semi-final.

Paul Balint, of Pittsburgh, knocked out Joey Angelo, Pittsburgh, in the third round. In the opener, Sailor Place, Washington,

TOMORROW—LINCOLN'S MISTAKE

ARMY-IRISH TO PLAY IN CHICAGO

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP)—The Army-Notre Dame football game, one of the high spots of the gridiron season, is to be played at Soldiers Field, Chicago, this year.

At the request of Notre Dame officials, headed by the Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, president, representatives of the United States Military Academy yesterday agreed to transfer of the battle to Chicago for the 1930 season only. The 1931 and 1932 games, already contracted for, are to be played in New York, as usual.

In a statement announcing the transfer, Father O'Donnell said the change had been made solely because Notre Dame had insisted upon it in an effort to lighten the Indiana team's arduous schedule for 1930. Under the original schedule Notre Dame would have come to New York to meet the Army November 29, and then would have been forced to entrain immediately for the West Coast to meet Southern California at Los Angeles, December 6. Players on the team would have had to miss more than two weeks of classes.

With the game transferred to Chicago the South Bend players will miss no classes for the Army game. The Saturday the game is played will be declared a school holiday at Notre Dame.

Army officials were reluctant to transfer the game to Chicago because it has become a New York fixture and the climax of the Cadets' schedule. Soldiers Field will accommodate about 75,000 more persons than does the Notre Dame stadium.

Wilson to Answer $20,000 Law Suit Today

CHICAGO, Feb. 11 (AP)—Hack Wilson, the pugnacious Cub outfielder, entered Chicago peacefully yesterday only to be reminded by the law that one of his fistic outbursts may cost him $20,000 or almost as much as he is expected to get for knocking out home runs next season.

He was ordered to appear in Superior Court this morning to answer the $20,000 damage suit filed by Edward Young, a milkman, whom he attacked at Wrigley Field in 1928 for making "insulting remarks" to him and his ability as a baseball player.

Young first sued for $50,000, naming the Cub management and Wilson as defendants. Yesterday, he filed an amended suit, asking $20,000 damages and naming only Wilson.

ROBINS BUY SLADE, FINN

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11—(AP)—Sale of Gordon Slade, shortstop, and Neal (Mickey) Finn, second baseman, to the Brooklyn Nationals was announced yesterday by Wade (Red) Killefer, president and manager of the San Francisco Missions.

Under terms of the deal, the Pacific Coast League Baseball Club will receive players and cash. Names of players Brooklyn will send out were withheld, because waivers are being asked on them. The money involved also was not announced. Slade and Finn will join the Brooklyn squad this spring training.

Slade 24, and Finn, 27, have played together for several seasons and last year were regarded as one of the best keystone combinations in the Coast circuit. Slade set an all-time Coast League record last season with a fielding average of .974 for 197 games. He hit for an average of .302. Finn turned in a fielding average of .968 for 176 games and hit .347.

GRIMES, BUC SITUATION UNCHANGED

THE INEVITABLE RECRUIT

Consider the cheaty rookie
As the snow blows down his neck,
He's glad to get his ham and eggs,
Gone is his summer's check;
Then watch him in the Spring-time
As he moves with all the swells—
He'll be hauling out the waiters
In our very best hotels.

The somewhat tense situation affecting the Pirates and Burleigh Grimes, star pitcher of the team, today was unchanged.

"Burleigh knows what we offered him and we don't know when we will meet again on the question," is the stand of the local office.

"It's purely a matter of business; I don't know when there will be another conference, but I am ready to meet with the clubowners any time they want me," Grimes declared.

The vanguard of Pirates is due to leave Pittsburgh one week from tonight. Unless either side gives considerably, the Wisconsin Wildcat is not likely to be aboard the flyer that takes the athletes westward.

Vice-President Sam Dreyfuss of the local organization admits that the financial gap separating the officials and the pitchers is very large.

Chillysauce

The Waiver Act of the National League may be relaxed more than once next season in the American League as a result of the latest developments of the Welsh family of Scranton and South Bend.

Once upon a time there was a major league baseball star named Ed Welsh. In the days of Kid Gleason, when, in the Kid's own words, "there was no candy in the game," this strapping youth of Irish-Welsh descent was regarded in the same category with Matty and other luminaries.

The years passed and Big Ed's name disappeared from the active doings of the German Champion Is Suspended In Kentucky

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 11—(AP)—Al Rammy, claimant of the lightweight championship of Germany, was given a bad beating for the 10 rounds here last night by Jackie Dugan, Louisville, and afterwards was suspended by the State Boxing Commission as being unable to defend himself. The suspension applies to all states connected with the National Boxing Association.

THIEL, GROVERS PLAY RETURN TILT TONIGHT

By JESS CARVER

Old Allegheny and old Westminster will inaugurate their annual two-game basketball series more or less of a big way.

Babe O'Donovan

Supporting this contest, which looms as a real test for the United Presbyterian championship chasers, tonight their contest at New Wilmington heading the evening's cage card as the week's collegiate schedule gets going in a big way, is the return match between Thiel and Grove City, listed for the Grovers' home floor. This game is important because it affords the Crimson a chance to revenge itself on the team that bumped it off so obligedly two weeks or so ago.

METHODISTS STRONG

Allegheny, with what may now be termed a veteran five having played together for two years, should offer Westminster as tough a brand of opposition as the Titans have experienced on their own court so far this season. Babe O'Donovan, star forward of the United Presbyterians, and his clever running mate, Ken Delahunty, who seems to have regained his old time form, will be in for a tough evening against the clever guarding Methodist team.

A year ago Westminster won both ends of the series with Allegheny, although the then green Meadville combination gave the veteran Westminster club a stubborn fight in the second contest.

Bob Thorn undoubtedly will have his Grovers primed for the meeting with Thiel. Bob doesn't mind losing to some teams, but he is always particularly anxious to beat Geneva and Thiel. Thiel scored one of the big upsets of the season by beating Grove City the first time. And judging by their showing against the Dukes and Carnegie Tech since, they have not been weakened to any appreciable extent. There's a good word—appreciable.

BISONS MEET AGGIES

Bethany continues its short trip throughout the Middle West, playing Michigan State at Lansing tonight. The Bisons dumped the clever Aggies when the latter was touring this section. Just another revenge to look for tonight.

St. Vincent's plays Kiski at Saltsburg and West Virginia Wesleyan and Salem meet at Salem to complete the tri-state district card.

A FINE SPORT

Coach Sachs, pilot of the Loyola University five, which was beaten by the Dukes here Saturday night, not only is a fine coach, but he is a fine sportsman.

He lost a tough one Saturday night, no mistake about that, but he never lost his smile, never ar-

Fairmont Signs Pitcher Slaughter

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Feb. 11 (AP)—Del Gainer, manager of the Fairmont Middle Atlantic League Club, announced today that he had signed C. M. Slaughter, of Prum, W. Va., a right-handed pitcher, for next season. Gainer said he believed Slaughter was a good prospect.

Sport Vignettes

Any boxing fans who from time to time may have questioned the tameness of Tiger Joe Randall, Negro welterweight, of Elizabeth, Pa., will do well to read on..... In his bout with Larry Madge, of Cleveland, at the Moose Temple a few nights ago, Randall tore the Achilles tendon of his right leg, which made it impossible for him to put the weight of his body on the heel of that foot..... It happened in the fourth round and he limped and sagged about the ring so pitifully that the fans wanted the bout stopped..... That is, those of them who were not accusing Randall of shamming and "dogging it"..... The Tiger's seconds considered throwing in the towel rather than permit him to be a helpless target before his hard-hitting opponent..... The commission doctor went to the corner to examine him..... Asked if he wanted the bout stopped because of his disability, Tiger Joe begged them not to interfere..... "Let me be knocked out, but don't stop it," he said..... He carried on and finally won by a knockout in the eighth round, when Madge chucked it because of some damage done to the bridgework in his mouth..... If Madge had boasted the heart of a Randall, he would have finished the latter before he got into the jam himself..... Randall deserved the break after his gritty exhibition, and his display ought to silence some of those brave ringside fans who always are only too ready to question the pluck of a man under fire in the ring, and strangely, particularly a Negro fighter, despite the fact that some of the most plucky boxers are members of that race..... Remember Joe Gans, the Ol' Marster, who was carrying on in finish fights with the rugged Battling Nelson when he had one foot in the grave from tuberculosis?..... Here's the latest Heinie Mueller story..... Heinie, you know, is the fellow they tell all of those "dumb" stories about in the National League..... It seems Heinie was listening to the radio when a gong sounded..... "When the gong struck," the announcer said, "it was exactly seven and one-half minutes past 10 o'clock, Eastern Standard Time"..... Heinie looked at his watch..... "Gee, whiz!" he observed, "they ought to get that fixed. Eastern Standard Time is 15 seconds late again."..... For Sale, Cheap.—One slightly used season press row ticket for the Coliseum Boxing Arena. What are we bid?—HARRY KECK.

RODGERS ADDS SCHWARTZ TO KAYO VICTIMS

FANS THRILLED BY VICTORY IN FIRST ROUND

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

They could have counted the proverbial million over Benny Schwartz, of Baltimore and Pittsburgh, as he joined the growing list of knockout victims of Jackie Rodgers, local Negro star, in the first round of their scheduled 10-round main bout before a packed house at Motor Square Garden last night.

It was one of those dramatic knockouts that any fan will pay top prices to see coming with lightning suddenness and leaving no question of its finality.

Knocked out cold, Schwartz pitched down face first and rolled over on his back and stretched out at the count of six. The count completed, he still lay there, so motionless that it was feared he was seriously injured. For another 10 seconds not a hand touched him and then he was picked up and carried to his corner, still out as he was placed on the stool. It was some time after the commission doctor had been called in to attend him before he could leave the ring.

LOSER'S SECOND KNOCKOUT

It was the second knockout of Benny's brilliant career, which has included matches with Pancho Villa, Charley (Phil) Rosenberg and Al Brown, all champions, and many other notables. Wilbur Cohen, another Negro boxer stopped Benny in Baltimore in 1925. It also was the seventh straight knockout conquest for Rodgers, and more than evened up for his defeat by Schwartz on points in a 10-round bout at the Bridgeville Speedway last summer.

The bout lasted only 2 minutes and 22 seconds. For two minutes of that time it appeared as if Schwartz would repeat his earlier victory over the local sensation. In splendid condition at 120½ pounds, he started off by boxing rings around Rodgers. Using his experience and ring generalship to excellent advantage, he kept on top of Jackie, stabbing him off balance and then tying him up in close. He seemed to know just how to fight his man properly to keep out of danger. Rodgers couldn't score a punch. Then, suddenly, Rodgers lashed out with a left as Schwartz backed into the ropes near a neutral corner. The punch landed on the jaw and hurt Benny and he clinched. When they were parted, Jackie pursued Benny across the ring to the ropes on the other side, swinging as he went and planted another left to the jaw that rocked Benny and followed with a chopping right to the same spot that spelled Benny's doom. It was obvious even before Benny unconsciously rolled over on his back that he would not be able to get up.

MASTERLY KNOCKOUT

Rodgers got a big hand for his victory. He deserved it. He convinced those who thought, on his past record, he couldn't beat a clever boxer that they were wrong. He is hitting hard enough now to knock out anybody he faces, and it will take a very clever boxer with a hard chin to give him a real fight in his present form. Whereas last season he was an easy mark for Johnny Dunn, Howard Mayberry, Willie Davies, Johnny McCoy and other good boxers, he appears now to have found himself through the confidence he possesses in the power of his punch. He was not daunted by his failure to land on Schwartz at the start last night, but bided his time until the latter left an opening. Then, when he slung his opponent, he was quick to follow up his advantage and finish the job in workmanlike fashion. He scaled 122 pounds.

On behalf of the Chauffeurs' Club of Pittsburgh, Rodgers was presented a bathrobe in the ring just before the bout got under way.

Two other knockouts featured the preliminaries. In the semi-final, Jack Wells, highly-touted heavyweight, of Wellsburg, W. Va., went out via the technical knockout route in the second round before Harry Williams, Negro, of Pittsburgh, and, in the opener, Andy Andrucci, of the East End, won the same way over Frankie Portland, of Ambridge, after 1 minute 2 seconds of the third round.

Joey Katkish won the referee's decision over Johnny Haggerty, a fellow-Lawrencevillian, when the judges disagreed at the end of the second bout, Judge Jim McLaughlin voting for a draw and Judge Frank Brown for Katkish. The fans were divided on the verdict, but it was a good one, Katkish doing the more effective scoring throughout until he was hurt in falling over the middle rope with Haggerty on top of him at the start of the sixth round. He received a cut on the top of his head and slowed down thereafter until the finish.

WELLS KNOCKED OUT

The knockout of Wells was one of the most peculiar ever seen in a local ring. Williams had the better of the bout in the opening round, in which he repeatedly nailed Wells with rights to the jaw. He sent one left low and Wells complained. Early in the second round, with Williams forcing the fighting, Wells caught him with a right to the body coming in and dropped Harry for no count and continued to pound the body as the latter arose. Williams shook off the effects and resumed the offensive and then suddenly sent over the finishing punch, a terrific right to the jaw that made Wells sink slowly to his knees with his body leaning back rigidly against the ropes. He was out in this awkward position and seemingly unable to move. However, at the count of seven, he suddenly lurched forward and dragged himself to his feet. Williams started too soon to leave the corner to which he had retreated and Referee Joe Keally ordered him back and then, as Wells began to walk in a daze, motioned him to come on. Williams sprang forward for the "kill," but, noting the helpless condition of his big opponent, who was lumbering about with his arms down as if in a trance, he charitably withheld the punch and looked appealingly to the referee, who promptly stepped between them and stopped the fight and supported the dazed Wells to his corner. Wells' sleep-walking actions after he got up were almost a replica of those of Tommy Loughran in the latter's recent bout with Jack Sharkey in New York. Williams is to be commended for his good judgment in not hitting him again.

ANDRUCCI WINNER

Portland was no match for the experienced Andrucci and was on the receiving end throughout their bout. The bell saved him as he was floored in the second round and he took a count of nine in the third before Commissioner Havey Boyle ordered the referee to halt the uneven affair.

Wells outweighed Williams, 183 pounds to 178½; Katkish scaled 126 against 124 for Haggerty, and Andrucci weighed 135 and Portland 136.

Red Robinson refereed the main and second bouts and Joe Keally the other two. Bill Schuster did the announcing and Chappie Couch was at the bell.

JACK WELLS REFEREE KEALLY

Jack Wells, West Virginia heavyweight, was knocked to this awkward position for a count of seven by Harry Williams in the second round of their semi-final bout at the Garden. When he arose he was helpless and Williams refused to hit him again, waiting for the referee to intervene.

Injured Eye Handicap to Schwartz

Jack Silverstein, friend and manager of Benny Schwartz, today revealed that Benny fought Jackie Rodgers under most unusual conditions in their bout in Motor Square Garden last night in which Benny was knocked out in the first round.

According to Silverstein, Schwartz suffered a scratch on his right eyeball in training last Friday and in order to go through with the bout had to seek medical attention. He had the eye treated by a specialist and just before entering the ring had cocaine shot into it to alleviate the pain and stop the watering. However the vision was blurred.

Silverstein said he was not revealing Benny's condition as an alibi. Both he and Schwartz paid warm tribute to Rodgers' fighting ability and punch, but said they would like a third or "rubber" meeting with him.

AMATEURS BOX AT LYCEUM

Eight bouts make up an amateur boxing show at the Pittsburgh Lyceum tonight, with Mose Butch, of the Willow A. C., and Johnny Warner, of the Clairton A. C., respectively senior and junior bantamweight champions of the A. M. A., meeting in the main event.

Between Rounds

Eddie Brannon, local Negro lightweight boxer, Francis Shelmack, of Cleveland, in the main bout of a show at East Liverpool, O., tonight. Joe Gans meets Patsy Mack, Bobby Ellis engages Joe Martinez and Georgia Goodberg tangles with Mickey Doran in 10-rounders in Brooklyn. Primo Carnera, boxing Buddy Martin at St. Louis, Armando Emiliano, boxes Billy Townsend at Los Angeles and King Tut is to mix with Tommy (Kid) Morphy on the Canton card.

The next boxing show at Motor Square Garden is scheduled for March 14. The Lewis and Dempsey shows will be held there in the meantime.

PAYLICK BOXES THOMAS

Emmett Burns, Edwardsville heavyweight now under the management of Al Gavigan, of Youngstown, knocks Fregon Simons, of Cleveland, at Cleveland, February 21.

E. O. Christner and Joe Sekora box a bill at Akron, Thursday night. Incidentally, Tom Jackson, of Akron, manager of Christner, has added two more scalps to his string. They are Leonard Cook, lightweight, of Hartford, Conn., and Johnny Flynn, welterweight, of Charleston.

WIGGINS VS. BARRY

Chuck Wiggins, Indianapolis veteran heavyweight, and Jack Barry, of Flint, O., meet at Lorain, O., next Monday night. Wiggins takes the place of Paul Berlenbach, who canceled because of an injury.

Promoter Francis Flynn has completed the card for Jim Howard Mayberry Jones Open show at the Moose Temple tomorrow night. He has Charley DeJuno and Tommy Ward in the semi-final, C. B. Carpentier and Johnny Sanders in the second bout and Rapid Waters and Johnny Brown in the opening bout.

Johnny Judd, of Cleveland, and Dominick Fredo, of Lyell, have been matched for the main bout of six rounds to the Billy Jones-Frank Florian bout at McKeesport, Thursday night.

Silvan Bass, Baltimore welterweight, boxes Carmen Spagnolo at the Catholic A. C., Philadelphia, Friday night.

Harry Bronner, Washington (Pa.) middleweight boxer who was to have boxed John Patrick (tough) in one of the bouts at Washington last night, was stricken ill earlier in the day and operated on for appendicitis in the Washington Hospital during the afternoon. He will be out of the ring for several months.

Good Bouts Mark McKees Rocks Show

160-pound class: Max Elling, unattached, won from Joe Soviel, Twenty-seventh Ward A. C., three rounds, decision; Joseph Coleman, Braddock Liberal A. C., won from Harry Seig, Hogan A. C., three rounds, decision.

TWO HURLERS SOLD

HARRISBURG, Feb. 11.—(AP.)—The sale of two pitchers, Jimmy Ueshong and Lefty Heffelinger, to the Williamsport New York-Pennsylvania League Club, has been announced by Jack Ritter, Jr., president of the Harrisburg Athletic Club, holders of the local N. Y.-P. franchise.

WAYNESBURG TOPS GENEVA FIVE, 29-26

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Feb. 11.—The Tri-State Conference basketball race dope was splattered here last night when Waynesburg College defeated Geneva, 29 to 26, in an exciting tilt. Geneva ruled the favorite before the game.

Coach Frank Wolf's Yellow Jackets showed plenty of fight by coming back in the second half to overcome Geneva's six-point lead. Entering the second period with the score 17 to 11 against them, Waynesburg carried the fight to Geneva, and during the entire last half the game had spectators in a frenzy. Teams entered the final two minutes deadlocked at 26 all. At this juncture Avery, Waynesburg freshman, sunk a field goal from mid-floor, which was followed by a successful foul-try by Ullom, to put the game on ice. Avery, Ullom and Smith performed well for Waynesburg, while Montgomery and Fair starred for the visitors. The lineup:

Waynesburg—29		Geneva—26
Avery	F	Fair
O'Connell	F	Berger
Smith	C	Orr
Ullom	G	Martin
Pollach	G	Montgomery

Score by periods:

Waynesburg	11	18	29
Geneva	17	9	26

Substitutions: Waynesburg, Ford goals, Avery 2, O'Connell, Smith, Ullom 2, Pollach, Marshall 2, Montgomery 3. Foul goals, Waynesburg, Fair of 9. Geneva, Berger of 11. Referee—Hannum. Umpire—Bolster.

BETHANY BEATEN

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Feb. 11.—(AP.)—Western State Teachers' College basketeers won their ninth straight game last night, the victims being the Bethany College quintet, of West Virginia, who went down, 41 to 29, after trailing throughout.

Bethany missed a number of tosses in the first half, and even Rush's five field goals in the last period did not enable the visitors to come within striking distance of victory. The lineup:

Bethany—29		Western—41
Bassel	F	Bloom
Rush	F	Allen
Vickers	C	Oliver
Schumacher	G	Lockard
Keating	G	Green

Bethany goals, Rush 5, Bassel, Keating 2, Schumacher 2. Western goals, Bloom 3, Allen 4, Oliver 3, Lockard 4, Green 3. Substitutions, Bethany, Vickers for Bassel, Bassel for Vickers, Western, Thompson for Lockard, Lockard for Green. Referee—Bryant, Pittsburgh.

Comish To Try Knockdown Timer

The State Athletic Commission is going to experiment with a knockdown timekeeper. Commissioner Havey J. Boyle announced at the boxing show at Motor Square Garden last night.

Mixups over sending boxers to and keeping them in corners when they score knockdowns and loss of time in counting have led to the decision to try out the system in vogue in New York, Chicago and elsewhere where a special timekeeper at the ringside rises the moment a knockdown occurs, and, with a stop-watch in his hand, bangs off the toll with a hammer on the floor of the edge of the ring. The referee sees that the boxer scoring the knockdown goes to the farthest corner and then comes over to the fallen boxer and picks up the count with the timer, thus avoiding the loss of precious seconds.

The experiment will be tried at an early show and if successful, will be continued in force.

GENEVA MAY LOSE STAR

BEAVER Falls, Pa., Feb. 11.—(AP.)—Rahaume, star basketeer on Ken Loeffler's Geneva college basketball team, will be lost to the team's lineup for the rest of the season, it is feared. He was injured in the Allegheny game at the Lawrence gym last Friday and is now laboring about on crutches.

BILL TILDEN WINS

NICE, France, Feb. 11.—(AP.)—Big Bill Tilden, American tennis champion, began his campaign for the Southern France championship today by defeating Lotar, a player of purely local reputation, at 6-0, 6-1, 6-1.

RIDE RESIGNS AS COACH AT WASH.-JEFF.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Feb. 11.—Ray Ride's resignation is expected to bring action within the next few days which will definitely decide the coaching situation at Washington and Jefferson College.

It was last during the past few weeks that it became known that there was any uncertainty regarding the coaching staff for next year. Ray Ride and Bill Amos, having been so successful their first year as joint coaches that everybody expected them to be retained.

Then came the news that Ride and Amos had asked that a head coach be designated.

PRESENTS RESIGNATION

A meeting of the coach committee of the council was held Saturday and no choice was made, this being followed last night by the announcement that Ride had presented his resignation to take effect immediately.

Ride has been wonderfully loyal and performed a splendid service to W. & J. He has all the qualifications necessary to fill the position of head coach."

This statement was made last night by Graduate Manager W. G. Thrift, of the local school.

Ride has been a member of the coaching staff at W. & J. for the past three years. He graduated from the local school in 1927 after attending Greensburg High School and Pennsylvania State College, the latter in his freshman year.

STARTED WITH YEARLINGS

In 1927 he was freshman coach at W. & J. and in 1928 was made assistant to Head Coach Andy Kerr. When Kerr received his sudden offer to go to Colgate Ride and Amos were selected to fill the breach.

YOUNG RUDY BEATEN

WHEELING, W. Va., Feb. 11.—Jackie Herman, of Wheeling, won the decision in a closely fought six-round bout with Young Rudy, of Charleroi, Pa., here last night. They are welterweights.

TOMMY CRAWLEY COPS

RUTH BEATS MAROON

NEW CASTLE, Feb. 11.—A great crowd saw Babe Ruth, of Louisville, Ky., win in 10 fast rounds from Tommy Maroon, of Kansas City, Mo., here last night. Ruth dropped Maroon in the ninth round for a count of seven by a stiff punch over the heart.

In the semi-final, Red Jadabird, Jamestown, N. Y., won by a technical knockout from George Perotta, New Castle, in the third round. Jackie Ward, Cleveland, and Bud Dempsey, Ambridge, went six rounds to a draw. Marshal Crochet, Cleveland, won the decision in the first six-rounder from Young Folins, Beaver Falls.

Golf Pros Permitted To Deduct Expenses

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(AP.)—Golf professionals have obtained a little balm from the Bureau of Internal Revenue, but there's a fly in the ointment. They are allowed to deduct from income expenses of traveling to tournaments, hotel bills, the cost of clubs, balls, bags and tees, but not the cost of nifty toggery.

PIRATE SQUAD GROWS

The Pirate training roster still grows and it is probable that it will be the largest the team has had in many years. Vice President Sam Dreyfuss today announced that Manager Ens would give a tryout to Infielder John Skobe, a Los Angeles semi-pro, who has been playing in the Winter League of that city.

Recommended by Marty Fiedler, former Johnstown pilot, who will lead Columbia this year, Skobe is a rangy kid of 20 years. He weighs 150 pounds. The rookie is a righthand thrower and lefthand batter. He will report with the second squad.

Another tryout pitcher was added yesterday in the person of one Ivan Green, a righthander of Phoenix, Ariz. The youngster will be taken to camp with the first squad, he being sponsored by George Grantham, another Pirate who resides in the Arizona metropolis.

this is considered unlikely. Amos' work has been satisfactory in the main. So was that of Ride, for that matter. The objectionable feature was the system of divided authority, not the showing of either coach. Ride is deservedly popular and W. & J. men will regret his withdrawal, but the retirement of one of the coaches was essential to the gridiron welfare of the college. There can't be two bosses in a football camp.

Lou Scozza

DOES the failure of Lou Scozza to defeat Jimmy Slattery in their 15-round bout at Buffalo last night, which failure made Slattery the new light-heavyweight champion, mean that Jimmy has overcome his old weakness against opponents of the rugged, hard-punching type? On speed and boxing ability, Slattery looked like the probable winner on points, but the fact of his rarely having defeated a rough and robust foeman had held out a chance that Scozza might get to him and wear him down inside the limit. There never was any doubt about Slattery's exceptional speed or skill, and if he has found a way to cope successfully with the rough boys, as last night's result would appear to indicate, glovedom's newest champion will not be unseated in a hurry. There seems to be nobody around unless it be Maxie Rosenbloom, to threaten him seriously in other respects.

gued over a decision and after the game, in the dressing room, some of his players who worked up and excited over the game were prone to crack derogatorily about the officials. Sachs calmed 'em with the following order:

TOBY, TOM TO SPEAK

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Feb. 11.—Announcement has been made that Toby Uansa and Tom Parkinson, University of Pittsburgh football stars, will be guests of honor and principal speakers at the annual banquet of the Jefferson High School football team tonight in the evening. Other speakers will be Frank N. Wolf and Paul B. Stewart, athletic director and president, respectively of Waynesburg College.

Rosies, Paterson In Pro Loop Tilt Here March 12

The first professional basketball with a championship tinge to be played here will be staged on Wednesday, March 12, when the Cleveland Rosenblums meet the Paterson five in a regularly scheduled American League game in the Duquesne University gym. The game originally was set for March 3, but a rearrangement in the schedule of the second half of the league calls for Paterson to play in Chicago on Tuesday, March 4, and to avoid a return jump Manager Rose of the Rosies and J. J. Freund, Jr., local representative of the world champions decided to stage the big game on the twelfth. Practically all the college games will have been played by that time and the boards will be clear for the greatest pro game to be played here since the original Central League of 20 years ago disbanded.

The winners of the second place and third place playoffs are scheduled to meet in a series of the best two out of three games on February 25, 27 and 29 or 30 for the right to enter the final for the Stanley Cup against the winner of the first place series. The final playoff to decide the world championship is scheduled for April 1, 3 and 5 or 6.

The Boston club was another charter member of the National League, and, with Chicago, is the only club that has remained in the league since. N. T. Apolinio was the first president, while Harry Wright was the first manager. The club finished in fourth position in its first year, winning 39 and losing 31 games for a percentage of .557.

George Wright, who was the Boston's shortstop in this game, was a member of the Original Cincinnati Red Stockings, the first club that had a salary list. He drew $1,400 for his work, being the highest paid man on the team. Tim Murano, who played first base in this game, was one of the first men to take up baseball writing as a profession. He also held the presidency of the New England League.

Charley Josephs, who hurled for Boston, is credited with the wildest pitch ever committed by a pitcher. His toss was so wild that it hit a woman fan in the grandstand. Hall, in left field, was one of the players blacklisted in that famous game with Louisville in 1877. Jim O'Rourke, center fielder for the Bostons, was one of the presidents of the Connecticut League.

PIRATE ICEMEN IN FORT ERIE

GAMES TONIGHT.

Toronto at Boston.
New York Rangers at Montreal.

FORT ERIE, Ont., Feb. 11.—The Pittsburgh Pirate icemen arrived here today to make ready for their game with the world champion Boston Bruins at the local arena tomorrow night. The contest is a postponed and transferred affair which originally was carded to be played in Pittsburgh last Saturday night.

The Pirates' arrival here was something in the nature of a homecoming for the Pittsburgh seafers did their training here before the National League campaign opened.

Secretary Garry Schmeelk today received word from Manager Frank Frederickson that the Pittsburghers game with Toronto on February 20 had been transferred from the Steel City to the home of the Leafs. Schmeelk is acting as pilot while Frederickson tours the West in quest of new talent. The shifting of the Toronto game makes the Bucs' present road trip a six-game jaunt.

The Pirates survived their Sunday night battle in Detroit in good fashion and are confident that they will be able to give the champs a real fight.

Rochester High's Grid Card Out

ROCHESTER, Pa., Feb. 11.—Coach Wayne O. Hauck announced the Rochester High School football schedule for 1930 here today with a card that is practically the same as the tough layout of 1929. The only change of opponents is that New Castle takes the place of Westinghouse. Following is the complete schedule:

Sept. 20, open; Sept. 27, Ambridge at Rochester.
Oct. 4, Freedom at Rochester.
Oct. 11, Beaver Falls at Rochester.
Oct. 18, Rochester at New Brighton.
Oct. 25, Beaver Falls at Rochester.
Nov. 1, Rochester at New Castle.
Nov. 8, Mohegan at Rochester.
Nov. 15, Rochester at Uniontown.
Nov. 22, open.
Nov. 27, Rochester at Beaver.

Phil Holdouts Won't Be Traded—Baker

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 11.—(INS)—"None of the men who have failed to sign their contracts will be traded. I have made them fair offers. It's up to them to accept terms, play for the Phillies, or remain idle," that was President William F. Baker's edict to the Phils' holdouts today.

It was voiced by the executive following the returning of unsigned contracts by Lefty O'Doul, Chuck Klein and Pinky Whitney. O'Doul led the league in batting last season, while Klein was the home run clouter of the National League.

Tulsa Franchise Goes to Topeka

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Transfer of the Tulsa, Okla., franchise of the Western League to Topeka was announced yesterday by Dale Gear, president of the circuit, following removal of the Topeka franchise to St. Joseph, Mo.

The Tulsa franchise is controlled by the St. Louis Browns, while the St. Louis Cardinals management has added the St. Joseph Club to its chain of minor league "farms."

ROYALS COP TWO

The Trinity Cathedral Royals copped two games last night, Reidenbach and Fassinger leading the regulars to a 27-18 victory over the Tiber Five, and Blair and Dean starring as the Reserves tripped Mt. Troy, 25 to 21.

SHADE BEATS WILLIS

GOPHER HEADS RESIGN

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Discontent over the football coaching situation at the University of Minnesota came to a head today with the resignation of six members of the athletic committee on intercollegiate athletics.

R. B. (Bunny) Rathbun and Arnold Oss, alumni representatives on the committee, submitted their resignations today in letters to E. B. Pierce, chairman of the committee. Both resignations are effective immediately.

Expressing dissatisfaction with the manner in which the committee handled the selection of H. G. Crisler as head football coach and E. E. (Tad) Wieman as his assistant, Rathbun's letter declared alumni representation on the committee "appears to have become so futile that I cannot justify my continuance thereon."

Oss' letter said: "I concur absolutely in the sentiments expressed in Mr. Rathbun's letter."

The J. J. Veronas will be out to strengthen their hold on first place in the County League race tonight when they entertain the Elizabeth Independents at Columbus Temple. In the other league game on the schedule the Duquesne Lafayettes, defending champions, oppose the Charleroi Lions at Duquesne.

The local Italians, favorites to win the second half championship of the loop, have scored three successive victories and will attempt to make it four in a row at the expense of the Independents tonight.

In the West Penn League only one game is carded tonight, the champion Ray Schneiders appearing against the Knickers at Forresters' Hall, Lawrenceville. The Knickers are prepared for a tough battle as the two clubs have been rivals all season.

National Music appears at Equitable Life in the only game scheduled in the Central Pittsburgh League.

One game is carded in the South Side Catholic Lyceum League, St. Wendelin's playing at St. John's. In the Commercial-Industrial League, Carnegie Steel opposes the Dravo Construction quintet on the latter's floor.

Champs of two counties clash tonight at Duquesne University when the Paulists of Butler oppose the Boosters of New Castle in the final battle of a three-game series.

The Fitzies passers came through with a 26-to-21 triumph over the Duquesne Lafayettes in the County League last night. White netted three field goals to star individually.

North Side Community tripped the Schneiders 31 to 27 in the West Penn loop and Potter Title and Trust beat Riecks, 49 to 20, and P. & L. E. bested Real Estate 39 to 29 in the C. & I. league. The County League lineup:

Fitzies (26)		Lafayette (21)

POWLEY LOOMS AS STAR

One of the most promising of the many Pittsburgh district diamond stars going out this year is Harry Powley, brilliant right-hand pitcher of the Verona Community Club who is all set to join the New York Giants.

Harry Powley

The sturdy Powley is believed by his friends to have a rosy baseball future. Manager McGraw, of the famed Polo Grounders, looked on studiously at Forbes Field last year while Powley worked out. McGraw liked the actions of the lad and at once made him an offer.

The Verona star has been ordered to join the Giants Saturday in St. Louis. The vanguard of the McGraw combination will be en route to the San Antonio camp when Harry hooks up with the party.

Opinions on Outcome of Fox Meeting Affect Stock's Movement

THE erratic movements in Fox Film were governed by the various opinions concerning what would happen at the hearing scheduled to be held after the close this afternoon. Before the opening it was reported that a hitch had occurred in the negotiations for the adoption of a plan to prevent a Fox receivership. The belief was expressed that another adjournment would be required. Under the influence of this unfavorable gossip Fox opened 4 points lower at 30. Later reports were denied by attorneys for Fox Film and the stock snapped back to 34. It was intimated that a plan would be presented at the receivership hearing this afternoon under which a Wall street banking group would agree to make an offering of Fox securities.

The irregularity in Fox was not shared by the other motion picture issues which were quietly strong. Famous Players responded to the announcement of an increase in dividend rate with a gain of more than 1 point and Warner Pictures ran up almost 2 points. At a meeting of the board of directors of the Paramount Famous Lasky Corporation a quarterly dividend of $1 a share was declared. Heretofore 75 cents a quarter has been the usual dividend. The action yesterday increased the rate from $3 to $4 a share. The directors also voted to recommend to stockholders an increase in the total authorized number of shares from 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 shares and also a change in the name of the corporation from Paramount Famous Lasky Corporation to Paramount Publix Corporation. In connection with the strength of Warner it is pointed out that present indications are that earnings of the company for the first quarter of its current fiscal year, or for the three months ended November 30 last, will approximate $5,500,000. After all charges, taxes, etc., this would be the largest quarterly earnings ever enjoyed by the company.

THE bear group reported to be attacking the steel stocks particularly Steel common, with the intention of bringing increased selling in other directions, struck a snag this afternoon when the steel group staged a sudden rally. United States Steel common has been meeting bear pressure and steady liquidation for several days. After selling at 181¼, in the early dealings, Steel rallied to above 184, a gain of 2¾ points. Bethlehem Steel also moved briskly forward. According to the Iron Age steel demand after rebounding sharply in January is not only holding its own but in the aggregate has shown a further slight gain. The most recent expansion of business, however, has not been shared in by all producers. Whereas steel ingot output in Chicago has risen to 90 per cent of capacity, at Pittsburgh it remains at 75 per cent and in the Youngstown district has declined a few points. The average for the country at large has advanced to 79 per cent, compared with nearly 77 per cent, a week ago.

Setngeth in many sections of the stock market was the outstanding feature of the pre-holiday session. Although several of the prominent market personages are now wintering in Florida and at other resorts, activity on the exchange continues in fair volume and this is taken as an indication that the public participation is gradually assuming greater proportions. Confidence has been restored and many heretofore reliable market barometers now point to higher levels. Despite the fact that some $40,000,000 in loans was called on Monday, the renewal rate on the New York Stock Exchange today was 4 per cent with plenty of funds available in the outside market at 3½ per cent. Operators for the rise are naturally pleased with the low money levels at this time.

REPORTS from industrial centers, while rather mixed, are on the whole favorable. They continue to tell of plans of industrialists to expend large sums on betterment programs and thus create a greater demand for labor. Stocks on the shelves of dealers in many lines are reported to be extremely low and a revival of buying on the part of the retailer is generally looked for within a short time. Better conditions in the business world will doubtless be quickly reflected in the security markets and for this reason stocks of companies engaged in the lines most likely to be benefited are now being accumulated by long pull investors.

Good buying continued in general foods for the account of those who place the stock in the so-called "depression proof" class. Last year earnings were around $4 a share and interests in close touch with the company feel that the company might easily earn as high as $4.50 a share in 1930. Management recently made some changes in advertising policy with a view to further popularizing General Foods' products. Company owns a valuable freezing process organization which in time to come should prove a substantial revenue producer.

Water Firm Plans New Bond Issue

Financing for the South Pittsburgh Water Company will shortly be carried out by Halsey Stuart Company and W. C. Langley Company. It is an offering of $1,850,000 first lien-refunding mortgage 5 per cent bonds, series B due 1960. The proceeds will be used to reimburse the company for expenditures for extensions, additions, retirement of certain funded indebtedness, etc.

STEEL DEMAND HOLDING UP

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Steel demand, after rebounding sharply in January is not only holding its own but in the aggregate has shown a further slight gain, Iron Age says in its weekly summary of the iron and steel industry. The most recent expansion of business, however, it adds, has not been shared in by all producers.

Whereas steel ingot output at Chicago has risen to 90 per cent of rated capacity, however, the summary states, "at Pittsburgh it remains at 75 per cent and in the Youngstown district has declined a few points. The average for the country at large has advanced to 79 per cent, compared with nearly 77 per cent a week ago.

"Rail releases help account for the high rate of production in the Chicago district.

"The outlook in heavier rolled products is generally favorable, thanks to railroad equipment purchases and structural steel awards.

"Chicago mills look for the early release of 100,000 tons of plates for a gas line pipe contract placed last fall. Among prospective pipe projects is a 500-mile line to be built in Northwestern Texas by the South Plains Pipe Line Company.

"Demand for automobile steel, although still gaining, is not well diversified. January production of motor cars totaled 300,000 units, compared with slightly more than 400,000 in the first month of 1929. While the Ford and Chevrolet companies promise to show a material increase in output this month, makers of medium and high-priced cars will probably do little better than maintain their January rates.

"The Iron Age composite price of pig iron dropped to $18 a gross ton from $18.17 last week. The finished steel composite remains at 2.305c a pound.

"Bookings of fabricated structural steel, as compiled by the Iron Age, covered 52,000 tons in projects of 100 tons or more, following awards of 52,500 and 53,000 tons for the preceding two weeks."

Daily Average Oil Yield Is Higher

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 11.—Daily average production of crude oil in the United States for week ended February 8, totaled 2,618,761 barrels, an increase of 33,144 barrels over the preceding week, according to the Oil and Gas Journal. Light oil production during the week increased 21,707 barrels.

M'FADDEN HITS BANK POLICY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Having obtained authority to investigate chain and branch banking, the House Banking Committee has begun an inquiry into the New York Reserve Bank's participation in the Bank of International Settlements, the world fiscal agency growing out of the Young reparations plan, it was learned today.

Representative McFadden (Rep., of Pennsylvania) proposed to the House that it authorize investigation into the "facts and scope of intention of the federal reserve management in regard to past, present and future plans on international finance."

The New York Reserve Bank, McFadden asserts, is planning to become the fiscal agent of the world bank by a false interpretation of the reserve act under which it claims authority.

The New York bank's policy of co-operating with the world bank is in direct conflict with the announcement of Secretary of State Stimson that the federal reserve system would have no part in the bank's affairs, he said. J. P. Morgan & Co. will direct the American participation, according to McFadden.

The entire operations of the Federal Reserve system in co-operating with central banks of other nations, McFadden asserts, is tending toward a universal plan of banking operations.

He charged that the same forces which have sought to bring the United States into the League of Nations and the World Court are behind American participation in the world bank scheme. The ultimate aim, he declared, is debt cancellation.

CIVILIZATION TAKES A BATH...

If there is one thing more than another that distinguishes this age from others that have gone before, it is cleanliness and sanitation. While the baths of ancient Rome were popular among all classes 2,000 years ago, private baths were rare indeed. Today's civilization is characterized by the presence of convenient bathing facilities in almost every home.

The age of sanitation has brought with it a new vocation . . . plumbing, a trade that has progressed so far as to be referred to as sanitary engineering, a name it well deserves. Modern plumbing has brought running water with its attendant improvement in sanitation into practically every home.

To the plumbers of Pittsburgh, the Mellon National Bank extends a cordial invitation to open an account, and to make such use of the bank's facilities as they may desire.

UTILITIES LEAD STOCKS IN UPSWING

Gains of 1 to 6 Points Shown in Fairly Long List After Mixed Start

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—(AP.)—The stock market shook off an early period of irregularity today and moved upward under the leadership of the public utilities and a select group of steel, amusement, rubber and business appliance shares and specialties. Gains of 1 to 6 points were distributed over a fairly broad list by early afternoon, but trading was only moderately heavy in volume.

Business news was mixed. Reports of a sharp increase in crude oil production last week were accompanied by a reduction of 1 cent a gallon in the tank wagon price of gasoline in New York and New England by the Standard Oil Company of New York. Iron Age reported that "steel demand, after rebounding sharply in January, is not only holding its own but in the aggregate, has shown a further slight gain." The average operations for the country at large are now at 79 per cent of capacity, compared with nearly 77 per cents week ago.

MONEY IN SUPPLY

Call money renewed at 4 per cent and was in liberal supply at that figure, with indications that the rate would be maintained.

For Film broke 4 points at the opening on reports of a hitch in the negotiations for a recapitalization plan to avert receivership proceedings, scheduled for a hearing late this afternoon, but had made up its loss by early afternoon. Union Pacific broke 9½ points to 226 on selling presumably unaffected by a downward revision of earlier earnings estimates.

Goodyear Rubber, in which the Eaton interests, of Cleveland, recently acquired a large interest, ran up 6 points to a new 1930 high at 80. Goodrich advanced 3 points and United States Rubber 2.

U. S. Steel common crossed 124 for a gain of nearly 3 points, but again met heavy profit taking at that level and had difficulty in maintaining its gain. Gulf States extended its gain to 3 points and Vanadium sold 2 points higher.

GOOD GAINS MADE

Extreme gains of 3 to 6 points were registered by Standard Gas and Electric, American Water Works, American Power and Light, Colorado Fuel, Westinghouse Electric, American Woolen preferred, International Business Machines, Underwood Elliott Fisher and Auburn Auto.

Vulcan Detinning issues also showed outstanding strength.

Paramount Placed On $4 Annual Basis

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Directors of the Paramount-Famous-Lasky Corporation increased the annual dividend rate from $3 to $4 by declaring a quarterly distribution of $1 a share, payable March 29 to stock of record March 7.

Directors also voted to ask stockholders at the annual meeting, April 15, to increase the total authorized capital stock from 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 shares, and to approve a change in the corporate title of the company to Paramount-Public Corporation.

Adolph Zukor, president, stated the company had grown steadily in the last few years and the directors deemed it advisable to increase the capital by 1,000,000 shares so that the company will be in a position to expand by the issuance of additional stock if and when opportunities arise as they have in the past.

Crucible Steel Co. Forms New Unit

W. P. Snyder, Jr., president of the Shenango Furnace Company, announces the formation of the Snyder Mining Company, for the purpose of taking over the ownership and operation of the extensive mining properties of the Shenango Furnace Company on the Mesabi Range, St. Louis County, Minn. These properties include the Shenango, Webb, Whiteside, South Tener and Virginia mines.

This new company is owned jointly by the Shenango Furnace Company and the Crucible Steel Company of America, with W. P. Snyder, Jr., president.

Dunning Optimistic On Canada Wheat

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 11.—C. A. Dunning, minister of finance, returned from a flying visit to Regina, Sask., with an optimistic statement on the wheat situation.

"I see no reason for getting panicky," he said. "There is no more wheat in storage now than there was at this time last year."

Mr. Dunning declared positively that the federal government had received no request for assistance from the western wheat pool.

Coverdale Denies Republic-Gulf States Deal

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 11.—(AP.)—William H. Coverdale, president of the Gulf States Steel Company, last night denied that his organization had been acquired by the Cyrus Eaton interests of Cleveland.

Mr. Coverdale said he "understood the Eaton interests had been buying Gulf States stock, but not enough to acquire control."

Mr. Coverdale said that the American Rolling Mills Company also was considering purchasing control, but no sale was in sight so far as he could see.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Officials of Otis & Co. today declined to make any formal statement regarding the denial of William H. Coverdale that control of the Gulf States Steel Company, of Birmingham, Ala., of which he is president, had been acquired by the Cyrus S. Eaton interests. Mr. Eaton is a senior partner in Otis & Co., New York and Cleveland investment bankers.

From sources close to Otis & Co., however, it was learned that the firm had been quietly accumulating Gulf States stock in the open market and had acquired an interest which, with that of their associates, said to be southern bankers, would give them working control of the Gulf States company.

Prairie Oil & Gas Leases 7,000 Acres

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 11.—Prairie Oil and Gas Company has leased 7,000 acres on the far east side of Ventura avenue field, where it is understood they will make a test for deep sand. This area has been prospected by three companies and abandoned.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—(AP.)—After considerable hesitancy in the early trading, the Curb Market pointed upward under the leadership of the utilities today. Gains were largely moderate, however, as progress was impeded by lightening of accounts in preparation for the Lincoln's Birthday holiday tomorrow.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

RECESSION NOT HALTING P. R. R. PROGRAM

Gigantic Modernization Plans Here, Elsewhere Carried On, County Says

By MERRYLL STANLEY RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—A. J. County, vice president in charge of finance of the Pennsylvania Railroad, told me that the new American business policy of keeping inventories low is visibly shortening the duration of the trade recession.

Furthermore, the financial executive explained that the management of this great railroad regarded it as a passing event and were going ahead uninterruptedly with their gigantic program of modernizing and rebuilding the railroad. Specifically, this confidence has resulted in the placing of the company's largest order for steel rails of record, in huge new orders for equipment, in furtherance of plans for electrification in congested sections of the eastern seaboard and in mountainous regions, and in the building of new terminals in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Newark and elsewhere. The present program for remaking the Pennsylvania, he said, would not be completed for five years.

KEEPING UP TO DATE.

"We're allowing no cemetery to grow up around us," Mr. County vividly remarked. "We're in the transportation business and are ready to adapt any new means of transportation which seems feasible, including airplanes and buses. Whatever comes along, we'll adopt."

Referring to the immediate business situation as disclosed by investigations along the eastern part of the United States through which the Pennsylvania passes, Mr. County said he still finds a good deal of caution. On account of low inventories, however, during the first fortnight of the new year it seemed that traffic was running ahead of the corresponding period of last year, especially on account of heavy coal movements ascribable to the severe winter in the middle west. More recently, however, traffic has fallen about 6 per cent below the 1929 level. Mr. County thinks that the resilient of business will come in the spring and he is looking forward to reasonable good trade. The chief worry in his mind is unemployment, including technological unemployment, resulting in the replacement of men by machines and a new technique of efficiency. Apart from the human angle, Mr. County pointed out that unemployment represents a reduction in purchasing power on which prosperity rests.

STOCKHOLDERS INCREASE.

The standing of Pennsylvania stock as a media for investment rather than speculation, Mr. County thought, was emphasized by the fact that since the panic the company has on its list 10,000 to 12,000 additional stockholders. The total now exceeds 200,000. Moreover, as indicative of the supply of investment capital, Mr. County pointed out that only a negligible number of stockholders in connection with the recent new offering of stock at par took advantage of the option to pay for the stock in two installments instead of one. As a result of its consistent policy of reducing debt in the last couple of years, the company by the end of this year will have brought its debt slightly below the amount of stock outstanding. Mr. County thinks that the company has gone as far as it need in recasting its capital structure, and is now in position again to vary its financing plans as between stocks and bonds, in accordance with its shifting preferences and fluctuating money market conditions. In the rebuilding of the system since the relinquishment of government control, the company capitalized only one dollar out of every two spent, Mr. County said.

Mr. County indicated that it is now the unwritten policy of the Pennsylvania to issue new stock at par.

This is in contrast to numerous industrial corporations which during the new era period sought to exploit their own stockholders by offering new stock far above book value at unreasoned prices.

Sheet and Tube Shows Marked Progress

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

EARNINGS of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company in 1929, which were the greatest of any peace time year, represented more than the general high rate of operations in the steel industry. They reflected the increased operating efficiency resulting from five years of work in modernizing plants and increasing capacity.

While net income of $4,270,606 or $3.38 a share in the final quarter of the year was lower than in any of the preceding three quarters, it was greater than the profit of any quarter in 1928. The price situation in the steel industry has been unstable but officials of the company are hopeful that earnings in the present quarter will compare favorably with the three months ended in December.

For the full year of 1929 net profit was $21,564,174 or $17.28 a share on 1,200,000 shares of common stock outstanding at the end of the year. The capitalization was increased from 1,000,000 shares by the payment of a 20 per cent stock dividend on September 9, 1929. Last year's earnings were more than double the net profit of 1928 of $10,446,336 or $9.53 a share on the old capitalization.

Earnings Gain.

WHILE nearly all steel companies made exceptionally favorable showings last year, Sheet and Tube showed a degree of progress which was far above the average. The following table compares net profits by quarters for the past three years:

Quarter.	1929.	1928.	1927.
First	$4,430,316	$1,663,516	$2,256,043
Second	6,107,057	2,490,890	2,062,215
Third	6,756,741	2,717,965	1,538,813

While the net profits of the steel industry in general began to taper off in the third quarter, Sheet and Tube continued to show an upward tendency. This was due to further economies as well as to a good market for tubular products for pipe lines and for oil field use.

Three Years of Progress

EARNINGS have showed a wide range of fluctuation due to changing conditions in the steel trade but the past three years have been marked by continued progress in increasing net income as new plant facilities have been placed into operation. The trend of earnings by years can be seen from the following table of net profits and earnings per share on the common stock:

Year.	Net Income.	Per Share.
1929	$21,564,174	$17.28
1928	10,446,336	9.53
1927	7,028,334	6.10
1926	15,148,876	14.32
1925	13,227,721	12.38

Earnings per share for 1929 were on the basis of 1,200,000 shares outstanding, but in previous years they were based on 1,000,000 shares. The company has $15,000,000 in 5½ per cent convertible preferred stock outstanding.

The improvement ... carried into the new year. It was recently announced that an appropriation of $9,000,000 had been made for new operating facilities to be installed during 1930.

The common stock has been on a $5 annual dividend basis since April, 1927, previous to that time $4 was paid.

Merger Prospects

MERGER possibilities have played an important part in the public interest in the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company in recent years. At various times negotiations have been under way with the Republic group as well as with Inland Steel. So far as is known at present, no definite stage has been reached with either of these organizations although a consolidation is well within the realms of possibility within the near future.

NEW OFFERINGS

New security offerings today include Republic of Cuba, $40,000,000 public works 5½ per cent sinking fund gold bonds, dated January 1, 1930, due June 30, 1945, priced at 98 and interest, to yield about 5.70 per cent, offered by the Chase Securities Corporation, Bancamerica-Blair Corporation and others.

Middle West Utilities system $2,515,000 first mortgage 20-year 5 per cent gold bonds, series "A," consisting of $1,615,000 Michigan Public Service Company bonds, dated April 1, 1927, due April 1, 1947, priced at 89½ and accrued interest, to yield about 6 per cent; $1,000,000 the Kansas Power Company bonds, dated March 1, 1927, due March 1, 1947, priced at 92½ and accrued interest, to yield about 5.70 per cent, and $900,000 Missouri Public Service Company bonds, dated February 1, 1927, and due February 1, 1947, and priced at 90½ and accrued interest, to yield about 5.90 per cent, offered by E. H. Rollins & Sons and others.

Utah Power and Light Company $4,000,000 first mortgage 5 per cent gold bonds, dated February 2, 1914, and due February 11, 1944, priced at 99 and interest, yielding about 5.20 per cent, offered by Harris, Forbes & Co. and Coffin & Burr.

South Pittsburgh Water Company $1,850,000 first lien and refunding mortgage 5 per cent gold bonds, series "B," dated January 1, 1925, and due January 1, 1940, priced at 93 and interest, to yield more than 5.47 per cent, offered by W. C. Langley & Co. and Halsey, Stuart & Co.

369 Vesta Coal Employes Banquet

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Feb. 11.—Three hundred salaried employes of the Vesta Coal Company attended the second annual banquet at California State Teachers' College. Speakers included Dr. Robert M. Steele, president of the college; John Oastel, safety director of the Carnegie Steel Company; Henry D. McGinnis of the du Pont Powder Company; R. J. Wensley, engineer of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, and Luke Barnett, of Pittsburgh.

Santa Fe Operators O. K. Oil Curtailment

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 11.—Santa Fe Springs oil operators with one exception approved the proposal by the Texas Railroad Commission to curtail production.

Texas Railroad Commission has issued an order fixing proration of oil output in the Yates field of Pecos County at 100,000 barrels daily, a reduction of 30,000 barrels daily.

STEEL PRICES FIRMER

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Feb. 11.—It is significant to note that extreme shading in prices of steel sheets has disappeared, and the market is showing some strength. In black sheets, for example, some makers are rejecting business offered below 2.65c per pound. One maker of galvanized sheets has taken a stand at 3.40c, but concessions down to 3.30c have developed. In blue annealed, the market is 2.10c and 2.25c. There is considerably more new business in sheets than a month ago, but producers have not yet been able to build up sizable backlogs.

More new business is developing in plates, shapes and steel bars, with the result that a disturbed price situation is being cleared. A differential between shapes and plates on the one hand, and bars on the other, amounting to $1 per ton, has been wiped out, and the market on all three commodities is now stabilizing at 1.85c.

Wire makers are optimistic over developments of recent weeks, as fresh business has been received in sizable tonnages.

James A. Campbell, chairman of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, says that the immediate outlook in the steel industry is that the present rate of operations will at least be maintained and probably improved during the remainder of the current quarterly period.

Bituminous Coal Production Lower

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—National production of bituminous coal, for the latest week estimated by the Mines Bureau and comparable periods, is as follows: Week ending February 1, 11,624,000 tons; preceding week, 11,703,000 tons; same week last year, 11,675,000 tons.

Upset Not Serious If Bowels Get This Help

When you're out-of-sorts, headachy, dizzy, bilious, with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy—don't worry. It's probably constipation.

Take a candy Cascaret tonight and see how quickly your troubles start up. No more headache, no gas on stomach or bowels. Appetite improves, digestion is encouraged. Take a Cascaret tonight and the next night the cause, bit of the souring waste out of your system. Then see how bowel action is regular and complete.

Cascarets are made from cascara, which doctors agree actually strengthens bowel muscles. Ten cents at all drug stores.

Doherty Co. Suit To Test Ohio Laws

CLEVELAND, Feb. 11.—Henry L. Doherty Company was made defendant in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court at Elyria, O., which charges that a large portion of Cities Service stock has been in violation of the Ohio state gambling and bucketshop laws.

The suit, filed by attorneys for Jack Evenchick, president of the Rigbee Supply Company, and asking judgment against the Doherty Company for $150, will be used as a test case, the attorneys said.

Stubborn Coughs Ended by Recipe, Mixed at Home

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up a stubborn, lingering cough. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it gives real relief even for those dreaded coughs that follow severe cold epidemics.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe and heal the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and raises robust soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known to medicine is more helpful in cases of distressing coughs, chest colds, and bronchial troubles.

HEALTH PROBLEM IS SOLVED FOR MANY

They Eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Daily

Constipation is the most common menace to health today. It is extremely dangerous in itself and is the source of many other complicating ailments. There is no permanent relief in pills and drugs. Many of them are dangerous.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is positively guaranteed to relieve and to prevent both temporary and recurring constipation. If it does not, money will be refunded.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is roughage. And roughage in food helps eliminate the possibility of constipation. Most modern foods do not contain roughage. Two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily is the proper amount. In recurring cases, ALL-BRAN should be eaten with each meal. It is an essential in any reducing diet. In addition, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN contains iron, the blood builder. It is the original ALL-BRAN, proved effective by millions and recommended by physicians.

TRADE SURVEY IN TRI-STATE ZONE MADE

Business House Serving 3,500,000 Persons Cover Wide Range of Commerce

A survey of 19 counties in Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia, within a radius of 50 miles of Pittsburgh, reveals, among other things, that there are 158 department stores serving a population of 3,500,000 persons, according to H. W. Correll, statistician of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce. The survey required three months, and was aided by leading bankers, business men and chambers of commerce.

With the exception of Pittsburgh and Wheeling, the territory covered contains 197 moving picture and vaudeville theaters, 448 pool rooms, 467 radio shops, 366 furniture stores, 104 men's and women's chain and 429 general shoe stores, 789 chain and 1,677 independent grocery stores, 531 fruit dealers and 685 meat markets.

Allegheny County outside of Pittsburgh, has 36 department or general stores, 90 radio shops, 129 chain and general shoe stores, 701 groceries, 149 fruit and 289 meat markets.

In the entire area there are 224 hotels. Allegheny County having about 60. This county also has 156 filling stations for automobiles and nine chain cigar stores outside of Pittsburgh, while Beaver County has but one chain drug store and 58 independent prescription stores. Allegheny County has 200 restaurants, of which 45 are in Homestead.

There are 352 confectionery stores in Allegheny County of which 106 are in Homestead and 77 in McKeesport.

Braddock has 10 chain and 96 independent grocery stores; Homestead, 33 chain and 14 independent; McKeesport, 135 independent and 46 chain. Homestead has 10 furniture stores to serve its population of more than 27,000, and Wilkinsburg three for its some 32,000 residents.

McKees Rocks, Clairton, Carnegie, Braddock, East Pittsburgh, Dravosburg, Sharpsburg, Wilkinsburg and Wilmerding each have three moving picture houses.

Cardinal O'Connell Home From Indies

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—(INS.)—Cardinal O'Connell, of Boston, will arrive in New York today on the Consulich liner Vulcania. He has been on a vacation cruise in the West Indies.

Real Estate

The Knott Corporation of New York, managers of the Pittsburgher Hotel, have taken a 20-year lease on 12,000 square feet in the south end of the basement of the Oliver Building and will open a restaurant to seat 600 persons. The restaurant will have a street entrance at 527 Smithfield street, a room now occupied by the B. B. & B. Trunk Company. The deal was made through the E. E. Wertheimer Company and James P. Donovan.

Two three-story brick apartment buildings at 3200-06 Forbes street, lot 95x130 feet, and a brick apartment on 50x113 feet at 324 Mathilda street, have been conveyed from Edward F. Bartels to J. R. Charlesworth.

Eight houses in Thirty-eighth street, Ninth Ward, have been sold by Frances Diamond to M. Obler. The lot is 60x107 feet.

In Bellevue, C. J. DeBar sold for John Thomas and James M. McDonald to Clifford O. Taylor a brick house at 200 North Jackson street; for E. J. Strephany to Lizzie O. Herbert a property at 478 Teece avenue; for C. J. Klein to George S. Blair a brick house at 116 South Harrison avenue; to John N. Hammer a new brick house at 175 North Sprague avenue, and for George W. Smith 50x150 feet in Roosevelt avenue.

In Crafton, R. A. Walker and Ralph Bennett have purchased from St. Matthew's Lutheran congregation a vacant parcel fronting 115 feet on Division street and 132 feet on Mildred street. The consideration was $7,000. The buyers have started excavation for three modern brick homes.

A new six-room house and garage at 1503 South Braddock avenue, Edgewood, has been sold through the Auslander-Krasnow Company for R. F. Glick to Lloyd W. Gibson for $8,900. The lot is 24x110 feet.

A brick dwelling and garage at 361 Lehigh avenue, Seventh Ward, has been sold by William J. Vance et al to Catherine E. Heitzman. The lot is 25x120 feet.

A three-story brick building containing one store and two apartments, at 2130 Fifth avenue has been sold by John Thompson to Domenick Nerone. The lot is 22x120 feet.

In Mt. Lebanon Oscar Larson has deeded 50x135 feet in Florida avenue to William C. Cline, builder, and 100x135 feet in Florida avenue to James C. Dettling.

A house in Spokane avenue, Carrick, lot 25x106 feet, has been sold by Albert C. Morgan to Constantine Lozos for $7,000.

The Lester Shoe Stores have leased a room 20x100 feet in Ninth street, New Kensington, from J. and L. Margolis for a long term. Harry Dunn was the broker.

The Commonwealth Investment Company has asked a permit to construct five store fronts in the building at 400 Penn avenue at a cost of $5,600.

Car, Cash Stolen In Wilkinsburg, Man Held

Robert B. Good, of 205 Penn avenue, Wilkinsburg, failed to live up to the latter part of his name in the opinion of Justice of the Peace George Blair, of Wilkinsburg, who bound Good over for court last night on charges of larceny of an automobile and embezzlement. Good spent the night in a cell in the Wilkinsburg lockup and was to be removed to the county jail today.

Good, it was testified, stole an automobile owned by the Cochran Chevrolet Company last Saturday morning and abandoned it that evening in Squirrel Hill. He was also accused of having taken money owned by the automobile firm.

CALL MEETING ON CROSSINGS

Homestead officials today were to meet the representatives of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, the County Commissioners and railroads to discuss the elimination of grade crossings in that borough. The councilmen, at their regular meeting last night, talked over the crossing elimination program and voted to hold the conference today in Pittsburgh.

Council last night also considered charging Homestead Hospital for the water it uses. The institution has been receiving water free for several years. It was reported that if a charge were made it would amount to about $2,000 annually.

Council took no action on the movement of West Homestead solons toward receiving its supply from the South Pittsburgh Water Company instead of Homestead as at present. The West Homestead solons have voiced objection to an increase of 2 cents per thousand gallons over the rate in effect in 1929.

Employer Admits Compensation Lack

Frank Dusva, baker, of 856 Progress street, pleaded guilty before Judge James H. Gray in Criminal Court to having failed to take out workmen's compensation insurance upon his employes. He will be sentenced Thursday. The case developed when Ely Bogdan, of 1246 Penn avenue, an employe of Dusva, was injured in an explosion.

Emsworth Ladies' Aid Will Meet

MUSSOLINI KIN LAUDS PACTS

MILAN, Italy, Feb. 11.—(AP.)—Arnaldo Mussolini, the Duce's brother, declared here that the lateran accords, signed a year ago, interest not only Italy, but the millions of Catholics throughout the world.

He said it was natural that their practical application would create obstacles and difficult secondary problems. But "the political and spiritual balance of the first year of the accords show a strong and active inclination toward conciliation."

A difficulty seemed to exist between church and state over the education of youth, which Fascism could not renounce though agreeing to diffuse the principles of the Catholic faith.

"An encyclical of Pius XI recently laid down some sound points on education, which are valuable for all Christianity," he said.

"The education of youth can be fixed in an equal quantity of duties to the church, to the family, to the state."

He said that the Fascist party ought to give the encyclical its true value and fullness of spiritual essence, avoiding doubtful interpretations productive of artificial discords.

SCOUT BANQUET SET TONIGHT

Boy Scouts, their parents and Scout leaders will attend the thirteenth annual banquet of Troop No. 87, one of the oldest troops in the West End district, tonight in the Lorenz Avenue Evangelical Church. Charles W. Over, scoutmaster, will be the principal speaker. Arthur Waters, Jr., will be toastmaster.

About 100 persons are expected to be present. Movies taken at the Umbstaetter Reservation will be shown and there will be stunts by the various patrols. Chalmers Koepman, blind boy pianist, will give a musical program. The troop, founded by its present Scoutmaster, J. B. Fairman, is taking active part in the twentieth anniversary of Scouting being observed this week.

Population of Cuba Set at 3,607,919

HAVANA, Feb. 11.—(AP.)—A national census report issued by the Cuban government gives the total population of Cuba as 3,607,919. Havana leads the six provinces with a total of 951,359.

Any COLD

That cold may lead to something serious, if neglected. The time to do something for it is now. Don't wait until it develops into bronchitis. Take two or three tablets of Bayer Aspirin as soon as you feel a cold coming on. Or as soon as possible after it starts. Bayer Aspirin will head off or relieve the aching and feverish feeling—will stop the headache. And if your throat is affected, dissolve two or three tablets in a quarter-glassful of warm water, and gargle. This quickly soothes a sore throat and reduces inflammation and infection. Read proven directions for neuralgia, for rheumatism and other aches and pains. Genuine Bayer Aspirin is harmless to the heart.

1,377,742 Motors Licensed, State Fund Boosted

HARRISBURG, Feb. 11.—(AP.)—There were 1,159,325 passenger automobiles registered in Pennsylvania at the end of January, an increase of 76,038 or seven per cent above the January 31, 1929, total.

The State Bureau of Motor Vehicles revealed that 147,215 passenger cars were licensed during last month, which is slightly below the January, 1929, registration. Total registration of all vehicles at the end of last month was 1,377,742, bringing in a total of $19,658,881, an increase of $2,340,765 over the receipts a year ago, partly due to increased fees for trucks and buses.

FATHER SHOT, BOY JAILED

ASHLAND, O., Feb. 11.—(AP.)—With charges withheld by police, Leslie Cale, 16, Polk High School sophomore, was in jail here while his father, William Cale, 41, lay in a hospital with four revolver wounds.

Police said the boy fired the shots when the father attacked the boy's mother during an alleged quarrel last night. An emergency operation was performed at the hospital and the man was expected to recover.

The elder Cale, before the operation, told H. E. Culbertson, prosecuting attorney, he did not want the boy prosecuted.

TWO SLAYERS SENT TO PEN

FRANKLIN, Pa., Feb. 11.—John Glidders, who pleaded guilty to second degree murder in the killing of Desk Sergeant Walter Powell, of Oil City, was sentenced by Judge William Parker to serve from nine to 19 years in Western penitentiary. Allowance was made for time served on a previous sentence from October 24, 1928.

Floyd Flick, convicted of second degree murder, following the killing of James Brown, Oil City Negro, was sentenced to hard labor from six to 12 years in Western penitentiary.

DRYS IN STATE OPPOSE VOTE

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 11.—(AP.)—Local leaders of the Anti-Saloon League and the W. C. T. U. have replied "certainly not" to the proposal of Robert K. Cassatt that they aid the anti-prohibitionists in putting the wet-and-dry question up to the voters of the state.

Cassatt, chairman of the Pennsylvania division of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, sent letters to officials of the two organizations asking them to join in a movement for a referendum to repeal the state prohibition enforcement law, known as the Snyder act.

LOVEJOY

By BEATRICE BURTON

CHAPTER XXX

ON Sunday Lovejoy went out of her way to be sweet to Norrie Shane.

She was sweet to her the way sage [illegible] is sweet—with just a touch of sharpness.

"You look tired, Norrie dear," she said to her at breakfast time. "I'm afraid you worked too hard yesterday—and then you stayed up so late helping Tom with his poker party."

She hoped that Tom would look up and see how [illegible] colorless Norrie was—how [illegible] fresh and lovely she herself was that morning.

But he went on drinking his coffee without lifting his eyes from the financial page of the Sunday newspaper.

"Tom," she said to him, "I'm afraid I'll have to ask you for a little money. I haven't paid Norrie her wages for last week and I should have done it yesterday."

His head [illegible] then.

"I gave you your housekeeping money yesterday morning," he reminded her frowningly at her as he spoke. "You should have paid her out of that."

She nodded, smiling into his eyes.

"Yes—but I spent all of that money on myself," she answered calmly. "You seem to think that I never need any money for myself, Tom. But I do—and I'm afraid you'll have to pay Norrie [illegible] dollars this morning, because I haven't a dollar to my name."

Tom dug down deep into his trousers' pocket and handed Norrie two or three crumpled bank notes.

With a soft "Thanks" Norrie got up from the table and went out of the breakfast room. She closed the door quietly behind her.

"You ought to be ashamed to work that girl the way you do!" Tom began as soon as she was gone. "You hired her to look after the baby, but you shove all the work in the house on to her."

Lovejoy shrugged one of her shoulders.

"She gets plenty of money for it," she said carelessly. "Her board and keep—and eighteen dollars a week besides."

Heavy Expenses

"Which I can't afford to pay her!" Tom added. "Great guns, Lovejoy, with all this new furniture and the high rent and all the rest of it, I swear I don't know which way to turn!—You seem to think that I'm made of money lately!" His frown deepened.

"Oh, don't try to pull that poor-mouth stuff on me, Tom Nicholson!" Lovejoy's face burned with sudden anger. "I know you are making scads of money, so don't try to tell me that you aren't!—You are just like all the men! You spend a young fortune on a poker party, but you begrudge your wife a few dollars for a shampoo and a bottle of perfume!"

Tom said nothing. He just sat looking out into the backyard, all green with the glory of new grass and young leaves.

"You're failing for Norrie—that's what ails you!" Lovejoy went on, infuriated still more by his silence. "If you still cared for me, Tom, you'd want me to spend your money! You'd want me to have everything other women have—even if you went to the poorhouse trying to get it for me!"

Tom's grave dark eyes came back to her face.

"I suppose you think Steve Oglebay cares for you like that," he said, and his lips twisted in a sarcastic smile. "I suppose you think you could have had everything in the world if you'd married him instead of me. Doesn't it?"

Lovejoy did not answer.

"But don't get it into your head that I'm jealous of him," Tom said. "Any time you want to leave me and go to him, you're free to do it. I won't stand in your way.—But listen to me—"

Disapproves of Rides

Lovejoy waited for him to finish what he had to say.

"I won't stand for your running around with him, making me a laughing stock," he told her. "If you're through with me, that's all right. If you're going to keep on living with me, you're going to behave yourself. There are to be no more of these midnight automobile rides with him. Understand?"

Lovejoy made no reply.

"I can't imagine what has come over you! You wouldn't talk like this to me if you cared a thing about me," she said bluntly. "You're just finding out that you married the wrong girl, Tom. You should have married somebody like Norrie who'd find her highest happiness in bathing the dishes and putting the baby's beer on ice!"

She tried to laugh. But she [illegible] the table and went out of the room.

Outside the door she began to wring her hands as if she were in the very deepest kind of trouble.

FOR PITTSBURGHERS BY PITTSBURGHERS

THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH is a Pittsburgh newspaper, published for Pittsburghers by Pittsburgh people. We who write its news columns, who are members of its advertising staff, who see it through its many and complicated mechanical developments, who feed and care for the giant presses that print 360,000 eight-page newspapers an hour—we are Pittsburghers—proud of our newspaper—proud of the part we are playing to make it the kind of a newspaper Pittsburghers want to read.

Our Publisher is a Pittsburgher. His rise from cub reporter to his present position has been realized, almost in its entirety, on Pittsburgh newspapers alone. He knows what Pittsburgh people demand in the newspaper they read. Under his guidance, the SUN-TELEGRAPH meets their requirements.

Our Business Manager has been affiliated with Pittsburgh newspapers since his start as a cub reporter twenty-five years ago. In his capacity as comptroller and director of personnel he has been careful to choose Pitsburgh men for this—a Pittsburgh enterprise.

Our Associate Editor is a Pittsburgher. Twenty-three years of newspaper service in this city places him in an enviable position to do his job well. He, too, knows Pittsburgh and Pittsburgh knows him.

In the Circulation Department we find men whose years of service with this newspaper range from four to twenty-five years. Of approximately one hundred men who comprise this branch of the SUN-TELEGRAPH family, nine have been employed over twenty years and thirty-four over ten years.

Every member of the Promotion and Service Departments are native Pittsburghers.

In the Engraving Department, composed of eleven men, all but three were born in Pittsburgh, and two of those who were not, have made our city their home for many years. And approximately every man in this department has a long record of service to his credit.

Twenty printers in our Composing Room have each served their newspaper for more than twenty-eight years. One of them is eighty-one years old, a Civil War veteran and a native of Pittsburgh. Two others have passed the seventy mark. One of the foremen has been associated with the SUN-TELEGRAPH and its antecedents for thirty-four years, another foreman for thirty years. The Composing Room, like every other department, is "Pittsburgh" through and through.

In the Stereotyping Department, every man has a service record of five or more years and all but two are native sons.

Sixty-seven men are required to operate our giant presses. Everyone of them is a Pittsburgher, born in this city or its environs. Nineteen of them have been in the employ of the SUN-TELEGRAPH or its predecessors for over twenty years and thirteen for more than ten years.

Pittsburghers, who gather the news of the day and write it in an accurate and interesting manner, such as is only possible through a thorough knowledge of the people who live in it, make up the SUN-TELEGRAPH news and editorial staff. Contrary to the conditions that exist on most metropolitan newspapers, the members of the news and editorial staff are Pittsburghers by a great majority. Our city editor is a native Pittsburgher who has been associated with Pittsburgh newspapers for 12 years. On his staff are men who have been gathering news in Pittsburgh for from 20 to 40 years as well as many younger men who are also Pittsburghers. Rewrite men and Sports Writers, too, are Pittsbughers.

The Advertisimg Department, too, is composed of Pittsburgh men. Seven members of the staff have been identified with our organization for more than twenty years. Practically every member of the staff is "native born." Knowing Pittsburgh and knowing advertising, the SUN-TELEGRAPH advertising staff is well equipped to best serve those who profit through the columns of our newspaper.

We who are members of the SUN-TELEGRAPH family, 910 in number, are Pittsburghers. We are substantial citizens, proud of our city and proud of the part our newspaper is playing in making it a better city. Of 160 of us who were interviewed, ninety-two own our own homes or are buying them.

Most of us have families. Our pay checks support 3,758 people. We are prosperous, modern, well living citizens.

Being Pittsburghers, we should know what you other Pittsburghers want to read. We should know what you expect and require from the newspaper that goes into your homes. And we are positive in our belief that the PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH, our newspaper and your newspaper, meets your requirements and is winning your constantly increasing approval.

An impressive illustration of this has been supplied by a recent very significant bank merger in New York.

Interests identified with both banks were keen to bring them together. But when those representing the larger approached the head of the other institution, he indignantly announced that he would have nothing to do with any consolidation which did not have him as its head. After pains had been taken to bring home to him the advantages of combining, he was ready to admit the soundness of the arguments but reiterated that he must head the combined institution or he would not countenance it.

The deal was finally made possible by the withdrawal of a very big officer of the other institution. Because the latter was thus persuaded of the benefits to his bank rather than only of himself, he gladly volunteered to abandon his title.

DAILY TRUE STORY

The Haunted House

"THE house," said Lawyer Peasley, "is much good."

"It's a better house than ever I lived in until I got out earning my own living," Dirk Holton told him.

"That doesn't change anything, Holton. I'd sell it, if I were you."

"But you aren't me, Mr. Peasley. I don't want to sell it."

"I can get you three thousand cash for it," Peasley persisted.

Dirk Holton laughed.

"That house is a hundred years old. The only one in the Hollow [illegible] it. The [illegible] ing and [illegible] bring me [illegible] leave me [illegible]

"If the [illegible] would be [illegible] Carlton [illegible] are going [illegible] here. Quenda was always a [illegible] horse town, and it's getting worse. I'm [illegible] because you are a [illegible] and I know real estate."

"Thanks, Mr. Peasley. Who would offer me three thousand for it?"

"I would," Dirk laughed again.

"For a certain [illegible] he thinks he wants it. I think it a good chance to do you a favor."

"I like my home. I [illegible] the newspaper, and I [illegible] on it. I [illegible] place just as it [illegible] left it. She loved [illegible] us a thrill [illegible] it. Now that I'm the last of the family, I [illegible] because she can't take it with her. It's sentiment, it's foolish. The old house and the land are worth three times three thousand."

Lawyer Peasley [illegible] heartily, almost somewhat harshly.

Sweet on Myra

"They even say the old place is haunted."

"I'll [illegible] you for [illegible] for trespass." Dirk told [illegible] Greer [illegible] dee promptly telephoned Greer [illegible] old fool would [illegible] reported.

"Make him [illegible]

"Make him [illegible] ted the lawyer.

"How?"

"He's kind of [illegible] niece of yours [illegible] him he ought to sell and [illegible] his money."

"How do you know he's sweet on Myra?" Jonas fairly squealed the question. He didn't propose that anyone should marry Myra Shuttleworth, his niece, [illegible] for him and saved him the cost of a housekeeper, cook and laundress, in return for a few dollars every week.

"See him at the movies over here in Clayton, and out driving together in his car. Supposed they were sweethearts."

This was news to Jonas, but he didn't admit it. His answer to that was: "Umph. I'll see what I can do."

Jonas Greer lived in Quenda. He owned a great deal of property. He knew better than to go to Dirk Holton and try to buy the property. He realized that his reputation for keenness in business transactions was widespread. If he tried to buy it, young Holton would suspect that it was worth much more or he wouldn't want it. So Greer commissioned Lawyer Peasley to buy it for him.

Jonas Greer lightened his niece next day when he said with a clumsy attempt at carelessness: "Next time you chance to see that young Holton boy in th' newspaper tell him he oughtn't to tie up three thousand dollars in the old Widder Holton place."

"Why—why yes, Uncle Jonas," Myra stammered.

"Tell him the place is haunted and he ought to start a bank account and he's throwing money away holdin' it and paying taxes—tell him that's gossip here in Quenda—and don't tell him I ever said a word about it or he'll think I'm interested in him."

Myra promised.

When she did as told the next time she was out with Dirk, he said, "Girlie, your uncle put you up to that."

"Oh!" she gasped and then, "I didn't tell you, Dirk, and he told me not to tell."

"It gets me sore to have you so afraid of the old crook, and just as soon as I can afford it, I'm going to steal you."

"He won't never let me get married, Dirk."

"After we are married what is he going to do about it?"

"I wish—"

Myra hesitated.

House Advertised

"So do I wish, and our wishes will come true. Just now I'm going to have that old house painted and fixed a little and then I can rent it. I can get thirty a month for it from some of those railroad workshop men over in Quenda, and that will help."

So Dirk took from his savings enought to have the house to which he had fallen heir painted and fixed inside. Then he advertised it for rent and put signs out.

A family moved in.

The family moved out in the middle of the third month.

"Ghosts," declared the tenant and his wife. "Footsteps, chains rattling, groans. I wouldn't live in the place if it were solid gold and given to me."

Lawyer Peasley dropped into the newspaper office on a trivial errand and stopped at Dirk's little office.

"You should have got rid of that old house, Holton," the lawyer said. "I doubt if my client wants it now—all that talk about the place being haunted."

Dirk said: "Not for sale."

Dick Meets Myra

Myra was [illegible] weeps the [illegible] over to Quenda [illegible] all the [illegible] a [illegible] Dirk [illegible] at [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

HERE COMES TILLIE AND THAT INSURANCE MAN, CRAMER. WE'LL HAVE TO DUCK OUT OF HERE
OH, YE-EH? SAY, HAS SHE GOT YOUR GOAT? YOU'RE A BOSS JUST THE SAME AS SHE IS. YOU SAID WE CAME HERE TO DANCE. ARE YOU GONNA LET HER SCARE YOU OUT?
I SHOULD SAY NOT! SHE CAN'T TELL ME WHAT TO DO
NOW YOU'RE TALKING LIKE A BIG SHOT
THERE'S MR. WHIPPLE DANCING WITH MISS ELLIS
I'D LIKE TO INSURE HIM, BUT HE MUST PASS OUR DOCTOR'S EXAMINATION FIRST. IS DANCING THE THE KIND OF EXERCISE YOU TOLD HIM TO TAKE, MISS JONES?
NO, THAT'S HIS OWN IDEA, BUT I THINK IT MIGHT BE A GOOD IDEA FOR US TO FOLLOW WHILE THIS DANCE MUSIC IS PLAYING MR. CRAMER
OH, YES, OF COURSE. LET'S DANCE
GOTTA HAVE YOU?

THE BUNGLE FAMILY

Pontoon Is Still Strolling

By Tuthill

NO NEWS OF PONTOON. MY WORD IT SURE IS SURPRISING WHAT A LITTLE PUBLICITY WILL DO. I HAD AT LEAST A HUNDRED PEOPLE TELL ME THEY SAW MY PHOTO AND READ THAT ARTICLE OF ME BEING QUESTIONED BY THE POLICE.
AND AT LEAST TWO HUNDRED PEOPLE PHONED ME ABOUT THIS AFFAIR, TOO.
OH! I JUST CAN'T UNDERSTAND WHY WE'RE ALWAYS IN SOME SORT OF MESS WHERE WE ATTRACT AS MUCH ATTENTION AS A RIOT IN MAIN STREET. AND YOU LOVE IT! YOU CONSIDER IT AN HONOR TO HAVE BIG BLACK HEADLINES IN THE PAPER SAYING, BUNGLE QUESTIONED BY THE POLICE.
THAT LINE SAID, QUIZZED BY THE POLICE. AND YOU'RE MISTAKEN IF YOU THINK I'M SWELLED UP ABOUT THAT ARTICLE.
I'VE HAD MY NAME IN THE PAPER BEFORE. OFTEN. MY WORD, WHY SHOULD I FEEL IMPORTANT SIMPLY BECAUSE I TALK TO THE CHIEF OF POLICE AND OTHER HIGH MUCKY-MUCKS TWO OR THREE TIMES A DAY ABOUT PONTOON?
OH GEORGE EVERY WORD YOU SAY PROVES YOU HAVEN'T THE SLIGHTEST IDEA HOW IT LOOKED WHEN THOSE DETECTIVES FOUND THAT WILL.
AND WHAT PEOPLE CAN'T IMAGINE, THE BUNGLE FAMILY IS TELLING THEM. THE IDEA! YOUR PEOPLE ARE SIMPLY POP-EYED TO THINK THEY CAN'T INSTANTLY GRAB PONTOON'S MONEY. SUCH PEOPLE! HOWLING FOR JUSTICE. THEIR IDEA OF JUSTICE IS TO GET SOMETHING FOR NOTHING.
I'M DONE WITH RELATIVES. FROM NOW ON MY FAMILY TREE IS JUST AN OVERGROWN BUNCH OF POISON IVY.

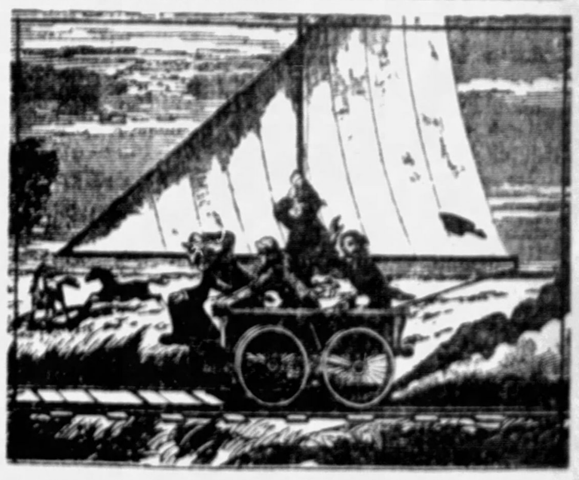
STRANGER THAN FICTION!



APPRECIATIVE of the power of wind, Horace Frisby carried on ingenious experiments for many centuries, and finally succeeded (1801) in circling the globe in his wind-yacht, shown above. When becalmed, the intrepid airman merely blew into his own sails. Returning to his native land, many years later, he called himself "Lucky" Horace," and only recently launched a movement to have monuments erected to himself at every crossroad and street intersection in America.

Adam Scoffaut's Journal

This evening, on coming home, snatched "The Book of Wonders" from my wilde rogue and lector her 'gainst bousing any thing that containeth gulobelicus that wound the delicacy of the minde and bid her first ask me waether a booke be scandalous scurrility, or no. "What?" says she, "will I do, then, to flash my mind?" So I shew the wretch how to peel an orange with one hand.

American People Are Jealous of Sacred Rights of Trial By Jury

It was John Bright, the famous Liberal statesman and contemporary of Gladstone, who said:

"THE TROUBLE WITH GREAT THINKERS IS THAT THEY SO OFTEN THINK WRONG."

Should we not apply this remark to the argument of Dean Roscoe Pound of the Harvard law school, before the House Judiciary Committee, at a hearing on the recent proposals by the Wickersham Law Enforcement Commission?

Dean Pound argued that THE RIGHT OF TRIAL BY JURY COULD AND SHOULD BE ABOLISHED IN CERTAIN TYPES OF VOLSTEAD AND JONES LAW VIOLATIONS.

Dr. Pound is a respected figure in our public life. His learning and high character are universally conceded.

The broad and beneficent aims of the right of trial by jury, the maintenance of the care, which it has shown throughout the ages, for the liberty and security of the citizen, should not be made to yield to momentary and passing, not to say fanatical, urgings—from whatever quarter they may proceed.

Trial by jury is a sacred right.

The American people are jealous of it.

No man may lay impious hands upon it.

As Blackstone says:

"TRIAL BY JURY EVER HAS BEEN, AND I TRUST EVER WILL BE LOOKED UPON AS THE GLORY OF THE ENGLISH LAW. AND, IF IT HAS SO GREAT AN ADVANTAGE OVER OTHERS IN REGULATING CIVIL PROPERTY, HOW MUCH MUST THAT ADVANTAGE BE HEIGHTENED WHEN IT IS APPLIED TO CRIMINAL CASES!

"IT IS THE MOST TRANSCENDENT PRIVILEGE WHICH ANY SUBJECT CAN ENJOY, OR WISH FOR, THAT HE CANNOT BE AFFECTED EITHER IN HIS PROPERTY, HIS LIBERTY, OR HIS PERSON, BUT BY THE UNANIMOUS CONSENT OF TWELVE OF HIS NEIGHBORS AND EQUALS."

The famous author of the immortal commentaries on the law refers in this connection, to the conclusion of Montesquieu that because Rome, Sparta and Carthage have lost their liberties, therefore those of England in time must perish, and adds that the celebrated French writer——

"SHOULD HAVE RECOLLECTED THAT ROME, SPARTA AND CARTHAGE AT THE TIME WHEN THEIR LIBERTIES WERE LOST, WERE STRANGERS TO THE TRIAL BY JURY."

Do the American people want to become "strangers to the trial by jury" and so lose THEIR liberties? The tyrannical attempt to enforce the fanatical prohibition law is becoming a dangerous menace to American freedom.

Death of Judge Porter Ends Long Service Span

The death of William D. Porter, president judge of the Superior Court, causes sorrow not only in Allegheny County, where his service at the bar and as judge of Common Pleas Court made him prominent, but throughout the state because of his connection of 30 years with the Superior Court.

Most of Judge Porter's life had been spent in service of the people—as district attorney of Allegheny County, 1884 to 1890; judge of Common Pleas, 1891 to 1896, and from the latter year until his death on the Superior Court bench.

Judge Porter's life spanned 80 years. Most of them were in office of the court—certainly a distinguished one. He was an affable gentleman and was frequently called upon as speaker at functions, a position in which he was a particularly happy selection. He was one of the few judges who got close to the public in that capacity.

There also is political significance in the passing of Judge Porter, which leaves a vacancy to be filled through appointment by Gov. Fisher, the second in that court to fall to him. In January, 1928, he appointed former Attorney General Thomas J. Baldrige to succeed the late John J. Henderson, of Crawford County. Mayor Kline had been mentioned as a possible appointee. We assume politicians already are looking at the position lately held by our esteemed townsman, Judge Porter.

Pitt Again Sends Youth To Fight for Society

The University of Pittsburgh yesterday sent out into the world 150 young people equipped fully in the armor of institutional learning to join those who are engaged in subduing the giants of ignorance, poverty and intolerance and helping the fair damsel, Progress, to minister to society. In less fanciful terms, Pitt graduated that number of students.

Expressed fantastically or not, that is just the kind of a combat these young people will find themselves engaged in. It is the kind of a battle all college graduates will find awaiting them, for there always will be ignorance, poverty and intolerance. Ignorance of what the untilled fields of science can reveal; poverty in the non-possession of that which insight could bring to us; intolerance of the new idea, that always has to fight to advance.

We congratulate these young people on having achieved that degree of fitness for the struggle sufficient to comply with the requirements of such a high grade institution as the University of Pittsburgh.

Murder Here Is Less, But Not Through Law

Murder last year was less, crimes of that nature having decreased from 87 in 1928 to 71 in 1929. A still greater reduction in homicidal violence is noted in comparison with 1927, when there were 115 such crimes.

We have to conclude that we are becoming better by inclination rather than by force of the law. Certainly the record of the district attorney's office in solving murders cannot be considered as a deterrent.

He Forgot the Bass Drum

Others Leave Hip Flasks.

Anything is possible in Chicago.

Dispatches reveal that one resident of the Windy City forgot recently to take his bass drum out of the taxicab in which he was riding. It was turned in to the company's lost and found department.

A woman left a century plant in a cab. Others left false teeth.

And, incredible as it seems, more than a hundred hip flasks were abandoned in taxis. However, Chicagoans are not as criminally careless as these statistics would indicate. Ninety-seven of the flasks were empty.

A Dangerous Habit

Worse Than Drink.

Charles R. Flint, 80, "Father of Trusts," goes back to Wall street. He started business at 18, quit at 78. And now, officer, he's in again.

If you are a young man, working hard to amass your pile and retire to an old age of golf and leisure, be warned by Mr. Flint's example.

The work habit is stronger than drink. It has ruined many a promising loafer.

The old fable about the ant that toiled all summer so that he could go South for the winter is propaganda, and lying propaganda at that. He stayed on the job up North and froze to death.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

We Get a National Song

STAR SPANGLED BANNER has been adopted as our national mumble.

So far as the words are concerned it is still an orphan.

"Bugs" Baer

Not one patriot out of a possible two knows the lyrics of this evaporated drinking chirp. Congress should appoint a national holiday in which preferred creditors could take singing lessons.

Most of us can get as far as "Oh, say can you see?" After that we are nearsighted. From then on, it's a string of tum te tums until exhausted.

The objection to Star Spangled Banner as a national song is that the melody was bootlegged from a vulgar old drinking yodel popular in the old days of witch burning and personal liberty.

You really should learn the words for they breathe defiance, revenge, bravery, reprisals and all the gingerbread of combat without once mentioning indemnities or the collection of war debts.

Congress might have done worse than voting for this song. They might have sung it. With an extra chorus by an investigating committee.

There was quite an organized demand for "My country, 'tis of thee," which looked like an attempt to glorify the suburbs.

The trouble with the Star Spangled Banner is that it does not sound convincing when sung by school children.

And they're the only ones who know it.

All we know is if you don't stand up when the band is playing it some old lady knocks your hat off with an umbrella.

She doesn't know the words either. But she is standing up.

THE RAMROD IN HIS BACKBONE

By Herbert Kaufman

MR. HUGHES will resume his Supreme Court career infinitely more qualified than when he stepped from the bench to the stump.

The intervening years have expanded his horizons, enlarged his utility and given him an elbow-rubbing contact with most of the questions which will later appeal to him for decision.

He returns to his associates to refresh their deliberations with rejuvenated viewpoints—and considerably thawed of the austerity which contributed in part to his 1916 disappointment.

He had lingered too long upon the mountain tops for sudden adjustment to political familiarities. His memory of vernacular phrases and the language of popular opinion had withered in the chill precincts of a law library. His campaign speeches wore too much judicial silk to stir an electorate whose enthusiasms march best to the brass-band note in oratory, and which expects vocabulary to make an occasional picturesque stoop for conquest.

BUT this congenital reserve was merely a negligible agent in Mr. Hughes' defeat.

He was robbed of the presidency by muddle and mismanagement.

Chairman Wilcox had already begun to light celebrating Roman candles before the battle had fairly opened.

The solid East, according to that wishbone prophet's wall map, was overwhelmingly won in July. The Hughes cause in Illinois was so "cinched" by early August that Chicago headquarters was actually instructed to abate "needless" expenditures on ice water and postage stamps.

The farcical situation grew so acute that the Hughes alliance, mainly composed of the candidates personal friends, was compelled to confiscate control of the campaign. They cut the floor out of the Wilcox office and left him sitting on air. The old war horses of the Roosevelt and Taft regimes were snapped into harness. Stimson, Wickersham, Cameron, Forbes, Medill McCormick, Charles A. Coffin, Dwight Morrow, Frank Vanderlip, Coleman DuPont and Frank Hitchcock joined the "rump" committee.

WITHIN a month, George W. Perkins and his progressives deserted to the new camp. Hughes sentiment was soon sweeping every front.

Then Hiram Johnson proceeded to throw a monkey-wrench into the works by deciding to play "California solitiare." And Murray Crane, whom Mr. Hughes had purposely neglected to invite to his party, slipped into the picture at the last moment to capture the advertising appropriation for high tariff.

High tariff, as the dominant issue of a 1916 campaign. Read it, oh, ye faithful, and weep.

High tariff, at a time when not an industry in war-shackled Europe could produce enough goods for local consumption, much less create a surplus for export.

"The envious blow," that Hiram dealt, wasn't the fatal stab that alibi has cracked it up to be. The high priests of tariff were the real assassins of Charles Evans Hughes' presidential hopes.

IT was the Crane-Oliver clique who sent him off for the final sally to fire a blank cartridge against Woodrow Wilson's high-power "He-kept-us-out-of-war" shells. Republican bungles tripped Mr. Hughes on the very door-step of the White House and pushed his opponent into a second term.

A bad sport would have sulked into his tent for the rest of his days, after having the news lift the cup of victory to his lips, only to dash it away the following morning.

It takes a supreme quality of courage to grin and bear such a cruel prank and spank from fate.

Mr. Hughes may accept his appointment to the chief justiceship not only as due recognition of intellectual merit, but even more as a token of admiration tendered the best loser of his generation.

That apparent stiffness of his was simply due to the ramrod in his backbone.

Text for Today Yet it pleased the Lord to bruise him; he hath put him to grief: when thou shalt make his soul an offering for sin, he shall prolong his days, and the pleasure of the Lord shall prosper in his hand. He shall see of the travail of his soul, and shall be satisfied: by his knowledge shall my righteous servant justify many; for he shall bear their iniquities.—Isaiah liii:10, 11.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS

In Collaboration With

Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

EVERYWHERE on the face of the world, except in lifeless regions and in a very few places where civilized man has built, there are the corpses of living things. In a wood, for example, there are masses of dead leaves, which, with other organic matter, make a rich rotting layer on the ground.

And wherever the corpses are found we find also a host of creatures that feed on their luscious decaying tissues—animals and plants that specialize, so to speak, in well-hung food.

H. G. Wells

There are beetles and millipedes and worms and grubs of many sorts, and there are bacteria, all fattening on the dead material; but the guests that concern us now at this banquet are the delicate white or bluish felts that are known as moulds.

An attractive provender for moulds is stale, moist bread. If a bit of bread be left about somewhere exposed freely to the air, there will soon settle on it a number of the invisibly small, dust-like spores of mould-fungi. Finding themselves well situated, the spores will hatch, and each will give rise to a very thin, white thread.

The threads grow and branch and tangle together into a soft feltwork, on the surface of the bread and penetrating into it. They are not subdivided into cells; their protoplasm forms a continuous cylinder, with numerous nuclei dotted about.

Seen through a microscope, this protoplasm is revealed to be in continual restless movement, streaming about inside the walls of the delicate threads.

This tangle of white threads is a simple kind of fungus. It has no chlorophyll. It needs organic food, which it gets from the bread in a curious way—by exuding a digestive juice and sucking in a nutritious, digested soup in return.

In fact, it digests like an animal, and the whole world is its stomach, into which it pours enzymes and from which it absorbs the products of their action.

From time to time a branch of one of the threads rises up into the air, and it grows at its free extremity a little globule—black, in the commonest bread-mould. This globule is a spore-case, and in it hundreds of tiny spores are developed, to ripen and be freed and to float in the air in the hope of finding a new piece of dead organic matter to live on.

And occasionally there is a primitive sexual process. Two threads, growing from different spores, meet at the tips and flow together to form one mass, a mass which surrounds itself with a thick, hard case and rests for awhile, ultimately to give rise to a number of spores.

It is curious to note that in these lowly, creeping threads there is a division into sexes. There are two kinds of threads, and they will only unite with members of the opposite kind. There is no outward sign of any difference—except that one kind often grows more actively and vigorously than the other—neither do they play distinguishable parts during the actual fusion; nevertheless, the fact that there are two strains can be made out clearly.

There is no exact distinction between fungi and algae, except that the former do not possess chlorophyll. As far as form goes, some fungi and some algae are exactly alike. The fungi may be considered as algae which have given up chlorophyll, and the independence which it confers, and taken to digesting and consuming the organic substance of other creatures instead of making their own.

Bread moulds feed on dead matter, but all moulds are not so inoffensive; some prefer their food fresh. They turn their juices against living things and become parasitic digesters of the tissues of living plants or animals.

We may note that both saprophytism (living on the decay of living things) and parasitism (living on live things) occur among plants other than fungi. The disposition to throw up honest productive work and live on the activity of other beings is as strong in the vegetable as in the animal and human worms.

Among flowering plants, for example, the bird's-nest orchid is a saprophyte and the dodder and broomrape are parasites. Such plants, having little or no chlorophyll, are unpleasantly pale.

But these are shameful exceptions in a group of green, independent plants. The fungi, on the other hand, specialize in dependence; every one of their multitude of species (there are tens of thousands) is either a saprophyte or a parasite.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Broadway's night hawks are roosting in the sandwich parlors after 3 a. m. these days. Reuben, who opened the first "delicatessen divertissement," now has many imitators. And to such havens drift theatrical folk, gamblers, racketeers, gigolos and a sprinkling of morning newspapermen.

Everybody knows everybody and they lean across tables tete-a-tete and, in the unholy Broadway manner, "dish the dirt." No sections of the world or no slices of humanity are so interested in cupping ears to juicy scandal as the nocturnal prowlers of the tattling thoroughfare.

The philandering husband or wife, the actor who lost his job, the chorus girl liason, the latest gyp and its victim and even the downfall of a "pal" are morsels to be rolled under vicious tongues. None is immune when the sandwich "celebrities" begin to buzz.

Men and women who live hard themselves are invariably eager to hear of their brothers and sisters. They acquire a sort of frenzied ecstacy in learning of disgrace to others. These are the vultures that gather—like buzzards over carrion — for the early morning feast.

This half world of Broadway has one unmentionable pathological epithet for those who lift themselves above the herd. It has no back-fire for it is the sort that never reaches the ears of the accused. Yet it is a defamation which too many are always willing to believe.

As a delver into Broadway sordidness, I know many distinguished and respectable ladies and gentlemen to be under this whispered cloud for years. They are blandly in ignorance of the calumny but wherever they go there are the murmurs—sly, sinister and terrible.

Broadway will never say "No" to a libidinous suggestion. It knows a vigorous and hearty denial would be the decent thing and perhaps save a reputation. But Broadway — the Broadway that vanishes with dawn—is not interested in reputations save to tear them to tatters.

Into such a rendezvous the other morning came one of those blond, dinner-coated boys who is "on call" to furnish piano selections at apartment house parties. He is the sort whose repertoire always includes his version of "Rhapsody in Blue." For a year or so now he has been picking up $50 a night—thus becoming quite a boy in the Broadway manner. A gang of cronies invited him to join them but, searching for someone, he moved on. The conversation about him that followed was the most disgusting filth this eavesdropper ever heard. Yet a little later he passed the table again on his way out and all waved in friendly fashion, the ring leader calling out: "Bye, old pal!"

Almost every one of these reputation wreckers can tell you—as quick as that—who murdered Arnold Rothstein and what "high officials" are being protected. They know, too, who shot Joe Elwell and what became of Dorothy Arnold. Jimmy Walker and anyone of them are just like that—business of holding two fingers up close together. They can tell you the exact income of every prominent person and the name of his current sweetie—the idea of a notable without a sweetie is to them quite unthinkable.

I sat among them for an hour with a noted war correspondent who has faced death in the jungles, on sea and in the air. As we came out into the crisp chill of the early morning he was silent but after a block or so observed: "I feel as though I should go some place and be fumigated."
